WAYNE B. WHEELER IN UNKEMPT GRAVE

Once Powerful Saloon Foe Buried in Plot of His Wife's Family.

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

Columbus, Ohio, Oct. 16.—The small plot of sreceding ground, autumn leaf-covered and unkempt, that is the sole shrine of Wayne B. Wheeler in Greenlawn Cemetery here, bears mute witness to what is happening to the noble experiment in the State of its birth today.

Standing austerely at the head of the lot is a granite block memorial for the Candy family, into which this adventurer into the morals of men journeyed for his wife.

And about him, sentinel-like, are the little markers of members of the Candy tribe, little Baby Pearl, who died in 1888, and Charlie, who died in 1872; Mother Emma, wife of Thomas, in 1897, and so on down the line, but of the daughter who married Wheeler, her father and Wheeler himself, there is no trace save on the musty chart of the caretaker of the burial ground.

Cherrington Family Plot.

To the left there is the neighboring prohibition family of the Cherrington's originally Cherington, according to the story that the slabs tell.

Dry moss hangs down from the trees above, a rippling breeze sends the leaves crackling across the grass, and if there is a good fall of them one is apt to lose the barely perceptible recession that is the only marker of the resting place of the man who came suddenly from nowhere to one of the most powerful places in the United States.

It is ironical; even tragic in a way, a silent testimony of the fleetingness of men and the causes which they espouse.

History of Family.

It was from old Bob Candy, the father-in-law, proprietor of a restaurant called the Candy Kitchen, that Wheeler got much of his reforming zeal. Worshipful and God-fearing to the point of asceticism, old Candy would not even operate his restaurant on Sunday, and he paid the price which such a commercial sacrifice requires.

He and Mrs Wheeler were burned in a cottage fire—in early 1927, wasn't it?—just a few months before Wheeler himself passed away. They were about the end of the direct family line, Wheeler's apparently having long since been absorbed by the Candy fold.

But surviving close relatives or none, Columbus folk remember when Wheeler was brought home. He returned in clerical state, Protestant bishops, dry leaders and politicians whom he dominated accompanying him. If one is not mistaken, old Senator Pess was there in solemn funeral garb and mien.

It was a big funeral, as big as man's heart could want.

An unfeeling attendant smiled reminiscently:

"Oh, yeah, I remember that funeral; it lasted so long the limousine drivers got sore."

Monument Proposed.

But when it was over everybody went away, dry leaders scurrying off to determine upon this man's successor when there was none, and politicians returning to their haunts.

Somebody ought to come back now and put a wreath on that grave.

Only a week or so ago a man sent $5, to a newspaper to start a fund for a cemetery monument for Wheeler. And he spoke very feelingly in the accompanying letter about the lack of one.

The $5 was forwarded to Dr. E. K. Cherrington, of the Antisaloon League in Westerville. It is understood to have been returned to the donor.

Ohio Revolt Looms.

But I have wandered afield.. Over the now crownless head of Wheeler a new crusade has arisen. And unless the predictions of virtually every political observer in the State are wrong, it will, by the election next month of Robert J. Bulkley to the United States Senate, reduce the cause which Wheeler espoused to the almost indistinguishable traces which his forgotten grave now describe.

Ohio is in revolt, against prohibi-

Calvin Coolidge

Says: We would save ourselves from a great deal of discouragement and impatience if we had a better historical perspective. As a part of the celebration of the tercentenary in Massachusetts, much has been published in word and picture to show how people lived in the early days of our country. At Salem a small village has been constructed reproducing the ancient habitations and hand-worked industries of about 300 years ago. They show that the bare necessities of existence were about all that the most unremitting toil, hardship and exposure could produce. All that the rich then could afford would be scorned by the wage earners of the present day.

The conditions there exhibited were the usual course of life on this continent until well into the nineteenth century. Now all is changed. Comparatively, we have affluence and luxury on every hand. Free of charge our people have schools, roads, libraries and sanitation; and for a small charge, water, lights, transportation and amusements.

More important still, our progress seems cumulative. The last 25 years greatly surpasses every other like period. It would be wholesome to think more on these things. It would reduce complaint and increase contentment.

LABOR FEDERATION REELECTS OFFICERS

Green and Others Retained; Vancouver, B. C., Chosen for 1931 Conclave.

"THIRST" CHARGES MADE

Boston, Oct. 16 (A.P.).—The American Federation of Labor, in convention here, today reelected its entire set of officers, headed by President William Green, and selected Vancouver, B. C., as the 1931 convention city.

The selection of Vancouver was preceded by serious debate on the convention floor on the merits of holding the meeting in the United States or Canada. The opposing cities were Columbus, Ohio, and Salt Lake City, Utah. The vote was Vancouver, 24,388, Columbus, 4,005, and Salt Lake City, 54.

During the debate insinuations were made and denied that the delegates were placing sentiment and "thirst" ahead of judgment in determining the winner. William P. Clarke, of the Flint Glass Workers, who urged the convention be given to a United States city, told the delegates: "Those of you who may be thirsty, exercise your manhood to right the wrong done in the United States and not run away to Northwest Canada."

W. D. Mahon, of Detroit, president of the Amalgamated Street and Electric Railway Employes of America, and President Daniel J. Tobin of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs and Helpers, led the fight for Vancouver. Mahon referred to the union spirit of Northwest Canada and declared the convention would do much to acquaint union men in that section with the American Federation of Labor ideals.

Tobin said the labor strength of the West Coast cities favored Vancouver, and took exception to the remarks concerning "thirst," saying such an expression was untrue.

Thomas J. Donnelly, secretary of the Ohio State Federation, sponsored the Columbus campaign. Delegates of the Hotel and Restaurant Unions opposed the Columbus bid, saying there were no union hotels in the city. Charles P. Howard, president of the Typographical Union, supporting Columbus because of the greater impression which, he said, action taken in this country would make on the American public. He suggested the delegates look to things other than their "stomachs."

The plea for Salt Lake City was made by M. I. Thompson, president of the Utah State Federation.

Officers elected besides President Green are:

BORLAND LAW LEVY PAYMENTS REFUSED

COURT ACTION FORESEEN

The District government yesterday stopped accepting payment of assessments levied on property owners under the Borland law pending determination of its future policy by the District Commissioners.

The decision to refuse to accept payments without warning persons of the dubious status of the law was reached by William P. Richards, District assessor, after a conference with William W. Bride, corporation counsel.

Despite the widespread publicity given to the recent adverse court decisions against the Borland law and the possibility that the Commissioners will cancel outstanding assessments and move to refund all payments under the law in the last three years more than a score of persons appeared in the District Building yesterday to pay assessments. One of these was a widely known real estate dealer, who came in to pay an assessment of several thousand dollars. The payments were not accepted, District officials pointing out to the property owners that they had little to lose by waiting a few days until the Commissioners determine what shall be done.

Decision is not expected before next week. Mr. Bride and his Borland law committee, named among the assistant corporation counsel, conferred again yesterday and the result of their studies of various aspects of the situation had so many ramifications that it is likely that Mr. Bride will simply make a report to the Commissioners at their board meeting today, reserving his recommendations to be submitted after further consideration. The next regular meeting of the Commissioners will be Tuesday.

Although opposed to the Borland law, it is likely that Mr. Bride will urge the Commissioners to pursue efforts to enforce the law through further court action. It may be that the United States Supreme Court will be asked again to review a decision of the District Supreme Court in one of the important decisions restricting applicability of the law in neighborhoods where there are triangular or irregularly shaped lots. This decision has not been passed on by the Court of Appeals, and if the United States Supreme Court refuses again to review the District Supreme Court decision, the decision will be presented to the Court of Appeals. Because of the urgency of the matter it is believed that a final decision can be had within two months.

If the decision is upheld, then there will be so little left of the Borland

CANNON ASKS $5,000,000 IN LIBEL ACTION

ALLEGED ARTICLES PRINTED IN CAPITAL

BELIEVES PUBLISHER DIRECTED ATTACK

Claiming that his position as a minister of the Gospel and as a bishop of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, had been damaged, Bishop James Cannon, jr., filed suit yesterday in District of Columbia Supreme Court, seeking to recover $5,000,000 damages from William Randolph Hearst, millionaire publisher, for articles alleged to have been published in the defendant's newspapers.

Mr. Hearst's address in the suit was given as care of the Washington Times and the Washington Herald, and the question was raised immediately after the filing of the suit as to how service ever could be made or Mr. Hearst brought into court unless he inadvertently visited Washington. Under the rules of the court service must be made personally on the defendant.

The alleged libelous statements are said to have been published in the New York Evening Journal, the Washington Herald and the Washington Times and the Los Angeles Times, and inference is made that the publication was made at the "instance and direction" of Mr. Hearst.

Charges Against Publisher.

In this connection the bishop asserts that he "is informed, believes and therefore avers that the defendant stated to one or more of the editors of said defendant in December of last year that they had lost a great opportunity to link Bishop Cannon conclusively with the affairs of his son in California and that had the matter been handled properly then it would have been of great value to the said defendant in discrediting Bishop Cannon with the general public."

Continuing, the bishop declares that at that time Mr. Hearst told the editors that next to the World Court matter the "most important duty of the Hearst papers all over the country now is the destruction of the influence of the group which Bishop Cannon represents and controls."

Mr. Hearst, according to Bishop Cannon, told the editors that the best way this could be done was "by constant, though, careful assaults "upon the bishop."

Bishop Alleges Inquiry.

The bishop charges that investigations have been made of his other children "and that there is little hope of any news of or concerning them." He asserts the investigation indicates that Mr. Hearst "believes there is a possibility of connecting Bishop Cannon with the newly organized school at El Monte, Calif., with which his son is connected," and the bishop charges further that Mr. Hearst stated that "it would be of great importance if this story could break simultaneously with devolpments in the new charges which have been brought by members of his church against Bishop Cannon."

Bishop Cannon claims that the Hearst papers libeled him by publishing a statement to the effect that the night before the death of his wife two years ago he had been in the apartment of another woman but had kept in touch with his sons who were watching at their mother's bedside.

TWO MYSTERY WITNESSES AMONG 44 WHO WILL TAKE STAND AGAINST CAMPBELL

Each Believed to Have Seen Vital Part of Baker Murder.

ONE SAW CAR PARKED EARLY FATAL EVENING

Defense Foiled in Effort to Examine Death Automobile.

TRIP IS MADE TO FIND GIRL'S FATHER GONE

Pastor Apparently Took the Machine With Him to Quiet Parley.

Two mystery witnesses are among the 44 persons who will testify for the prosecution when Herbert M. Campbell, charged with the murder of Mary A. Baker, faces a jury in District Supreme Court Tuesday.

Each of the two, neither of whom has appeared in the cast heretofore, is understood to have witnessed some vital detail of the tragedy of the young Government clerk whose bullet-riddled body was found in a culvert near Arlington National Cemetery last April 12.

While no indication as to the nature of the testimony to be presented to the court by these witnesses could be had last night, it is known that the Government considers them of primary importance in its case against Campbell, who first entered the affair several months ago when he turned over to Sheriff Howard B. Fields, of Arlington County, Va., a revolver which he declared to be the gun with which Miss Baker was killed.

Two Live in District.

The mystery witnesses, James Alford and Benjamin C. Craddock, are residents of the District.

Alford, who formerly lived at 1165 Thirteenth street northwest, where he occupied a furnished room, has moved from that address and left no forwarding address. Police are seeking him, but are believed thus far to have been unable to locate him. Craddock lives at 4623 Forty-third place northwest.

Two other witnesses now appear in the case. They are Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Turnbull, of 1424 R street northwest. They will testify that they saw Mary Baker's auto parked where it was found on April 12 while they were driving about 8:45 o'clock the night of the murder. It was dark and unoccupied, they will say. They say it again at the same spot while returning at midnight to their home at 105 Luray avenue, Alexandria, Va., where they were living at the time. They moved into the District yesterday.

Another witness who is considered highly important by the prosecution, but whose testimony likewise is somewhat shrouded in mystery, is William E. Willis, superintendent of the Arlington Experimental Farm of the Department of Agriculture at Rosslyn, Va.

Previously Mr. Willis had been known in the case only as the man who turned over to the police the keys to Miss Baker's car after they had been found by David A. Richmond, an employe at the farm, who had given them to Peter B. Graeff, another employe.

Car Seen Early on Fatal Night.

It was learned last night, however, that Mr. Willis has told Assistant United States Attorney William H. Collins, in charge of prosecution, that he had seen a car believed to be Miss Baker's, about 6 or 7 o'clock on the evening of April 11, parked at the spot where Miss Baker's automobile was found on the following day by Deputy Sheriff Archie H. Richards, of Arlington County.

Mr. Collins declined to discuss the parts to be played in the case by any of these witnesses. He announced last night that James Kirkland and

BRITAIN WILL ISSUE BEER-RATION CARDS

TO USE CONTROL BOOKS

London, Oct. 16 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Britain is going to issue "beer cards," similar to food ration cards which were introduced during the war. This is the outcome of months of deliberation on the part of the royal commission on licensing, which has been charged to combat the drink evil and establish greater sobriety in the nation.

The rationing system is similar to that found in Sweden, where it is known as the Bratt sytem. Under the Swedish mode of enforcing temperance nobody is allowed to buy more liquor in the course of a month than it is calculated that the average abstemious person would feel any need for.

Each person receives a control book containing registration form which must be handed in at the time of each purchase. Single women and young men are allowed less than older people.

Purchases are limited to particular shops, where the customers' names are registered. This control also affects the supplies in restaurants. A certain amount of food must be ordered with a certain quantity of liquor.

The ration books issued in Sweden are not an acknowledged privilege of citizenship. The application is made the subject of such strict inquiries as: Who is he? What is he? How much can he afford to spend on drink without deprivation to himself and family? What are his drinking habits? An unfavorable record results in denial of any ration.

It is claimed that the Bratt scheme reduced drunkenness in Sweden from 58,909 in 1913 to about 29,900 in 1926. During the same period drunkenness convictions in England and Wales declined from 188,877 to 67,126, an even greater proportion without the Bratt system.

Mexico Seizes Papers On Red Plans in U. S.

Mexico City, Oct. 16 (A.P.).—Important documents bearing on Communist plans in the United States have been found on a Red captured here, Police Chief Mijares Palencia said tonight.

The contents of the documents were not revealed, but it is understood they were considered of such importance a special messenger left immediately to deliver them to Manuel Tellez, Mexican Ambassador in Washington, who will turn them over to the United States Government.

The police official said his men were fighting to prevent the use of the country as a place for plots against the United States. He added that correspondence on Communists in recent months proved coordination of activities among Communists in Russia, the United States and Mexico.

New York, Oct. 16 (A.P.).—A series of four Communist distu: nces within a few hours today reached a climax in an outbreak in City Hall Park in which demonstrators were dispersed by charging mounted police. The Communist candidate for lieutenant governor, two other men and three women were arrested.

Meanwhile Communist spokesmen entered City Hall to read a petition concerning unemployment and protest to Mayor James J. Walker against what they called police brutality. In the disturbance which accompanied their ejection one man was beaten with blackjacks and kicked by detectives, bystanders said.

DISCIPLES ENGAGE IN VARIED PROGRAM

DINNER GIVEN IN HOTEL

Conferences addressed to the extension of missionary activities, recommendations supporting the prohibition laws, and the dedication of the baptistry at the new National City Christian Church featured yesterday's session of the international convention of Disciples of Christ.

Speakers at morning meetings emphasized the current year, which marks the 1,900th anniversary of the Pentecost, as one which accentuates the church's responsibilities in the missionary field. "Partnership in a World-Wide Enterprise" was discussed by Dr. Paul G. Preston, of Dallas, Tex. Roy G. Ross, secretary of the United Christian Missionary Society, spoke on "Teaching With the Master Teacher."

Among others who addressed the convention on the general topic of mission work was Mrs. Alda R. Teachout, of Indianapolis, and William F. Rothenburger, vice president and treasurer of the Association for the Promotion of Christian Unity. Opportunities for women in the work of the church were discussed by Mrs. Teachout, while Mr. Rothenburger spoke on church architecture and the necessity for "exalting the sanctuary."

The Board of Temperance and Social Welfare's report on prohibition was expected to be accepted without discussion today, as the convention is not a delegate body and hence has no authority to take definite action. It was explained that the recommendations supporting the dry laws represented a routine action on the part of the board.

Advertising Decreases Cost

By enabling a merchant to secure business volume, advertising permits him to decrease his percentage of profit while increasing his net profits. Without advertising it might be possible to sell three coats at a profit of $10 each while with advertising nine or more coats might be sold at a profit of $5 each, thus directly benefiting the consumer and the merchant as well. The cost of newspaper advertising itself is a negligible factor when it is considered that 100 reader families of The Washington Post may be reached with an advertisement, the size of a letter, for an average cost of only 15c. . . . It pays to read, and heed, the advertisements.

ttorney's office, would assist him in presenting the Government's testimony to the jury.

In addition to the witnesses named in preceding paragraphs, the prosecution will call Traffic Policeman Ray Corbeam, of Arlington County, who discovered Miss Baker's body; Dr. Benjamin H. Swain, Arlington County coroner who performed the autopsy on Miss Baker's body; Dr. A. Magruder MacDonald, who assisted in the autopsy as the representative of the District.

Maj. Val E. Mittenberger, Army medical officer of Fort Myer, Va., and Dr. W. C. Wellburne, assistant coroner of Arlington County, who also were present at the autopsy.

Capt. Kelly to Appear.

Capt. Edward J. Kelly, then chief of the homicide squad and now chief of the District Detective Bureau, who has been in charge of all investigations of the case for the District, also will appear as a witness for the prosecution, as will William C. Gloth, Commonwealth's attorney of Arlington County; Samuel Hardy, Department of Justice agent who collaborated in the investigation, and a dozen other police officers of Virginia and the District who have participated in the investigation.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh R. Wood, of 4317 River road northwest, and Francis T. Rice, of 1607 I street northwest, who have reported witnessing a battle between a man and woman in a car resembling Miss Baker's on the Ellipse early on the evening of April 11, also have been called. Mr. and Mrs. Wood partially identified Campbell as the man they say they saw in the automobile.

Another important witness for the prosecution will be Clarence L. Joneston, of Bladensburg, Md., who found Miss Baker's clothes in a sewer trap some distance from the point where her body was discovered. Among this apparel was a man's glove which Campbell at one time identified as his property, although he subsequently repudiated this identification.

Girls Will Be Heard.

Miss Olga Skinner and Miss Mildred Sperry, who shared a house with Miss Baker at 217 Beach street, Lyon Park, Va., also will be heard for the prosecution, as will Miss Ora Smith, of the All States Hotel, and Miss Inez May Eyre, of 1330 L street northwest, close friends of the slain girl.

Three recognized ballistics experts who have identified Campbell's gun as that with which the lethal bullets were fired also are being called. They are Col. Calvin Goddard, of Northwestern University, Chicago; his assistant, Francis T. Harmon; Dr. William Souder, of the Bureau of Standards, and Detective Sergt. John H. Fowler, ballistics expert for the Police Department.

Detective Sergt. Fred Sandberg, fingerprint expert of the Police Department, has been summoned, as has his assistant, Viggo Larsen. W. S. Rice, photograph expert of the Bureau of Standards, also is listed as a witness for the Government. Mr. and Mrs. James A. LeMaster, of 513 Eighth street northeast, who have reported seeing a man running through Arlington Cemetery, about 7 o'clock on the night of the murder, from the direction of the spot where Miss Baker's car was found, are others who will repeat their statements to the jury.

Trip Proves Futile.

Efforts of Dr. Albert H. Hamilton and his son, Robert A. Hamilton, microchemists of Auburn, N. Y., to examine Mary Baker's automobile were fruitless yesterday because of their inability to find the car.

Dr. Hamilton and his son went to the home of Miss Baker's father at Oak Grove, Va., but upon arrival there found that he had gone to a church conference at another Virginia town, and apparently had made the trip in his daughter's automobile. Dr. Hamilton said he would not be able to return to Oak Grove until Sunday, when he will make definite arrangements to examine the car.

The microchemists have been retained as witnesses for the defense, it was learned yesterday.

The privilege of examining the negatives of photographs to be used by the prosecution at the trial of Herbert M. Campbell for the murder of Miss Baker will be demanded by the defense, it was announced by Campbell's attorney, Charles Henry Smith, of Alexandria.

Umbrella Examination Asked.

Dr. Hamilton also requested Mr. Collins for permission to remove portions of the frame and covering of Miss Baker's umbrella for the purpose of examining stains which he believes may have been made by human blood.

It is Mr. Smith's purpose to have all photographs in connection with the case made by the Government examined by Dr. Hamilton and his son at the trial, which is scheduled to begin in District Supreme Court next Tuesday.

Dr. Hamilton explained that unless preparations for such examination were made in advance the prosecution might contend at the trial that the pictures were not available. The photographs particularly sought are those made by Col. Goddard and Dr. Souder.

Experts at Variance.

These experts have reported that microphotographic examination of the bullets which killed Mary Baker showed marks corresponding with those found on other test bullets fired from the pistol submitted to the police by Campbell. Dr. Hamilton, on the other hand, reported after investigation that there is no similarity between the marks on the death bullets and those on test bullets which he has fired from the same gun and that he was convinced beyond doubt that the death bullets could not have been fired from Campbell's gun.

Mr. Collins stated that he would not permit removal of any part of Miss Baker's umbrella until after he had been requested by Mr. Smith, as otherwise the possibility might develop that the Government would lack part of its exhibits when the trial began.

FEDERAL DEFECTION REPORTED IN BRAZIL

Entire Regiment Goes Over to Insurgents, Rebel Dispatch States.

GOVERNMENT IS SILENT

Porto Alegre, Oct. 16 (A.P.).—The surrender of an entire regiment of Federal infantry in the State of Minas Geraes and defection of large federal forces to the insurgents were reported in an official rebel communique today.

The communique stated that a heavy concentration of troops was in progress along the Parana-Sao Paulo frontier, a region where federal and insurgent armies have been gathering for the last few days for what has loomed up as a major engagement. Observers in fact today expressed the opinion that the present gathering of troops along this line was the greatest concentration ever seen in South America.

While not stating the number of soldiers involved, the insurgents made the claim that 60 companies of federals at Catharina had gone over to the revolution. These men were said to be under the command of Capt. Mario Carvalho. Two machine guns and much more material were taken over.

The federal regiment reported to have surrendered was described as the Eleventh Infantry stationed in the State of Minas Geraes. These troops had been surrounded by insurgents and their surrender was said to be without condition. In reporting this victory, the official rebel communique stated that thus far the rebels had not met with a reverse in Minas Geraes.

Reports received during the day told of scattered engagements along the Parana-Sao Paulo line.

(Newspaper dispatches received in Montevideo said that a battle was being fought along this frontier, but no confirmation of this was received. These reports said that the federal army had defeated the insurgents, inflicting 400 casualties.)

While the rebels yesterday were claiming progress in their campaign against the government, the official government statement said that positions of forces on the Parana-Sao Paulo line were unchanged. The government also asserted that loyal troops were advancing on their objectives in the southern part of Minas Geraes.

Federal reserves and volunteers have been steadily gathering at various training camps, and men from half a dozen cities yesterday reported for duty.

Mexico City, Oct. 16 (A.P.).—The heads of all branches of the government are working in harmony, President Ortiz Rubio told 500 railroad workers and former soldiers today. Reiterating that the Mexican political crisis was ended, the president assured the group, which called upon him at Chapultepec Castle, that the seriousness of the situation had been greatly exaggerated by men who spread rumors in an effort to benefit through speculation during abnormal conditions.

He blamed "personal politics" for the crisis and said that now everything had been smoothed out without serious results.

Prior to the naming of Gen. Lazaro Cardenas as head of the National Revolutionary party, members of the party executive committee and prominent figures in Congress visited the president yesterday to assure him that both the party and the Congress would give him unanimous support.

Ortiz Rubio thanked his visitors for their allegiance and, according to versions printed in today's press, said he would prefer to resign rather than to try to govern if he did not have the support of Congress and the party. It was on the president's suggestion that Gen. Cardenas was elected head of the political group which is dominant in Mexican affairs.

The Mexican political situation recently resulted in a number of administrative changes, including the resignation of the secretary of labor and of the chief of the federal district, likewise the president's secretary. This followed upon a speech by Gen. Plutarco Elias Calles, who declared at Monterey that the administration must be purged of noncooperative elements.

Man Faces Charge Of Manslaughter

Alleged Driver of Auto in Which William Ferrell Was Killed Held.

Clarence L. Williams, alleged driver of the automobile in which William Ferrell was mortally injured as the result of a collision with a tree at Hunting Hill, Md., yesterday was held for action of the grand jury by Judge Charles W. Woodward in Montgomery County police court at Rockville on a charge of manslaughter.

Williams and Ferrell and two other men were riding in the car at the time of the crash. Ferrell died several days later at the Georgetown Hospital. On the day after the accident Williams reported to Rockville police that he was the owner of the car and that he had been a passenger at the time of the crash.

Police claim that they later found that Williams was the driver and placed him under arrest. Williams pleaded guilty to the charge of manslaughter, but Judge Woodward refused to accept a plea of guilty and directed a not guilty plea be entered.

DECLINE OF PESETA CHIEF TOPIC IN SPAIN

Many Conferences Held by King; Strike Situation Reported Quiet.

SPECULATION IS DENIED

Madrid, Oct. 16 (A.P.).—Continued depreciation in the value of the peseta placed Spain's business problems ahead of even labor difficulties as a topic of public discussion.

Although the exchange improved slightly late in the day, closing at 50.40 to the pound sterling and 10.37 to the dollar, the government gave almost its full attention to solution of its economic puzzle.

The king continued to receive national leaders of politics and finance in a series of conferences.

Reports published in Spain that the oil monopoly was speculating in foreign exchange and had injured the peseta value were denied in an official note from monopoly headquarters which stated only a sufficient amount of pounds and dollars had been purchased to meet current foreign obligations.

Formal investigation into Tuesday's disturbances in the University of Barcelona were supplemented today by announcement that the rector, Diaz, whose resignation preceded the students' outbreak, had been appointed honorary rector of the institution.

Classes at the university remained suspended, but examinations were proceeding.

The strike situation at Malaga, Seville, and elsewhere was comparatively quiet.

WASHINGTON BURIAL PLOT PLANS PASSED

Fine Arts Group Approves Restroation of Site at Wakefield, Va.

LINKED TO BICENTENNIAL

The Fine Arts commission yesterday approved plans for the restoration of the Washington family burial plot at Wakefield, Va., which had been submitted by Edward W. Donn, architect of the Wakefield National Memorial Association. Members of the Fine Arts Commission propose to visit the site today for a personal inspection.

It is planned to restore the burial place to as nearly as the same condition as when it was viewed by George Washington. The home of Washington at Wakefield is being restored to its original condition and is expected to be complete in time for the Bicentennial celebration in 1932.

Studies for the further development of Meridian Hill Park and a proposal for a site for the Navy and Marine Memorial to be erected in honor of Americans who lost their lives at sea, were presented by Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d, director of Public Buildings and Public Works.

The site tentatively selected is in East Potomac Park near the river, but the association sponsoring the memorial is anxious for an early definite decision, as it is anxious to break ground on Navy Day, October 27.

The commission took under advisement designs for markers at the entrances of the District of Columbia and a Navy Department design for a medal to presented to members of the Byrd Antarctic expedition.

The commission also considered further plans for the District Municipal Center and designs of lampposts intended for the Arlington Memorial Bridge. Plans for the Kennedy-Warren Apartment Building, overlooking Klingle Valley, and designs for a bank building at Fairfax Court House, were approved. Plans for the reconstruction of the State, War and Navy Building to conform with the architecuture of the Treasury Building were submitted by Secretary Mellon.

New Monocacy Bridge Near Frederick Open

Special to The Washington Post.

Frederick, Md., Oct. 16.—The new steel bridge over the Monocacy River near Frederick Junction, built on the site of the old structure which collapsed last June, killing three people and injuring seven, was opened to traffic today. The bridge is on the Georgetown pike and is the shortest route to Washington from this city.

The distance from Frederick to Washington over the Georgetown pike is 41 miles and over the other two routes 49 miles. The road traverses the Monocacy battlefield and is used by the majority of Washingtonians coming to Frederick.

'Gentleman' Bank Robber Is Sentenced to 10 Years

Harry Lee Watson, Lone Middle West Holdup Man, Who Was Always Polite While Pointing Guns at Cashiers, to Go to Leavenworth.

..Chicago, Oct. 16 (A.P.).—Harry Lee Watson, whose bank robbing career has left a long trail of empty tills throughout the Middle West, today was sentenced to serve ten years in the Federal Prison at Leavenworth, Kans.

Described by many of his victims as a "gentleman robber," Watson has confessed robbing 15 banks and is suspected of having looted many more. His field of operations has extended from Illinois and Indiana into Kansas, Missouri, and Oklahoma.

For years operatives of bankers' associations have tracked Watson and studied his methods. Comparing notes, they found that he was invariably calm during a robbery, that he was always polite though firm, that he assiduously avoided the use of profanity.

Legends sprang up about him. He was reported to have given large amounts of money to charity. It was told that he purchased a farm in the Ozark Mountains, where he was captured early in August, to settle down and enjoy domestic life with his wife, a circus performer.

Watson was captured by postal authorities and it was in Federal court that he was sentenced today. He admitted having robbed a Troy Grove, Ill., bank on July 9. A postoffice is operated in conjunction with the bank and in addition to bank funds he took Government money. Samuel L. Bottom, his accomplice in this and many other robberies, was sentenced to eight years in the penitentiary.

Although Watson is still in his thirties, his forays in crime have been traced back to 1923. Operatives say he had no gang. Usually the robberies were in small towns.

One of Watson's associates, a man named Langtry, was killed in an attempted robbery in Indianapolis in 1929. Watson was a target but escaped. A majority of his robberies, operatives said, were consummated without a hitch.

PACT FLIER FINISHES TRIP THAT COST LIFE

Reaches New York With Japan Ratification as Escort Lies Dead in West.

BATTLED BIG BLIZZARD

Mitchel Field, N. Y., Oct. 16 (A.P.). Carrying documents signifying Japan's ratification of the London Naval Treaty, Lieut. I. E. Woodring landed here tonight after a transcontinental journey by air from Victoria, British Columbia.

Lieut. Woodring arrived in a plane piloted by Lieut. Stanley Olmstead, of Mitchel Field. Due to dangerous weather over the Alleghenies, the official messenger forsook at Cleveland the Army pursuit plane in which he made most of the trip and transferred to the safer Fleetster ship piloted by Lieut. Olmstead. He arrived at the field at 7:15 p. m. (E. S. T.), but his coming was unheralded and it was some time before it became known.

The documents will be placed aboard the liner Leviathan, which sails Saturday for Southampton. The swift trip across the country cost the life of one man—Lieut. William W. Caldwell, piloting an escort plane, who crashed in a blizzard near Lookout, Wyo., yesterday.

Body Taken From Plane.

Cheyenne, Wyo., Oct. 16 (A.P.).—Speeding across the continent on a mission of peace, Lieut. William W. Caldwell, Army flier, lost his life in the crash of his fast pursuit plane in a raging mountain blizzard yesterday.

Crushed and broken in the wreckage of his plane, Caldwell's body was found today on a hilltop near Lookout in the rugged country 70 miles west of here. It was apparent his plane had plunged to the ground at terrific speed during weather characterized by veteran mail fliers as "zero-zero"—no ceiling and no visibility.

Caldwell's flying companion, Lieut. Irving A. Woodring, whose plane bore the document of Japanese ratification of the London naval treaty, made his way through the storm and continued on his mission to New York from Victoria, B. C.

Army officers from Fort Francis E. Warren claimed the body of the dead airman.

Woodring Forced Down.

Lieut. Woodring also was lost in the swirling snowstorm that cost his companion's life, but was able after two forced landings to make his way here.

The wreckage of Caldwell's plane was discovered by Ray W. Meskimen, Boeing air mail pilot, who sighted it from the air and reported to officials here. John Cable and Pat Gossett, Boeing air mail pilots, landed a searching plane a few feet from Caldwell's wrecked ship. They said the ground was level and a safe landing could have been made if there had been visibility.

A pump station operator about a mile and a half from the scene of Caldwell's crash, timed the tragedy as about 2:30 p. m. yesterday. He said he heard a resounding crash at that time, but was unable to locate the plane, although he searched for it on foot. Lieut. Woodring said he became separated from Caldwell about 2:15 yesterday.

The terrific speed at which the Army ship crashed was shown by the fact that the motor was hurled 50 feet from the shattered fuselage. Splinters from the plane were scattered for many feet in all directions.

(Associated Press.)

Lieut. William W. Caldwell is of the Air Corps Reserve. War Department records give his home as that of his father, Fred S. Caldwell, Oakland, Calif. He was born at Lewiston, Idaho, April 1, 1904. He was unmarried. He completed his flying training at the Advanced Flying School, Kelly Field, Tex., October 12, 1929, and then received his commission in the Air Corps Reserve. He was ordered to active duty July 2 last at Rockwell Field, Calif.

Ambassador Debuchi, of Japan, called at the State Department yesterday to express his condolences over the death of Lieut. Caldwell. The ambassador's call was made with instructions from the Tokyo foreign office.

Washington Film Plans Advancing

Representative Bloom Sees Mount Vernon Group Members.

(Associated Press.)

Arrangements were nearing completion here yesterday for the filming of the picture which is to record the life of George Washington from boyhood to death.

Mount Vernon is to be the setting for much of the production, which is to be sent over the country in connection with the celebration of the 200th anniversary of the birth of Washington in 1932.

Representative Sol Bloom, of New York, an associate director of the George Washington Bicentennial Commission, was here yesterday to help mobilize the resources of the motion picture industry and of the Government for the undertaking. A conference was held with the Mount Vernon Ladies' Association, which, he said, is placing all of the original furnishings of the Washington home at the disposal of the picture producers. Mr. Bloom has arranged with the Eastman Educational Film Co. to take the film.

NYE QUIZ WITNESS EXPLAINS STABBING

Followed Gridiron Discussion, Says Cox; Fund Probe Not Involved.

ATTACKER HELD DRUNK

Nashville, Tenn., Oct. 16 (A.P.).—Mystery surrounding the stabbing last night of a witness summoned before the Senate campaign funds investigating committee was cleared today with a formal explanation by the victim that the incident occurred while he was trying to quiet a man who was "intoxicated and inclined to be boisterous."

Reports that James N. Cox, 55-year-old telephone executive of Cookeville, had been wounded seriously in his hotel room also simmered down to the statement by his physician that the wound was "little more than a scratch."

Mr. Cox was to have appeared today before the committee that is inquiring into the Democratic senatorial primary in Tennessee.

Argued Football Game.

"Of course," his statement said, "this occurrence had nothing whatever to do with the Nye investigation." He promised that he would be at the committee's disposal to give "any and all information in my possession" as soon as he recovers.

In his statement, Mr. Cox explained that several friends were in his room last evening when the "intoxicated" man, whom he knew, entered and "resented my efforts" to quiet him. His friends then left, he said.

The only discussion prior to the incident was about the coming Tennessee-Vanderbilt football game, Mr. Cox set forth, and the cutting had nothing to do with any political matter. Before issuing his formal statement, Mr. Cox had been quoted by a newspaper reporter as saying an argument had ensued over the football discussion and one man had hit another. He then had been left in the room with the man who had been struck, Mr. Cox was quoted, and the next thing he knew he was being placed in an ambulance.

Leaves for Memphis.

Chairman Gerald P. Nye, of the Senate committee, said there was connection between the stabbing incident and the committee's inquiry.

Testimony citing purported irregularities in the conduct of the Democratic senatorial primary in Shelby and Macon Counties last August occupied the attention of the Senate campaign funds investigating committee today.

However, before leaving tonight for Memphis, Chairman Nye told newspapermen that on the strength of information received at the Nashville hearing, "as an individual," he would not feel warranted in objecting to the credentials of any of the men nominated for the Senate in Tennessee's August primary.

"However," he said, "the investigation is not completed, and the committee will await further facts and figures from the candidates and others." He said he did not know whether the committee would hold a hearing in Memphis tomorrow.

Plan to Put Jail at Home Of National Anthem Scored

Would Be as Appropriate in Arlington Cemetery, Wet Leader Protests, After Proposal to Build Federal Lockup at Fort McHenry.

Baltimore, Oct. 16 (A.P.).—A proposal to establish a Federal jail at Fort McHenry, the birthplace of "The Star-Spangled Banner" and a national shrine, brought a number of protests today.

The fact that the Department of Justice is considering such a proposal was made clear by Harry L. Robinson, assistant comptroller of customs and a member of the Federal Business Association, which met today. Speaking as chairman of the real estate and Federal building committee, Mr. Robinson outlined the proposal and asked that the association take no action until his committee had made an investigation.

Promises of action by the American Legion and the Baltimore Association of Commerce were made by officials of those organizations.

Joseph Philip Hill, wet leader when in Congress and again a candidate, made public a letter to the Attorney General at Washington asserting it would be as appropriate to place a Federal prison "in the middle of Arlington Cemetery or in the home of Washington at Mount Vernon."

Fort McHenry, on the outskirts of the city, is now headquarters for Maryland for the Federal prohibition department.

Georgian Leader Declares Solicitation Made Off Federal Property.

LAW VIOLATION DENIED

Atlanta, Oct. 16 (A.P.).—Declaration that no law was violated in soliciting political funds from civil service employes off Federal property was made today in a statement issued by Roscoe Pickett, Republican leader.

The statement was in reply to charges of Senator William J. Harris in Washington yesterday that George L. Blossom, Macon Republican leader, had asked Government employes to furnish financial aid to Dr. J. J. Carswell, Republican opponent of Representative William O. Lankford for Congress in the Eleventh Georgia District.

Mr. Pickett, who is vice chairman of the Republican State Central committee, headed by Internal Revenue Collector Josiah T. Rose, said:

"There is no particular sanctity about a civil service employe, and it is not contrary to any Federal law or regulation for an employe of the Government, whether possessing a civil service status or not, to contribute of his funds for a political purpose, nor is it contrary to any Federal law or regulation to solicit funds for political purposes from a Federal employe, whether having a civil service status or not, provided such solicitation is not made on a Government reservation or within a Government building."

"No solicitation was made by Mr. Blossom," the statement continued, "or any member of his committee, from any employe of the Government in any Federal building, nor was any threat or coercion used in asking contributions * * * ."

Dr. Carswell is the only Republican Congressional candidate in the State in the forthcoming general election.

G.O.P. VOTES URGED AS DEPRESSION END

ASKS TARIFF SILENCE

(Associated Press.)

Secretary Davis last night accused the Democratic party of deliberately hindering the administration in its efforts to restore business stability and urged the reelection of a Republican Congress as a means of accelerating recovery from the present depression.

If the Democrats should gain control of Congress, he said in a radio address over the Columbia Broadcasting System, they would immediately attempt a downward revision of the tariff.

This would force the tariff issue into the presidential election of 1932, he added, and result in tariff discussion and uncertainty for the next three years.

The Cabinet member said the depression of 1921 was ended largely by the operation of the Fordney-McCumber tariff bill and he predicted the Smoot-Hawley act would have the same effect upon the present slump.

Sees Quick Recovery.

After reviewing the economic history of the last decade, Mr. Davis said it was impossible for him to doubt that America is due to "emerge from the present depression as we did from the last one in 1921, and perhaps in quicker time."

He termed the present slump "nothing to the panic we would have had but for the President's action in calling conferences of industrial, financial, and labor leaders for the purpose of maintaining confidence."

This is "the outstanding fact" of the Hoover administration, he said, adding that the President "has laid a foundation that will long serve to keep American industry stable in the future."

Construction Initiated.

"He has initiated construction and other measures that have relieved immediate unemployment and will lead to the way to the future abolition of unemployment," Davis asserted.

"In fact," he continued, "there is one other outstanding fact that will be noted for the Hoover administration. That fact is that the opposition party did everything in its power to hinder the President in his work of stabilizing industry and reducing unemployment."

Cumberland Citizen Dies.

Cumberland, Md., Oct. 16 (Special). Edward D. Baker, retired stone mason, died yesterday at his home on Baltimore avenue, aged 62. He is survived by his wife and five children. He was a brother of John, Henry and Lewis Baker and of Mrs. Christopher Kelly, of this city. Mr. Baker was a member of the Loyal Order of Moose and of the Beneficial Society of SS. Peter and Paul Catholic Church. The funeral will be held from the church tomorrow morning.

The girl is about 5 feet 5 inches tall, weighs 110 pounds, has dark brown hair, brown eyes, and was dressed in a red and blue sport suit, light coat, flesh colored stockings and black shoes.

NEW HOME CHOSEN FOR YOUNG HOOVER

Ailing Son of President Will Spend Winter in House at Asheville.

PROGRESS IS REPORTED

(Associated Press.)

A bungalow overlooking Asheville, N. C., was selected yesterday as the home of Herbert Hoover, jr., during his convalescence this winter from a tubercular infection.

The 27-year-old son of President and Mrs. Hoover is to leave the presidential camp in the Virginia mountains early next month and occupy the home of Henry Berger on Sunset Mountain.

Capt. Joel T. Boone, in announcing the selection, said that the decision had been based largely upon Asheville's proximity to Washington, affording easy accessibility to the patient's family.

The bungalow is built at an altitude of about 2,500 feet, the same as that at the Virginia lodge. It overlooks a golf course and the City of Asheville, while in the distance Pisgah Mountain is visible.

A six months' lease has been taken on it with the option of a similar extension.

Asheville, N. C., Oct. 16 (A.P.).—The home Herbert Hoover, jr., plans to occupy here this winter is owned by Henri Berger, of Asheville and Paris. Fred L. Seeley, of Asheville, through whom arrangements for taking the house were made, described it as "a bungalow of six or seven rooms."

William Jennings Bryan eight years ago spent a summer in the house.

Mrs. Herbert Hoover, jr., who has been at the Virginia camp with her husband, is expected to precede him to North Carolina early in November and arrange for occupancy of the house, which has been vacant for some time. Their three children are to remain in California.

The son of the President took an indefinite leave of absence from his work after his health broke down early in September. At the time of the diagnosis Dr. Boone said that a complete and early recovery was probable. Yesterday he said the patient had shown satisfactory progress since then.

and upon receiving word she was dying caught the next train to Washington.

The bishop also charges that he was libeled by publication in the New York Journal of the statement that he had "kept his promise to Goldhurst and obtained the services of Slemp & Price, Washington attorneys" whom the bishop is alleged to have represented "to be the real thing" for handling cases in Federal courts."

All Statements Branded False.

Bishop Cannon declares that the inference gained from that statement and another published later was that he had sought attorneys for the purpose of keeping Goldhurst from being prosecuted.

All the statements alleged to have been published are branded as false and malicious by the bishop, who charges that Hearst has persistently pursued him and the members of his family for "the purpose of attempting to discredit" and "destroy" him.

Attorney Andrew Wilson appears for Bishop Cannon.

San Francisco, Oct. 16 (A.P.).—Informed by the Associated Press Bishop James Cannon, jr., had filed a $5,000,000 libel suit against him in Washington today, William Randolph Hearst, the publisher, said:

"I have no comment to make."

baptistry of the National City Christian Church, at Thomas Circle, with a sermon calling for "revelation and participation in the plan of God."

"Here is the failure of the average church," he said. "It preaches salvation by character, when all salvation is by Christ. It preaches social service as a grand means to an end, when it is just the flowering of a Christian life. God is no trailer; he is the captain."

Hotel Dinner Held.

Charles C. Chapman, of Fullerton, Calif., presided at the service, which was one of a series preceding the dedication of the entire church on Sunday morning. Dr. Earle Wilfley, pastor of the church, led the prayer.

Conferences yesterday afternoon were completed in time for a dinner at the Washington Hotel, given in honor of the thousands who contributed funds for the erection of the $1,750,000 National City Christian Church. Robert A. Long, of Kansas City, Mo., president of the international convention, opened the program with an address tracing the campaign which culminated in the fund's subscription. The new church, he said, should stand as a living example of the denomination's accomplishments and a perpetual reminder of its future responsibilities.

Other speakers at the dinner were Dr. Wilfley, pastor of the church; Palmer Clarkson, of St. Louis, and Harry Rogers, of Tulsa, Okla., members of the administrative committee of the building program. Numerous boards and committees of the convention met yesterday at the Mayflower, Raleigh and Hamilton Hotels.

Sewell W. Key, special assistant to the Attorney General and chief of the Department of Justice's division of taxes for the last six years, yesterday left this governmental position and assumed his new duties as an attorney in the law firm of which Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt is a member.

Mrs. Willebrandt confirmed the announcement and said that Mr. Key will be associated with the Washington offices of the firm, with offices in the Investment Building, which bears the name of Willebrandt, Horowitz & McCloskey. Both of her partners maintain offices in Los Angeles, Calif., Frederick Horowitz having been a partner since formation of the firm about 15 years ago, and P. N. McCloskey having joined the firm more than a year ago.

Mr. Key in his position had the direction of the preparation of the hundreds of tax cases filed in the circuit courts of appeal and the Supreme Court with the department as a party. He specialized particularly in income tax laws.

Mrs. Willebrandt, in confirming the announcement, highly praised the work of Mr. Key during their association in the department and declared that he was recognized as a specialist in all forms of Federal law.

Mr. Key is a native of Frederick, Md. He was graduated from Georgetown University Law School and entered the Department of Justice shortly after completing the course. He makes his home at the Copley Courts apartments.

BATTLESHIP BLAZE INQUIRY ORDERED

Adams Says Colorado Fire Causing $200,000 Loss Is Suspicious.

Suspicious circumstances surrounding a $200,000 fire on the battleship Colorado last June are being investigated by the Navy Department.

Secretary Adams said yesterday that "events surrounding the fire led us to believe that there might have been some tampering" and that "when any suspicion arises a thorough investigation is conducted."

Explaining that there is "generally some natural explanation for those things," the Secretary added that he had received no report of the investigation and expressed the opinion that if aynthing out of the ordinary had happened he would have been notified.

The investigation was disclosed by the Navy Secretary yesterday in commenting on published reports that the department believed that the fire was started deliberately. Mr. Adams charactertized the reports as "exaggerated."

Fire broke out on the Colorado on June 2 while the battleship was at Colon awaiting passage through the Panama Canal. The fire destroyed the plotting room of the vessel and necessitated expensive repairs.

The Colorado was taken to the Brooklyn Navy Yard for an overhaul which disclosed needles stuck into the wiring system of the plotting room. It was believed that they might have been placed there with malicious intent and an investigation was ordered.

Secretary Adams denied knowledge of a report that a second fire broke out on the vessel while undergoing repairs at the Brooklyn Navy Yard. Other naval officials also said that they had heard nothing of reports which said that the fire was extinguished barely in time to prevent a possible explosion from the powder room.

The investigation into the first fire was ordered by Capt. William S. Miller, who had been in command of the Colorado since May 22. Navy officials said yesterday that the report of the inquiry had not been acted upon and that it was "making the rounds of the technical bureaus."

NEW YORK REDS BATTLE POLICE

Hall to read the petition before the mayor and the board of estimate. They were ordered out after Sam Nesen protested against an increase in the budget for the police department on the ground the police were brutal to the working class.

"You are a grafting Tammany politician," Nesen shouted at the mayor. The latter, his face white with anger, rose from his chair and said: "That remark almost compels me to set down the gavel and come down there and personally take care of you, you little whelp."

The riot then broke. As detectives reached toward Nesen the crowd that packed the hall for the budget hearing surged forward, yelled and struck the Communists.

The delegation was pushed downstairs. One man attempted unsuccessfully to escape, shattering a glass door in the effort, and in the melee Nesen was badly beaten. The whole delegation was held for questioning.

The disorders in the park broke out when J. Louis Engdahl, secretary of the International Labor Defense and candidate for lieutenant governor, who was head of the delegation to the board of estimates, was ejected from the building.

Pin Jabbed into Horse.

Engdahl's efforts to make a speech to his followers in front of City Hall were stopped and he was borne on the shoulders of the crowd to the sidewalk in front of the Woolworth Building. He made another attempt to speak and, in the confusion a young woman jabbed a pin into the flanks of a mounted policeman's horse. It kicked, knocking out a plate glass window in a drug store.

A girl, about 16, was trampled and slightly hurt when she fell directly in front of another policeman's horse. Meanwhile, another plate glass window in the store collapsed under the pressure of the crowd.

"No Work, No. Rent."

The demonstration was finally ended when police carried off Engdahl and those arrested with him.

Placards bearing the slogans, "No work—no rent" and "Down with the vagrancy laws" were waved wildly when Engdahl was put out of the City Hall. His ejection followed repartee between the Communist and Mayor Walker. Engdahl started to read a long petition on unemployment, ignoring the mayor's request that he defer his statement. The mayor explained he was in poor health and wished to leave as soon as possible.

"Then let some one else take your place," Engdahl suggested.

"Only the people can do that, and it won't be done by mob rule," Walker replied. "Don't think you can bully this meeting. You can't do it."

Three Earlier Incidents.

"You can't bully me," Engdahl retorted.

"I'm not trying to. If I wanted to bully you I'd get down off this bench and do it in person," said the mayor.

Later another Communist tried to read the petition. The mayor explained the committee would be given an opportunity to present its case later and the Communist sat down.

Earlier in the day a small demonstration in front of the City Employment Agency and two minor riots at Sixth avenue and Fortieth street were broken up by small groups of police with little disturbance. Six were arrested for disorderly conduct.

TELLS OF SHOTS

JACOB GINSBERG, manager of the New York hotel in which Jack "Legs" Diamond was shot, surrendered to police and described events following the shooting.

DIAMOND WAS SHOT AS BETRAYER, THEORY

Kept $50,000 and Failed to "Protect" Brewery, Crain Is Told.

VICTIM GETTING BETTER

New York, Oct. 16 (A.P.).—An underworld story that the shooting of Jack "Legs" Diamond last Sunday was in reprisal for the gangster's alleged retention of $50,000 paid him last August to obtain protection for a Brooklyn brewery was under investigation today.

District Attorney Crain said he was informed "Waxie" Gordon, Broadway Hotel owner and reputed beer racketeer, gave Diamond the $50,000. Detectives are looking for Gordon.

Diamond, the story goes, went to Europe on the money and the brewery was raided while he was gone. On his return, "Legs" was reported to have been notified he would have to pay up before noon last Sunday. Just about noon, Crain pointed out, Diamond was shot by gunmen in his room at the Hotel Monticello.

It appeared today that Diamond probably would live through this attack on him. Physicians at Polyclinic Hospital said for the first time he has a chance to recover. He was placed on a liquid diet preparatory to removal of the three slugs his assailants pumped through his crimson pajamas.

Harry Drescher, a former prohibition agent and bail bondsman, who was a guest at the Hotel Monticello, Sunday, surrendered at the district attorney's office after police had sought him on the strength of a statement by John M. Ginsberg, the hoel manager, that the wounded gangster called for Drescher immediately after the shooting.

Drescher, his attorney said, went to Diamond's room and asked Diamond who had shot him, but Diamond refused to tell. Then, the lawyer said, Drescher left town because "he didn't want to get mixed up in it."

Ginsberg, released in $25,000 bail as a material witness, was still regarded as a "key" witness by Police Commissioner Mulrooney, who said he believed Ginsberg knew the identities of Diamond's assailants but was fearful of telling because of possible consequences to himself.

NO ACTION IS TAKEN ON GAMING HOUSES

Prince Georges Grand Jury Confirms Existence of Such Places.

FEW WITNESSES APPEAR

While confirming the existence of gambling houses in Prince Georges County, the grand jury said yesterday that "we have not been given, in our opinion, sufficient evidence upon which to base an indictment." Blame for the continued operation of these places is not laid directly on any one agency, the jury saying, however, "we can not help but reach the conclusion that our county will not be rid of these places until the duly constituted authorities make a determined effort to stamp them out."

Evidence showing that collusion existed between officers and bondsmen also was given to the jury, it said in its report, but this was not sufficient to warrant an indictment. The jury also recommended that a county building, to contain a jail, police court and other county offices in the vicinity, be erected in Hyattsville. An act of the State Legislature to provide for an investigator to assist the county prosecutor was also suggested by the jury's report, made to Circuit Court Judge Joseph C. Mattingly.

Few Witnesses Found.

Only a few of the witnesses summoned by the jury in its investigation of the gambling situation could be found, it was reported about the courthouse. Less than one-fourth of those said to have knowledge of law violations appeared before the jury, but these were all that could be found.

Among those who did appear were Charles B. Calvert, an attorney of Mount Ranier, who had made definite charges, and J. Frank Lillard, lawyer, who had referred to the existence of the houses at a political meeting.

"Interested citizens" were particularly invited to produce evidence against these places sufficiently definite to justify indictments. The report said: "Many, if not all, of the witnesses called knew of the existence of such places, but denied any participation in gambling or of having any definite information concerning their operations."

It was recommended that the pay of jurors be increased from $3 to $5 per day, to make it possible to get a better type of men, and to partially offset the increased cost to jurors in attending court.

Almshouse Changes Suggested.

Minor changes in the county almshouse were suggested, but both this institution and the jail were approved by a committee of jurors which visited them. The jury also asked that it be provided with a stenographer in the future, to take down the statements of witnesses.

Thirty-nine indictments were returned by the jury, during its nine-day session, 13 cases were ignored, and six dismissed for lack of witnesses. The total number of witnesses who appeared before the jury was 145.

FUSION TICKET SET IN PRINCE GEORGES

Three Independent Groups Back Ten Republicans and Six Democrats.

SELECTED IN SECRECY

Ten Republicans and six Democrats are on the coalition ticket chosen last night by a joint meeting of three politically endependent organizations of Prince Georges County. In five instances the meeting decided that candidates of either party were acceptable. However, the meeting declined to indorse either candidate for State senator. The organizations are the Municipal Officers Association, the Taxpayers League and the Prince Georges Law Enforcement League.

Stephen W. Gambrill will be supported by the organization for the House of Representatives. For sheriff, W. Curtis Hopkins, Republican, will be supported. Officers for which candidates for either party are acceptable are: Clerk of circuit court, county surveyor and State's attorney, treasurer, registrar of wills, county

Five Republicans and one Democrat were chosen as candidates for the House of Delegates. The list comprises Bird H. Dolby, Robert G. MacCartee, George P. McCeney, Oliver Metzerott, Richard C. Zantzinger and Charles C. Marbury, Democrat.

For county commissioners, George N. Bowen, William A. Middlton, Frank Hall, jr., and two Democrats, Walter M. Grimes and Orman W. Phair, will be supported by these three groups. Two Democrats, Joseph H. Blandford and John A. Schulz, and one Republican, Lula A. Bickford, the only woman on the coalition ticket, will be supported for judges of the orphans' court.

William Pinckney Magruder attacked the Democratic organization during the course of the meeting. Commenting on Frank Crown, who had been proposed as an addition to the ticket, Mr. Magruder said: "Frank Crown is controlled by J. Enos Ray. Eleven Democrats are controlled by him or by Hampton Magruder."

Speaking of another candidate, Mr. Magruder said: "Charles C. Marbury is under the iron hand of Howard Duckett." The aim of the Tax Payers Association is "to fight the bosses," Mr. Magruder said.

The Law Enforcement League spokesmen stated that they had sent out questionnaires to candidates, but wanted it made plain that they had not chosen the names as the basis for the questionnaire. A committee of two persons from each of the three bodies was selected to make arrangements for printing the coalition ticket. The names chosen were those presented to the joint meeting by a joint committee of nine, which met and selected the ticket behind closed doors.

Eldridge Webster, colored, was named in the last lot of indictments presented to the Circuit Court of Prince Georges County by the grand jury yesterday. Webster is charged in one bill with assault with intent to kill and assault and battery, and in another with robbery. Both arise from the serious injury of Lafayette Davis, of Accokeek, Md., last summer, during a holdup.

Davis, who was apparently attacked with a club, suffered a compound fracture of the skull and his life was despaired of for some time at Providence Hospital here, where he was brought. He will be well enough to appear against Webster at this term of court, however, it is expected.

Davis, an elderly man, was assaulted as he left his store in the Maryland town. His assailant expected to gain the week's receipts of the store, but got only a few dollars the other man was carrying in his pocket.

The jury also indicted William Green, colored, on a charge of murdering Richard Diggs near Marlboro last Sunday. Charles Dyson will face trial on a charge of manslaughter, arising out of the death of his uncle at Accokeek. Dyson is alleged to have shot through the door of a house, killing the older man.

Two bills charging forgery were returned by the jury, naming Lanrath Furr and J. K. Nesbit. Both men are alleged, it is understood, to have forged names of other persons to checks for small amounts. Their offenses were committed separately. A charge of nonsupport against Leonard Harper was also upheld by the jury.

William E. Hawkins, Thomas Wood, Charles Bassen and Frederick Dorsey were named in one indictment charging larceny and receiving stolen goods. Wesley Spriggs, Albert Taylor, Frank Spriggs and Willie Fleet were charged with the same sort of offense in another bill, and Arthur Godbolt, John Tillman, William Edge and John Samson were also indicted for these two crimes.

Robbery was charged to James D. Martin in another indictment. Paul C. Benedict and Samuel A Williams will face trial on a charge of obtaining money under false pretences, as will James R. Walsh. Intent to defraud was the charge upheld against Benjamin C. Roth.

Two indictments were returned on larceny charges against Alexander Waddell and Charles Rawlings. Rawlings was also indicted with Raymond Chaney on the double charge of larceny and receiving stolen goods.

Etta E. Cridler has filed a petition for an absolute divorce from Cleveland Cridler. The woman states that they were married in Alexandria in 1921, and that he abandoned her in 1927. They have no children.

Three residents of Laurel were restrained from blocking an alley which leads to Henry E. Wootten's garage in that town by a temporary injunction handed down yesterday by Judge Joseph C. Mattingly. Wootten rents his place of business from Norval W. Frost and Dora A. Frost, who joined him in the injunction plea.

Entrance to the garage can only be made through this alley, which is claimed by Casper and Minnie Kaiser. The complainants say that the Kaisers and Catherine J. Travers, who rents a lot from them adjoining the alley, have blocked the entrance by parking cars. Customers of Wootten's garage are alleged to have been ordered out of the alley when they tried to enter.

The alley has been continuously open to the public, the complainants say further, though it has not been adopted by the mayor and council as a public thoroughfare. Wootten claims that his business has been injured by this action of the defendants. He posted $500 bond when he asked the injunction. If the injunction is not upheld and the defendants are injured by it, they can sue against this bond.

Ogle Marbury is attorney for Wootten and the Frosts, while George McCeney appeared for the other three.

1930 Fair Opened In Madison County

Agricultural Displays Are Proving Feature of Exhibits.

Special to The Washington Post.

Gordonsville, Va., Oct. 16.—With one of the largest agricultural displays in its history the annual Madison County Fair opened its gates yesterday morning. The drought that has prevailed since April failed to mar the enthusiasm of the exhibitors.

The horse activities, which have always proven one of the most interesting features, are in charge of Joe Henshaw. There is an unusually large number of entries in the saddle class.

A turtle race under the direction of Joe Fray is another feature. Each turtle or terrapin is numbered and placed in the center of a large circle. The first one to cross the line wins a prize. The woman's department, the home economics, horticultural and floral displays are all equal to if not superior to former exhibits. The rows upon rows of canned goods and the culinary displays give no evidence of a shortage in either farm or garden products.

NORTH TAKOMA CLUB ADOPTS RESOLUTION

Approves Land Development Plan and Asks Abolition of Grade Crossing.

ROOT PROGRAM BACKED

A comprehensive plan for the layout of parking and streets and the elimination of the Fern street Piney Branch road grade crossing which has been prepared by Chief Engineer Irving C. Root, of the Maryland National Capital Park and Planning Commission were approved last night in a resolution adopted by the North Takoma Improvement Club.

The resolution expresses gratification that officials of the aBltimore & Ohio Railroad have abolished the Chestnut street siding over which verbal and legal war has raged for several years and urges that the plan evolved by Chief Engineer Root for the beautification of the parkway which will take the place of the freight siding and which provides for a shrubbery screening of the railroad tracks.

The resolution recites that the Montgomery County Commissioners are pledged to recommend to the next session of the State Legislature the purchase and development of the land in Montgomery County bounded by Takoma avenue, Chestnut avenue and the District Line as approaches to the Fern street-Piney Branch road underpass.

It further states that such improvement is necessary to the adequate park and highway development of this area and also requires the purchase and development of adjoining land in the District of Columbia and points out that the plna prepared by Chief Engineer Root has been approved by the mayor and town council of Takoma Park.

The mayor and council of Takoma Park, the Montgomery County Commissioners, and the Maryland National Capital Park and Planning Commission rae jointly commneded for their efforts in the furtherance of this plan and are urged to use their best efforts to persuade the National Park and Planning Commission and District authorities to purchase the adjoining land in the District and to make like improvements.

The resolution states that such acquisition of the entire triangle is deemed imperative to protect the park development which is planned and to protect the residential character of the community in Takoma Park on both sides of the District Line.

Dr. Llewellyn Jordan, vice chairman, presided at the meeting. Chief Engineer Root was present to explain his plan as were Park and Planning Commissioner J. H. Cissel and County Commissioner Lacy Shaw. Fred Hawkes, secretary of the club, was directed to send copies of the resolution to the proper authorities.

ALEXANDRIA COUNCIL DENIES ZONING PLEA

Action on One Gas Station Tabled and Another Petition Refused.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

The city council yesterday failed to concur in the recommendation of the newly organized zoning commission on the application of Mrs. Agnes Cael for an extension of the permit granted her for the establishment of a gasoline filling station at Washington and Wilkes street, to include approximately 125 feet front on Washington street, and decided to hold the matter open for another week before taking formal action. The original permit calls for a frontage of 58 feet on Washington street, and the property was sold by Mrs. Cael with the understanding that the entire lot of 125 feet could be used. When the error became known it is understood the purchase was canceled.

The zoning commission also recommended that the petition of B. B. Ezrine for an entrance on Washington street for a gasoline filling station at Washington and Franklin streets be granted, but the council denied the application. No formal action as to retaining this original permit was taken.

Three resolutions were introduced by Councilman E. F. Ticer relative to the $750,000 recently received by the city for the gas plant property. The first proposed that since the trustees appointed by the council have received the sum mentioned, and have turned over to the city treasurer $419,250 for the general fund and $93,750 in a special fund, that this fund be known as the reserve fund, upon which warrants are to be drawn in anticipation of the collection of taxes.

The second resolution was to authorize the city treasurer to transfer funds from the reserve fund to the general fund to be applied on the temporary loans now outstanding, amounting to $150,000.

The third resolution authorizes and directs the trustees to endeavor to acquire and retire 4 per cent bonds of the issues of 1902, 1908 and 1916 to the extent of $419,250. All these resolutions were approved.

An application of F. C. Johnson for a permit to open a sea food shop at 116 South Royal street was approved.

A communication from the local board of assessors for an additional payment of $1,500 for services in assessing the real property of the city, which was scheduled for attention, was not brought up at this meeting.

An application was received from residents of property owners on East Linden avenue for an pass under the railroad tracks from Oronoco street. This has already been discussed several times, but no action taken.

A request from the board of directors of the chamber of commerce, to have a survey made of traffic rules and regulations to safeguard the public, was received and no action taken.

An application of the Standard Oil Co. for signs at Mount Vernou avenue and Washington avenue, was granted; application of Robert G. Nobel for a gasoline filling station at Hume Station and Mount Vernon avenue was referred to the zoning commission, and one from George Turner for improvements to a house at Prince and Payne streets, was approved.

Permission was granted the General Outdoor Sign Co. to rebuild some of their signs.

A protest from Hugo Herfurth, jr., against paying to the city a charge for tapping the sewer the entire length of his property was denied, as it appeared that while his house was on a portion of two lots, the sewer tapping charge should apply to both lots.

A representative from the State school architect's office will be in the city tonight to confer with the members of the city school board on plans for the proposed new high school building which, with equipment, will cost approximately $300,000 and will accommodate 1,000 pupils.

The proposed new school would be brick, two stories with auditorium, stage, gymnasuim; the auditorium to seat between 1,200 and 1,500 persons. The school board wants the new structure to be on the present high school lot, between that school and Jefferson School, with connecting links, making the three buildings a single unit.

Application for the appointment of a receiver for the Wardman Mortgage & Discount Co., and also for an injunction to prevent a meeting of the company from being held in this city next Monday to dissolve the affairs of the company, will be heard beginning at 10 o'clock this morning in the Corporation Court, Judge William P. Woolls presiding. The papers were filed Tuesday by Attorney Harry F. Kennedy on behalf of certain stockholders.

The city school board at its meeting Wednesday night granted the use of the rifle range at Jefferson School to the Potomac Rifle Association, with the understanding the association would use "soft-nosed bullets." It was also decided to employ an additional teacher at the Parker-Gray School for colored children, to relieve the present congestion and to replace the coal range in that school for the domestic science department with a gas range. The Seminary School for colored children will be wired for electric lights, the Parent-Teacher Association of that school to bear half the cost.

Police Capt. W. W. Campbell has issued a warning against burning leaves and trash on asphalt streets. This is a violation of a city ordinance, as the heat damages the asphalt surface.

POLITICAL MEETINGS ARE SET FOR TODAY

Ritchie, Other Democratic Candidates to Speak in Montgomery.

POLICEMAN IS PRAISED

Gov. Albert C. Ritchie and other State Democratic candidates will visit Montgomery County today and will address three mass meetings. The first will be held in he National Guard Armory a Kensington at 2 o'clock, with Capt. Joseph C. Cissel, of Silver Spring, presiding. Night meetings will be held at 8 o'clock in the State Theater at Bethesda and the National Guard Armory at Silver Spring.

The meetings will present the first opportunity Montgomery County citizens have had of hearing W. Preston Lane, jr., of Hagerstown, lawyer and newspaper publisher, who yesterday was unanimously selected to succeed the late Attorney General Thomas H. Robinson as Democratic candidate for attorney general by the Democratic State central committee. Attorney General Robinson died suddenly several days ago.

In addition to Gov. Ritchie and Mr. Lane, Comptroller William S. Gordy and Hugh Young, clerk of the court of appeals, both candidates for reelection, and former Representative David J. Lewis, who is opposing Frederick N. Zihlman for the House of Representatives from the Sixth Maryland District, will address the meetings.

County candidates also are scheduled to make addresses. Among these will be Miss Lavinia Engle, candidate for the Maryland House of Delegates; County Commissioner Lacey Shaw, candidate for reelection, and Stedman Prescott, candidate for State's attorney. Dr. Eugene Jones, of Kensington, who was one of the Progressive Democratic party leaders in the Democratic primaries, has been invited to attend the Kensington meeting and speak.

E. Barrett Prettyman, also a Progressive leader, has been invited to speak at the Bethesda meeting.

Especial interest is shown in the coming of the governor and other State candidates in view of the attacks made in speeches of the Republican candidates at county meetings held Wednesday. The words of former Representative Lewis, especially, will be of interest in view of the bitter remarks of Representative Zihlman Wednesday night.

Gov. Ritchie is expected to defend the record of his administration of State affairs, which was attacked by Mayor William F. Broening of Baltimore, who opposes him for reelection as governor.

A Democratic rally which was scheduled for Poolesville tomorrow night has been called off. An old-fashioned barbecue, celebrating the opening of the Poolesville-Sycamore Landing road October 25, at which Gov. Ritchie will speak, will take the place of the rally.

Montgomery County Policeman Douglas Dosh, of the Rockville headquarters, has been warmly commended for his prompt and courteous handling of an accident involving an out-of-the-State automobile September 17, near Rockville. The Montgomery County Commissioners are in receipt of a letter from George C. Calvert, of the Pfaudler Co., glass enameled steel products manufacturers, of Elyria, Ohio, in which Mr. Calvert says:

"I asked one of the persons at the scene of the accident to call a police officer and was exceedingly pleased to find Montgomery County Officer No. 14 (Douglas Dosh) on hand within five minutes. Being the only party in the accident from outside of the State of Maryland, the presence of Officer Dosh was quite a help to me, and I wish to take this opportunity of thanking you, and through you Officer Dosh, for the prompt and exceedingly courteous treatment given me. No stranger or resident could ask for a pleasanter handling of a misfortune than this one was, and, with thanks, I beg to remain, yours very truy,

"GEORGE C. CALVERT."

The County Commissioners have directed that the commendatory letter be made a part of the record of the policeman.

Montgomery County police are searching for a Negro at whom Mr. Norriss, of Travilah, Md., fired a shot early yesterday morning. The Negro is alleged to have been caught in the act of stealing chickens from the chicken house of Mr. Norriss. He is believed to have been wounded by the shot, although he escaped.

A storage shed in the rear of the home of J. C. Lewis, Jefferson and Fremont avenues, Takoma Park, Md., was destroyed by fire early yesterday morning. The fire also destroyed a children's play house which stood next to the shed. Mr. Lewis and his family are in Florida, but neighbors estimated the loss at approximately $1,000. The side of the Lewis home, a two-story frame structure, was badly scorched, but firemen of the Takoma Park and Silver Spring Volunteer Fire Departments managed to save the dwelling.

Special to The Washington Post.

Quenstedt, was today removed to the hospital ward in the county jail for further treatment.

The man gave his name as John Tesar and said he was from San Francisco. He had been a patient in Emergency Hospital since slashing himself. Authorities believe he is mentally deranged. Meanwhile, authorities have communicated with San Francisco in an effort to learn more about him.

DANVILLE STRIKERS TO GET LABOR'S AID

MILL HEAD DENIES TALE

Boston, Oct. 16 (A.P.).—An appeal by two young women asking support for 4,000 striking textile workers in Danville, Va., brought immediate contributions from delegates to the American Federation of Labor convention today and a promise from President Green that the federation "would rise to the necessity of the occasion."

The women, Mrs. Lucille Humble and Mrs. Della Dilreath, themselves strikers, charged that Danville workers are overworked, underpaid, and denied the right to organize.

Their appeal came after the convention had devoted several hours to unemployment problems and adopted resolutions calling for a long range planning committee of public works, and further restriction of immigration as measures for relief.

Speakers Are Applauded.

The addresses of the two striking workers brought tremendous applause from delegates. The women said that they were forced to operate first 16 looms, then 32 and finally 64, that the "stretch out" system had been accompanied by a 10 per cent wage cut, and that the workers toiled 55 hours a week for wages ranging between $8 and $12 a week.

The first organization meeting was held on February 9, and on the following day 200 leaders in the organization movement were discharged, Mrs. Humble said. She pleaded for the financial and moral support of the federation and said:

"If we have to return to the factory unorganized," it will be like going to the penitentiary. All we want is something to eat and something to keep our children warm in winter."

Mill Lawyer Denies Charge.

Danville, Va., Oct. 16 (A.P.).—Malcolm K. Harris, attorney for the Riverside and Dan River mills, said today the mill management had no statement to make regarding charges brought by speakers today at the Boston labor convention that employes were overworked and underpaid.

He stated informally, however, that the charges were untrue and without foundation. Mr. Harris spoke for H. R. Fitzgerald, president of the mills, who could not be reached.

An explosion at the home of Jerry Wentz, overseer in the Schoolfield Mill closed because of a strike, shattered windows and caused a mild panic in the cotton mill community. Strikers on picket duty at the mill about 50 yards away said that they knew nothing concerning the explosion except that they heard the noise.

CURRENT EVENTS IN MARYLAND AND VIRGINIA

ELECTION CAMPAIGN BACK IN FULL STRIDE

FULL WEEK IS PLANNED

Baltimore, Oct. 16 (A.P.). — The Maryland State political campaign, brought to a virtual standstill by the death Sunday of the Democratic nominee for reelection as attorney general, Thomas H. Robinson, swung back today into renewed activity.

William Preston Lane, jr., Hagerstown attorney, and publisher, was selected by the Democratic State central committee to fill the ticket vacancy. The committee met here this afternoon. Mr. Robinson's funeral was held yesterday afternoon at Bel Air, his home.

Following a mass meeting last night at Mr. Lane's home town of Hagerstown, the Democratic candidates, Gov. Albert C. Ritchie, William S. Gordy, jr., nominee for comptroller, and James A. Young, candidate for clerk of the Court of Appeals, planned a full week of speaking.

Republicans Back Into Action.

The Republican State ticket, headed by Mayor William F. Broening of Baltimore, the gubernatorial nominee, also went back into action, after the suspension of its campaign, granted in honor of Mr. Robinson. Mr. Broening and his running mates, David A. Robb, for the attorney generalship; William N. Jackson, for comptroller, and Charles S. Warner, for clerk of the appeals court, started off with a swing into Dorchester County and a night meeting at Cambridge.

The coming week-end will see both the Democratic and Republican State candidates in Montgomery County tomorrow.

Gov. Ritchie and his running mates followed the Hagerstown meeting with an attack on the Republican stronghold of Frederick County today, with a night meeting scheduled at Frederick, the county seat, and one of the five largest cities of the State. At Frederick, like Hagerstown, David J. Lewis, the Sixth District Democratic congressional nominee, also spoke.

Talks in Smaller Towns.

Tomorrow the tour of Montgomery will be marked with several short talks in the smaller towns, with the principal meeting scheduled for Rockville. Saturday the governor and his running mates will enter Baltimore and Harford Counties, with the largest meetings scheduled for Towson in the afternoon and Belair at night.

Mayor Broening, accompanied by Mr. Robb and Mr. Jackson, who have been making his campaign trips throughout the State with him, is to invade Baltimore City again on Saturday following his tour of Montgomery County. In the Baltimore City meetings, the Republican candidates have been centering their efforts in gaining the wholehearted support of the party leaders, seeking to overcome the Democratic majority on the registration books.

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., Oct. 16.—A net gain of approximately 800 votes for the Democrats in Anne Arundel County is indicated by figures of the registration which have just been completed. Reports from the registers for the several voting precincts show that a grand total of 2,051 new names was enrolled. From this total must be deducted 835, representing the number erased by reason of change of residence, death or other causes, so that the net increase in the number of voters compared to the last registration is 1,216.

One precinct of the eighth district led the field in the number of new voters with a total of 167. This was one of the sections that recently figured in a dispute by Republicans, who claimed illegality in the enrollment of a large number of Washingtonians who own shore properties and only live there during the summer season. The Republican State and county leaders apparently have dropped the fight on this score which was started in the circuit court a week ago.

Southeastern Council Meeting Hears Movement's Growth Described.

Nashville, Tenn., Oct. 16 (A.P.).—Tracing the growth of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, Mrs. John Sippel, of Baltimore, president, told the Southeastern Council of the federation tonight that the "General Federation has always played in tune with the times and the thing needed is the thing we have done."

In 1890, Mrs. Sippel said, there were 68 clubs and 4,000 members, as against 14,600 clubs in the United States and 72 in 18 foreign countries today, with the membership of millions. Henley, right of way engineer of the State highway department, relative to the dangerous condition at the bridge at Four Mile Run on the Washington-Richmond highway.

The letter reads:

"You know, of course, that the State has rebuilt, through Arlington County, the present road from the Highway Bridge to the city limits of Alexandria. This road is one of the best in Arlington County, but when it reaches the new Alexandria city limits the bridge at that point over Four Mile Run is very narrow and is extremely dangerous.

"I was asked the other night by Edward Dunac, chairman of the board of supervisors, to come down and view this place with him. I did. I can not impress upon you how dangerous this condition is at this point.

"The board of supervisors would like to meet you or some one from your office and inspect this condition with a view to having it remedied."

"OVERALL" FARMERS WIN STOCK AWARDS

New Yorker Wins His First National Prize With Guernsey Bull.

SHOW HELD IN ST. LOUIS

St. Louis, Oct. 16 (A.P.).—Entries of two "overall" farmers, who know the feel of a pitchfork and the position from which a cow is milked, today scored heavily at the National Dairy Show here and their victories served to discredit that time-honored contention that exhibition of fine cattle is a rich man's game alone.

George M. White, of Coxsackie, N. Y., is the owner of the senior and grand champion Guernsey bull, Fernbrook King Hendrick. Although he has been breeding Guernseys for 26 years and is a man of moderate circumstances, today's victory, gained in competition with sires of 22 herds, was the first national award to come to his farm.

Fernbrook beat out Border King of Roberts, owned by the Glencliff Farms, Independence, Kans., a former grand champion of three years' standing. The new crown wearer has gained many victories in the East.

1929 Champion Repeats.

Again the entries of wealthy breeders bowed to an animal coming from an "average" farm in the judges' selection of a Guernsey junior bull champion.

Out of a group of 40 impressive sires, Highland Place Gabriel, owned by Joseph Golinvaux, Waterloo, Iowa, was declared the best.

Kings Pebblebrook Phylis Porbel, owned by Hull Brothers, Painsville, Ohio, was declared senior and grand champion brown Swiss cow. She was a champion in the 1929 national show.

Minnesota Calf Wins.

Sir Forbes Hengerbeld, owned by Elmwood Farms, Deerfield, Ill., was named grand champion and senior champion among the Holstein bulls for the fifth consecutive time. He is the only Holstein bull ever to win the national grand chimpionship more than three times.

King Bessy Kornkeye Ormsby, also a member of the Elmwood Farms herd, was crowned junior champion of the Holstein bulls.

In the three prefuturity Guernsey calf events, Boulder Bridge Dora, an entry of the Boulder Bridge Farm Co., of Excelsior, Minn., took first honors.

The senior and grand championship of the Ayshire breed went to Third Part Madge the Fourth, of Sycamore Farms, Douglasville, Pa. Her running mate, Argawan Gladys, of the same pastures, was declared junior champion cow of the herd.

ATTITUDE TOWARD BRAZIL.

Secretary Stimson has issued a statement announcing that the United States sees no reason for changing its attitude of exercising the same friendly offices toward the government of Brazil as it would exercise toward any other government with which the United States is in friendly relations, and that the Brazilian government has a perfect right to buy munitions in this country.

While the head of the Department of State does not allude to the Brazilian rebels, it may be inferred that they will not be permitted to buy munitions in this country.

If the rebellion should exercise unquestionable authority over part of Brazil and establish a de facto government, the question of recognizing a state of belligerency might arise. The revolutionists doubtless would demand the privilege to buy munitions here. But the United States would not be bound to grant that privilege, as it can not be bound to recognize a state of belligerency.

Despite cable reports from rebel sources, announcing "victories," the real test of strength has not yet come. The longer the test is delayed the greater is the probability that the rebellion will collapse. The Brazilian government enjoys several advantages over the rebels, not counting its right to demand the loyal support of all Brazilians. It holds the seaports and occupies a central position from which it can strike north or south and prevent the rebels from joining their forces. It can import war materials and the rebels can not. It can raise money from abroad and the rebels can not.

The revolutionists counted upon surprise and a sudden onrush of the people to their side. The plans miscarried. The rebels now face a desperate situation, in which every day of delay and disappointment works for the demoralization of their forces and a public reaction against them. They are not likely to make many recruits from the regular army and navy, now that they have failed to deliver a mortal blow. They have some arms and munitions, but fresh supplies will be hard to obtain.

The outside world has not been given a convincing reason for the Brazilian uprising. Its leader, Getulio Vargas, was an unsuccessful rival of Dr. Julio Prestes for the presidency. The election was constitutionally held, and Dr. Prestes is entitled to the office. The American idea of sportsmanship in politics is to accept defeat cheerfully, and to try by lawful means to win the next election. The Brazilian revolt looks suspiciously like a conspiracy to gain by force what could not be obtained by a fair fight at the polls. Unless facts should remove this suspicion, the constitutional government of Brazil is entitled to the benefit of the doubt. The United States is fully justified in permitting that government to obtain war munitions, while denying the privilege to the revolutionists.

PROHIBITION PAMPHLETEERING.

The Government's war against bootleggers and rumrunners has reached the pamphleteering stage. Last week the Prohibition Bureau issued an official conjecture as to the volume of illicit liquor manufactured. Now it announces a Nation-wide poll of newspaper opinion on the eighteenth amendment and the Volstead act, the results to be published in pamphlet form. What is the bureau up to? Does it mean to go into competition with the propaganda of the Antisaloon League and the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment?

Director Woodcock does not explain the purpose of his inquisitive messages sent to 3,000 newspaper editors. Perhaps he intends to show, as did the Methodist Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals, that the majority of American dailies are "dry" in their editorial policy, and fair in their treatment of news on the prohibition question. Can it be that Mr. Woodcock hopes to persuade bootleggers to go out of business because the newspapers are not "for 'em?"

But if the bureau's more extensive survey should upset the findings of the Methodist Board, what then? Will Mr. Woodcock blame the intolerable conditions on the naughty wet press that is crying repeal to the masses? Surely the bureau would not spend the money Congress allowed it to educate the public on the prohibition issue without some definite purpose in view. Yet the only ostensible purpose this survey can have is to determine which way the wind is blowing. One would almost think that the bureau was up for reelection.

Why is the bureau so sensitive to public opinion? Does Mr. Woodcock wish to give the impression that performance of his duty will depend upon what the newspapers think? The duty of the Prohibition Bureau is to enforce the law to the best of its ability. It should not lower its standing to that of the propaganda agencies which are engaged in perennial squabbles over prohibition.

DEALING WITH UNEMPLOYMENT.

In dedicating the James Ward Packard Library at Lehigh University, Charles M. Schwab, chairman of the board of Bethlehem Steel, contended that science held the key that would solve the problem of unemployment. "It is the crucible of science and the expansion of scientific knowledge and method," he said, "that is the outstanding development of the present age." Mr. Schwab spoke of the release from physical toil that scientific pioneering and development has brought about, and called attention to the material comforts that science has made available to the common man. Continuing, he said:

> Looking to the future I see in the further acceleration of science continuous jobs for our workers. Science will cure unemployment. New industries will arise from our laboratories. That is the basis of American progress.

The discoveries of the scientists promise to play an important part toward the solution of unemployment. One has only to consider the new industries—movies, radio, long-distance power, oil, rayon, aviation, &c.—based on scientific developments and discoveries in which thousands find employment, to realize that "mechanization" creates jobs. But the realization that through the years unemployment may be solved through scientific development is small comfort to the man without work and facing the winter's cold. What is to be done this winter to help the unemployed through their difficulties?

The American Federation of Labor, in convention in Boston, considered unemployment in one of its sessions this week. The federation approved the program of its executive council, which contemplates for reductions in the hours of work, stabilization of industry, efficient management in productions and sales policy, establishment of a Nation-wide system of employment exchanges, adequate records of employment, and use of public works to meet cyclical unemployment. Such a program, of course, can be made to materialize only over a long period. To meet the immediate problem of emergency relief the federation instructed the executive council to proceed to Washington to ask President Hoover to appoint a national committee to devise measures to be put into effect at once. Such plans would be carried out by private and quasi-public agencies, departments of the Federal, State and municipal governments, counties and school districts.

There already is in existence a national committee formed to deal with unemployment. Since early summer the Government, States, municipalities, counties and industry have been making permanent improvements specifically for the purpose of providing jobs for those who otherwise would be unemployed. That the unemployment problem has reached no more serious proportions is due to the activity of the various agencies along these lines. It may be doubted that further expansion of temporary work can be made by the Government, the States or the other agencies concerned.

Unemployment this winter will have to be tackled by philanthropy. One method of approach is indicated by a project conceived by a number of New York financiers and business men who have agreed to raise $150,000 weekly during the winter to be used as a pay roll for heads of families who have been unable to find employment. Some 10,000 men will be taken care of through the fund, each of whom will be paid $3 a day for working in parks and in nonprofit-making institutions. While philanthropy will help to save the country's unemployed through the winter, the long-time programs for the relief of unemployment will march steadily toward their consummation.

FLOGGING FOR GANGSTERS.

Chairman Wickersham, of the President's Law Enforcement Commission, in a speech to the American Prison Association, seemed to favor the whipping post for convicted gangsters and racketeers. "In England and in Canada," he said, "flogging by birch or by 'the cat' is inflicted. A careful inquiry into the results of flogging as a punishment for certain offenses and a prevention of further wrongdoings may well be made to determine the desirability of employing it in the war against banditry and racketeering. As a deterrent to others, flogging would seem, a priori, to present great advantages."

It is strange that Mr. Wickersham, chairman of a commission created to consider the grave question of law enforcement and observance, should advocate obsolete methods of punishment. Increasing the severity of punishment has little or no effect on the volume of crime, except to induce offenders to adopt the most desperate measures to avoid apprehension.

Later in the same speech Mr. Wickersham said: "Very slowly we are coming to realize that all the threatened punishments legislative imagination can devise will not compel actively rebellious human natures to abide by rules of conduct that run counter to their wishes, their tastes, their needs or their prejudices." Organized racketeering and banditry can not be stopped by the mere application of the rod. A great deal more than increased severity of punishment is required to compel "actively rebellious human natures" to obey the law. In the first place, there must be greater diligence in catching criminals, and in the next place the net of the law must not have so many holes. Certainty of apprehension and conviction, rather than severity of punishment, is the true deterrent of crime.

WOMEN ON THE JURY.

New York's three gubernatorial candidates, replying to a questionnaire forwarded by the League of Women Voters, give a pledge to interest themselves in behalf of liberalization of the law to permit women to serve on juries in the Empire State on the same terms as men.

In Washington, the National Woman's Party recently complained that "practically no women are serving on juries at the present time." The organization claimed credit for introducing the law that opened jury rolls to women, calling attention to the fact that in cases involving minors, particularly young girls, the presence of a few mothers of children in the grand jury room would be in accordance with humanity and justice. There are no women on the present grand jury. "It is true," said the Woman's Party, "that the woman juror law provides that service by women shall not be compulsory. However, the almost total absence of women jurors is not due to claims by women for exemption but to the fact that women were given little opportunity for service."

Justice Gordon, who is presiding in the division of court in which jurors are selected, and Mrs. Lillian Pritchard, jury commissioner, assert that an unusually large number of women take advantage of the exemption allowed them by law. Three out of four women, says Justice Gordon, decline service, not only upon the jury for which they are drawn but upon all juries.

The League of Women Voters should be encouraged in its campaign to liberalize the jury laws in New York to permit the service of women. But amending the laws, as has been proved in Washington, does not necessarily result in mixed juries. Women tend to follow the masculine practice of evading what has come to be looked upon as a disagreeable duty. If the law does not compel them to serve they do not serve.

BACK TO THE LAND

By a FRIEND OF THE WORKER.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The situation which confronts the United States toward the close of the year 1930 presents problems which call for careful consideration upon the part of all thoughtful citizens.

With the liquidation of the obligations incurred by a growing Nation in the process of development of its natural resources and construction of adequate transportation facilities, the period following the World War found the United States a creditor instead of a debtor nation. Absence of formidable neighbors and of entangling alliances has prevented the necessity of creating and maintaining a vast army and corresponding naval forces such as tend to absorb the financial resources of European countries. Instead of being confined to barracks or living under the shadow of being called to the colors at short notice, the citizens of our Republic are free to engage in gainful callings, thereby increasing by so much the manpower of the entire community.

But notwithstanding these favoring circumstances so well calculated to place the United States in the front rank of prosperous nations, a period of depression has occurred, and employer and employe alike look forward to the coming winter season with feelings that are filled with forebodings, even though those feelings do not verge upon alarm. In such a situation it is incumbent upon us to think nationally and to examine ourselves in order to discover, if possible, wherein lies the source of the difficulty; and, if the trouble can be diagnosed correctly, something constructive and curative may then be devised.

The process of transition from an age of trained hand-labor to a machine age is often accused of being the vice in the situation, but upon examination this explanation will be found to be too sweeping. Other elements enter into the calculation and must be allowed for. Not all this change is destructive, as witness the rise of the automobile and other recently established industries. In these new lines there has been absorbed a considerable portion of the "slack" which mechanical efficiency has produced in employment of the workers in the skilled trades.

Doubtless in the future as in the past new industries may temper the onward sweep of inventive skill and mechanical progress, but it is to be feared there is a moral certainty that there will always be a remainder in the equation; which is to say replacement will never equal the losses.

But despite this reduction in the ranks of workers the change is accompanied by no material reduction in gross wages, for it is seen that the person continuing in the employment has steadily gained in his individual pay.

It is claimed by compilers of labor statistics that in a twenty-year period the worker has replaced two other workers in numerous trades, but he is now receiving the wage formerly paid to the three. Assuming that by this machine-aid the labor of one worker turns out work equal in amount and quality to that produced formerly by the three, the absorbing public's needs would be satisfied without interruption as to the flow of goods, and labor would be the gainer to the extent of the increased demand on the part of the enlarged population that occurs year by year.

Even though such a tremendous turnover as the above computation implies should be only approximately correct, the result is appalling. The problem of replacing this tremendous mass of human material is calculated, in the words of President Kruger, "to stagger humanity."

If there is a constructive suggestion that is helpful, it is here that it is demanded. In behalf of the well-being of the Nation at large every avenue of escape from this situation should be sought and it is error to tamely submit.

Negative measures, such as shortening work hours, do not suffice; that expedient is productive of leisure for recreation or self-education, and in some degree positive benefits do result; but in general the development of more efficient machines will at least equal any slowing down of output due to shortened hours. Some means of absorbing the labor surplus must be shown if American industry is to maintain the high wages that in turn provide high purchasing power. That is the axis about which our system of business economics revolves—the American theory that the industrial worker's ability to buy is the source of our prosperity.

Now, what is this means which will act as the commercial flywheel and cause the machinery of business to run with normal regularity and efficiency?

In my opinion, the keyword is agriculture. When the worker is crowded out of his trade, or an interim job is required to tide over the period until he can rejoin the army of workers in his own or another line, it should be possible for him to engage in tilling the soil. It is primitive work, and the worker can employ his muscle and brain in making crops for home use or for export.

Under existing conditions this change to agriculture is not practicable; but are not the conditions themselves wrong? Nearly every implement the farmer buys is subject to heavy taxation by way of the tariff, and he is precluded from buying these supplies in the cheapest market, although his exportable surplus must be sold in competition with the entire world.

The English people refuse to permit the enactment of a tariff on the ground that to produce wares cheaply the worker must have his needs supplied at a price that will be reflected in the cost of production, which must defy competition and preserve foreign markets for his wares. In like manner, the American farmer might demand the lifting of the tariff on all farm supplies. Then a fertile soil and cheap transportation by inland waterways will enable him to compete in the market centers of the world. Half-measures by way of Government coddling through ineffective attempts at price fixing will drop into the discard. When America resumes her place as the great exporter of foodstuffs there will be for the farmer some profit, even though a small one; and the crowded-out worker will find a refuge in agriculture.

When such a reform in existing conditions affords real relief for the farming element of our population, there will be no call for a Cabinet member to tour the prairie States and preach the strange doctrine of shackling nature through reduction of crops by the expedient of permitting tillable fields to lie idle. Agriculture will then become the shock-absorber of industry.

Return to normal conditions may mean return to the land. Let's think it over. Perhaps this is the way out.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

A GOLFER TRIES TO RESIST TEMPTATION.

The golfer heard the telephone and sadly shook his head!
"That's Bill who's calling me to play and I can't go," he said,
"Although the day is glorious, I choose to work instead!"

"Hello there, Joe," a voice exclaimed;
"be on the tee at 2!
I have the foursome all arranged. I promised I'd get you."
"I can not play today," said Joe. "I've too much work to do."

"We're teeing off at 2 o'clock and it's a lovely day!"
"I know it is," said Joe again, "but I can't get away,
My desk is loaded thick with work and here I have to stay."

"If you are there by 2 o'clock we'll trim the other pair.
Just get your lunch before you come and you'll have time to spare!"
The busy golfer said: "All right! At 2 you'll find me there!"

What the Two Parties Are Trying to Saddle on Each Other.

To the Man Who Has Shot Many Animals, the Lion Is Just Another Target.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

FEW men are born to be successful, and few men sound in mind and body are born to fail.

Chance determines the issue in many cases—perhaps in every case of phenomenal success or unmerited failure—but the quality that brings success in the majority of cases is faith.

I know two young women who possess unusual talent. Without other encouragement or incentive than the artist's urge to express himself they have done good work. Yet neither of them has won or will win fame or fortune, for they have no faith in themselves and the fear of failure makes them surrender without trying.

I know, and doubtless you know, men of very ordinary ability who have climbed far above the crowd simply because they thought they could do it and kept pushing ahead.

In thousands of instances that item of faith—call it self-confidence if you wish—is the sole difference between the success and the failure.

Knowing that to be true doesn't benefit the failure in any way, for self-confidence isn't a quality that can be acquired late in life. If he hasn't faith in himself at 30 or 40 no effort of will or course of study can overcome his shrinking-violet complex and make him a winner.

But he can at least save his children from a fate similar to his own. He can teach them that life is a game much like boxing, wherein one takes it on the chin and comes back for more and eventually wins by the simple expedient of outstaying the other fellow.

How can the child be taught?

Well, have you ever seen among the wee lads who sell papers on the street one who was timid or bashful or lacking in self-confidence?

Or have you seen among the sheltered and coddled darlings of too-anxious parents one who accepted hard knocks as part of the game and faced each new chore with the matter-of-fact faith that whatever required doing could be done?

That is the answer. Shield the boy from anything that would shame or humiliate him, but shield him from nothing else.

Let him learn by experience that he can do what he will—get the big idea in algebra, find the yellow streak in a bully, or win the right girl—simply by hanging on until the job is finished.

The faith to move mountains is the reward of those who have moved little hills.

PRO AND CON

Various Aspects of Political Issues Discussed by the Press.

Philadelphia Public Ledger.

The Delaware Republicans who bolted their party because of its dry platform have added to the list of independent political organizations by filing a "Liberal Republican Party" ticket in the three counties of the State. This ticket bears only the names of Former Senator Thomas F. Bayard, the Democratic senatorial nominee, and John P. LeFevre, the Democratic congressional nominee. The movement will occasion no surprise in Delaware, as its leaders had indorsed Mr. Bayard prior to his nomination because of his wet views.

The effect of this third party, other than adding to the complications of a campaign which had already given indications of badly jumbled party lines, can not be determined until the returns are counted. But the giving of aid and comfort to the Democratic nominees by wet Republicans may alienate many Democrats in the rural districts of Delaware, which are predominantly dry. Those sections which are the bulwark of the Klair law, the drastic State enforcement act, are accordingly expected to produce a number of Democratic votes for Senator Daniel O. Hastings and Representative Robert G. Huston, the Republican nominees, and this situation may more than offset the Republican losses through the formation of the third party.

Sees G. O. P. Dry in 1932.

Richmond Times-Dispatch.

The significance of the Morrow pronouncement lies in its implications with respect to the prohibition question. It forecasts a dry plank in the Republican platform of 1932. Mr. Morrow is recognized as the leader of those who wish the eighteenth amendment repealed and the responsibility for control of the liquor traffic turned back to the individual States. It is inconceivable that the Republicans would launch a wet campaign without their champion carrying the fight. It is likewise inconceivable that Mr. Hoover, in view of his past actions and affiliations, could stand other than on a dry platform. Thus the Morrow pronouncement becomes a political development of national importance. If prohibition is an issue in the 1932 campaign, it will be up to the Democrats to make it one.

Political Ifs.

New York Times.

It would not seem strange if the new governor of New York and the new senator from New Jersey were Republicans. Saving the last decade, that is in the national tradition. It will not surprise any one if Massachusetts again elects a Democratic senator. She has been doing that often of late. But if a Democrat sits in the Senate for Illinois; if there is a Democrat in the State House at Harrisburg; if the frock coat, the white waistcoat and the tireless voice of Tom Heflin, of Alabama, disappear from Washington; if inquisitions are held without the aid of Senator Walsh, retired by Montana; if Kentucky again is represented by two Senate Democrats—all these will seem odd to the veteran observers of Washington. Yet all of them are within the range of possibility.

In Which Direction?

Watchful Waiting.

New York Republicans, having adopted a wet plank, will now wait to see whether or not it will float on a sea of votes.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Danger of Deadlock and Failure to Mend Conditions if Democratic Congress Is Put Up to Oppose Republican President.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: If one is to judge by the reports and speeches in the daily press the country proposes to choose at the coming election a Congress that will be hostile to whatever measures may be advocated by the President. To the thoughtful, informed person such a course must seem disastrous.

No one denies that the country is passing through a depression that has caused much unhappiness and suffering. It appears to have been inevitable. History is repeating itself. Other countries are in a far worse plight. While the United States can survive alone, it has become a factor in world affairs and must be affected by conditions elsewhere. The country has passed through other periods of business stagnation and will survive this one; but at such a time as this, the best intellects, those men possessing unusual qualities of mind and heart, should be in command.

What is offered by those who criticise and gleefully call attention to our misfortunes? Nothing that is practicable and possible. Small caliber politicians who apparently mistakenly believe themselves statesmen, say, in substance, "The country is in a terrible condition. Elect us and we'll fix it. Every one shall have work, not too much work. All industries shall prosper." This and more from men who have had little experience, have demonstrated no ability to function in national affairs, but who thirst to hold positions far greater and more lucrative than they ever before have occupied. As a matter of politics and purely selfish interest such men would oppose any plan, however meritorious, for the country's benefit that the President might offer. Divided responsibility means little if any positive action.

Why should President Hoover be given as free hand as possible? Try to remember that he is not, and never was, a politician. The rabid partisans of both parties have never so regarded him. His life's record of doing big things in a wonderful way has commanded the respect of the world. His greatest ambition is to aid in making this country what our forefathers hoped it might be; strong and prosperous among the nations of the world. A life's record of labors for humanity and a knowledge and understanding of our problems is not to be denied. An ounce of performance is worth a ton of oratory and specious promises, never to be fulfilled.

Herbert Hoover was elected for four years. At the election of November 4 there should be chosen congressmen who will support the policies of the President and they will be held responsible for results. If, by 1932, conditions are not satisfactory that will be another matter.

"Don't change horses while crossing a stream" was never more applicable than now.

Italy's Renunciation of Old Policy of Claiming Allegiance of Expatriated Italians.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: An event of international interest occurred in Boston on Columbus Day, when the Italian Ambassador publicly declared that Italy renounced its ancient policy of claiming allegiance of all Italians and their children who may be residents of the United States.

This matter has been the subject of discussion between the two governments since William H. Seward first took it up in 1868. Dozens of cases have occurred when Italian-born naturalized American citizens have returned to Italy and have been compelled to perform military duty in the Italian army.

William J. Bryan had some correspondence with Italy in connection with the case of a young American, son of Italian parents, who visited Italy to renew his studies of architecture, and was compelled to enter the Italian army. Mr. Bryan at that time used the phrase of "dual nationality," which stirred Theodore Roosevelt to vigorous criticism.

Now the Mussolini administration abandons the old doctrine, and with superb grace causes the announcement to be made in Boston when Ambassador de Martino is a guest of the city. In the course of his address the Italian Ambassador said:

"We say to the Italo-Americans: 'You must be first of all good and true American citizens, loyal to the constitution and to the laws of this country, loyal to the glorious stars and stripes. But you should not forget the ancient land of your forefathers. Be proud of your origin, and bring to the country of your adoption those virtues and those qualities which come with the blood flowing in your veins.'

"I have had repeated occasions to develop and explain in public speeches this line of our policy, which, mark you, we apply exclusively to the United States and not, for instance, on the shores of the Mediterranean, where we endeavor to keep the Italians under our own citizenship."

The announcement of this new doctrine indicates the desire of the Italian government to weld the bonds of friendship between the people of the two countries by personal and political association and by diplomatic negotiations.

GERMANY IS WARNED SHE MUST CURE ILLS

Bruening Heckled by Reds as He Outlines Plans for Reform.

ECONOMY WAVE URGED

Berlin, Oct. 16 (A.P.).—Chancellor Heinrich Bruening, outlining to the Reichstag today the government's plans for economic reform, warned friends and foes alike in Parliament that Germany must put her own house in order and cure some of her own ills before looking abroad for aid.

The astute statesman, the cabinet's hope in its present business stringency and political confusion, avoided any direct thrust at Adolf Hitler and his 107 right-wing delegates. He did not mince words in discussing plans for restoration of order, nor did he fail to mention sympathetically youthful Germany's discontent with the way President Wilson's fourteen-point peace pact and even the Versailles Treaty itself affect foreign countries as compared with Germany.

Amid a din of shouting from both Communists and National Socialists, the chancellor had difficulty at first in getting started with his address. After President Loebe had threatened to expel some of the delegates if they continued, there was enough order to permit the chancellor to be heard. Even so, he was interrupted from time to time.

Spikes Hitler Guns.

Dr. Bruening cleverly took the wind out of Hitler's sails by pointing out that only after the budget had been balanced could the fatherland invoke those measures which, according to treaty, Germany has at her disposal for "warding off danger to her economy and exchange."

In other words, the chancellor evidently wished to convey a definite impression that he felt certain Germany's creditors would not consider granting her a moratorium unless they were convinced she was doing all possible in the way of internal economy. The whole nation "must cut out its frills and return to Spartan simplicity," he said.

Thus, without mentioning Hitler by name, the chancellor parried the Fascist leader's anti-Young plan agitation with constructive proposals. At the same time he alluded pointedly to failure of the allies to live up to the Versailles treaty, especially as it applied to disarmament.

Bank Found Unsatisfactory.

"Many nations continue to increase their armaments," he declared, "ignoring their treaties and endangering the security and peace of the world. That is an unbearable situation."

Dr. Bruening also said the Bank for International Settlements at Basel had not pointed the way to new possibilities for exports for Germany as the German signers of the Young plan had expected the bank would do.

Surprisingly enough, Dr. Bruening was heckled largely by the Communists, while the Fascists only occasionally were boisterous.

Outside of the Reichstag Building everything remained quiet today. The police had nothing to do, although a cordon of mounted and foot officers was stationed as yesterday in a great circle about the building through which no person was permitted to pass without credentials.

PROSPECTOR HORDE SEEKS CANADA GOLD

Ontario Towns Overrun by Miners Searching for Precious Metal.

RICH ASSAYS REPORTED

Elk Lake, Ont., Oct. 16 (A.P.).—The gold fever which sent men across a continent and over leagues to California and the Klondike has broken out among hundreds of prospectors massing upon Bannockburn Township, 50 miles north of here, where discovery of gold in rich quantities has been reported.

The field has been almost solidly staked in the past two weeks and already prospectors are invading the adjoining townships of Baden, Hincks and Argyle. Two hundred claims have been staked in the Fort Mathachewan area and 38 more have been registered with the mining recorder here. More prospects are arriving daily following reports of strikes in the district, and today three parties set out for the scene of the latest discoveries fully equipped to spend a long time in the district. One party of three men is under orders from the North American Mining & Exploration Co. They left Elk Lake yesterday.

Reports of rich assays are being received, but for the most part owners of claims refuse to talk. One prospector is credited with the statement that his samples have assayed $80 per ton.

The new field is close to an old camp, only a few miles west of a district that was closely prospected a number of years ago.

Another district receiving considerable attention includes the township of Tyrrill and Knight, west of Gowganda, where eighteen claims were received and recorded recently. McIntyre Gold Mines, Ltd., is said to have a number of men in this district.

H. C. Rickaby, geologist of the Ontario department of mines, is expected to reach Elk Lake today and will proceed into the area staked by airplane.

One American Is Expected To See Boris, Giovanna Wed

Franciscan Monk, Born in Philadelphia, Officiates at Basilica in Assisi; Thrones Prepared in Cathedral for Royal Guests Who Will Attend.

Assisi, Italy, Oct. 16 (A.P.).—One American is almost certain to witness the ceremony uniting in marriage Princess Giovanna, daughter of the King of Italy, and Boris, bachelor King of Bulgaria, on October 25 in the historic cathedral of this place.

This favored individual is a Franciscan monk known as Father Thomas, whose family name is Braitsch. He was born in Philadelphia, Pa., and became a Franciscan at the Franciscan Institute, Syracuse, N. Y., in 1886. His last 30 years have been spent in Italy, 16 of them in Assisi.

Father Thomas is in charge of religious services and instruction to English-speaking people. He officiates in the basilica, is full of Franciscan lore and is most affable.

The wedding will be a short ceremony, followed by low mass in the presence of the couple. Thrones are being prepared in the cathedral for the royal guests. There is a papal throne in the cathedral, since the edifice is a basilica enjoying extra territoriality and belonging to the Pope on the same terms as Vatican City itself. But this will not be occupied unless the Pope appoints a special legate, which is not considered probable.

The little singing at the ceremony will be done by the celebrated Franciscan choir. The wedding will occur about 11 o'clock or noon. It is not certain who will perform the ceremony. It will not be Cardinal Maffi, who married Crown Prince Humbert and Princess Marie Jose in January.

The Royal Family of Italy will arrive in Assisi the night before the wedding. Boris will not arrive before Saturday morning, following the American custom of having no meeting of the couple until they arrive at the church.

Fourteen girls are working long hours every day on a beautiful tapestry which will be offered by the municipality to the bridal couple. Their workshop is a Twelfth Century house almost contemporaneous with St. Francis.

Kingsford-Smith Runs Ahead of Flight Record

Singapore, Straits Settlement, Oct. 17 (Friday) (A.P.).—Wing Commander Charles Kingsford-Smith took off this morning for Surabaya, thus beginning the ninth day of his flight from England to Australia.

The Australian aviator now is five days ahead of the record for the same distance of Bert Hinkler, English flier, who set an air record of 15½ days from his homeland to Australia.

Boyd and Connor Plan to Fly Back

Atlantic Fliers to Brave Sea Again on Their Return to America.

London, Oct. 16 (A.P.).—Having braved one crossing of the Atlantic Ocean, Capt. J. Errol Boyd and Lieut. Harry P. Connor now are planning a return trip to North America in the airplane Columbia some time next month.

Whether they will take off from Croydon, England, or Baldonnel, Ireland, has not been decided and will depend on whether they are able to rise from Croydon with the heavy load of sufficient gasoline.

"If we are unable to rise from here with sufficient fuel," said Capt. Boyd tonight, "we will fly to Ireland and jump from there."

On her eastward trip from Harbor Grace the Columbia carried 422 gallons of gasoline, which was sufficient to reach Croydon, but the fliers had to dump 100 gallons when they had fuel line trouble, and were forced to land in the Scilly Isles.

Boyd said tonight the return trip probably would be started in the first spell of good weather after November 1.

Heavy Rains Damage Portugal.

Lisbon, Portugal, Oct. 16 (A.P.).—Reports from the provinces today said torrential rains had been falling steadily for three days, causing heavy damage through the overflow of streams. The floods, the reports said, had swept away hundreds of cottages, drowned cattle and ruined crops.

EUROPEAN MORALE REPORTED HOLDING

American Paris Commissioner Reports on Depressed Economic Conditions.

FARMERS IN DISTRESS

(Associated Press.)

European morale has not broken despite the unstable economic and political conditions, in the opinion of H. C. MacLean, American administrative commissioner at the Paris headquarters of the International Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. MacLean reported to the American section of the chamber here yesterday that political agitation, which may be either the cause or the result of unsatisfactory economic conditions, is again widespread, especially in Germany.

"However," he added, "the first nervousness is wearing off, and, on second thought, it is realized that the policy of the National Socialists is so extreme that it could hardly gain the support of a sufficient number to make its carrying out possible, while its success at the polls was sufficient to demonstrate to the constitutional groups the pressing need for composing their differences in order to maintain a stable government."

Mr. MacLean said "acute distress" still prevails in the agricultural countries and the "dumping of Russian products has become a serious menace, but no feasible plan for meeting this abnormal competition has been devised."

CITY POWER-PLANT SCRAPPING SOUGHT

Negotiations Are Under Way to Buy Electricity for Penal Institutions.

LOWER COST IS CLAIMED

Negotiations by District officials for purchase of electric power for the District penal institutions at Lorton and Occoquan, Va., and the scrapping of the municipally operated plant for which $55,000 already has been appropriated, became known yesterday.

Although no comparative cost figures are contained in the reports approving the purchase of power from a private power company, the change was justified by those advocating it on the ground that the District would save money.

The plan is favored in reports submitted by G. A. Bennett, chief mechanical engineer of the municipal architect's office, who conducted the negotiations for the District with the Virginia Public Service Corporation, out of which was developed a five-year contract, effective next January 1, to supply the District with power at 1.5 cents per month net per kilowatt hour of maximum demand, plus 2.6 cents per kilowatt hour for the first 30 hours up to 8,000 hours. The rate would be 1 cent from 30,000 to 40,000 hours and 8 mills beyond 40,000. A discount of 7½ per cent is to be allowed because the District will take the current from the company's lines at a high voltage and reduce it through its own transformers. The contract provides that the District may abandon the contract after the first year, but must pay the company $30,800 for the next year and reduced sums each of the remaining years of the five-year period.

The scheme now is before the Bureau of the Budget in the District estimates. It is proposed to strike out of the estimates an item for $38,500 for the municipal plant, allow the $55,000 already appropriated to lapse into the treasury, and substitute a sum for the estimated cost of the current from the power company the first year.

Great Falls, Mont., Oct. 16 (A.P.).—Chief of Police Ray H. Gaunt and five other police officers today were indicted by the Federal grand jury here on charges of conspiracy to violate the Federal prohibition laws.

The indictment charged the officers conspired with some 30 other persons who also are indicted to permit the operation of places where liquor was sold. The offenses are alleged to cover a period of two years.

The police officers were, in addition to Gaunt, Lieuts. Ernest Owings, B. T. McElliott, A. L. Anderson and Patrolmen Ray A. Wick and Emil Nelson. Bonds were fixed at $15,000 each.

"I've been up at 4:30 every morning for a week," Mrs. Miller said at her hotel. "Now I'm going to have the luxury of sleeping a few mornings. The start of my return flight will depend largely on weather conditions. I want to be sure I'm not going to hit anything like I did coming over the Alleghanies and the Midwest."

The British woman, who announced at first she might hop off Saturday for a one-stop flight eastward, said slight repairs and changes would necessitate remaining perhaps longer.

"One of the wheel struts which got bent before I left New York caused some roughness in landing," she said. "It will take a day to straighten it. Also I want to see if I can have an additional oil tank installed if the mechanics can find room for it. If I can't carry more oil I don't think I can make a one-stop schedule."

Mrs. Miller made five stops on the flight, making the last hop from Winslow, Ariz.

Couzens Resolution Approved.

The convention approved a report of the executive council supporting a resolution dealing with railroad consolidation which has been entered in Congress by Senator Couzens, of Michigan. It also asked that Congress enact consolidation legislation "necessary to protect employes, shippers and communities served by railroads and to prevent inflation of railroad values."

The old-age pension question was referred to the executive council. The council's report on this subject, in which it said it has indorsed none of the measures thus far enacted but hoped to draft a constructive and adequate measure, was approved.

Unemployment was the subject around which centered the greater part of the day's discussion and one of the most important resolutions adopted called on President Hoover to create a "long-range" planning committee of public work as a means to avert distress from that cause. The resolution provides that the president and other officers of the federation confer with President Hoover with that end in view.

Green Makes Address.

Mr. Green, in addressing the delegates after his election, said:

"I would rather be president of the American Federation of Labor than be President of the United States. My own desire is to sink self from sight, to forget all mental and physical desires and to serve this great movement with all the vigor and power I possess."

The convention went on record as favoring enactment of legislation which would further restrict immigration and which would place Mexico under the quota law. It also favored including professional singers and artists, including musicians, under the alien labor classification.

law that it will be regarded as dead. If the decision is reversed, however, then the present situation will be materially changed.

Dr. Luther H. Reichelderfer, president of the Board of Commissioners, yesterday indicated that, in his opinion, the course for the Commissioners to follow would be to consider the law dead from now on, seek some other revenue source for street improvements from Congress, and seek to have improperly collected assessments returned to those who paid them.

That is the course which was first suggested and which it was said would be recommended by Mr. Bride, but this plan may at least be delayed in adoption pending the outcome of a final effort on the part of District officials in the courts.

CAPITAL ATTORNEY INDICTED IN COUNTY

False Pretenses Charged to Whalen; Embezzlement Trial Opens Monday.

WOMAN IS COMPLAINANT

Five indictments against Robert E. J. Whalen, Washington attorney, charging false pretenses, were returned yesterday by the Prince Georges County grand jury. Whalen has already been indicted here in the same case, charged with embezzling $23,000 from Miss Annie J. Hurley, of Hyattsville. He will go on trial in Washington Monday on that charge.

Whalen was arrested last summer and posted bond of $10,000. Yesterday Justice Peyton Gordon in District Supreme Court refused a petition to postpone his trial. Whalen declared in his petition that he had not had time to obtain service of a lawyer, and that he would have to defend himself if tried Monday. United States Attorney Leo A. Rover, opposing the petition, said that Whalen had had ample notice of the trial date.

Each of the five Maryland indictments covered one check, which Miss Hurley is said to have given the man. The money was given to buy a tract of land in Hyattsville, but the complainant stated that none of the $23,000 was spent for that purpose. A civil suit has been instituted to compel the return of the sum.

State's Attorney J. Frank Parran said last night that Whalen's trial in the county would depend on the action of the District court. The Maryland indictments are on a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses. Mr. Parran said that if Whalen is acquitted here he would be arrested and taken to Prince Georges County immediately. If he is adjudged guilty here, action on the county charges will be postponed until he has finished serving his sentence.

EVENTS OF INTEREST IN SOCIETY CIRCLES OF CAPITAL

Mrs. Hoover Is Visitor at Orchid Show

First Lady Heads Group of Notable Ladies at Pre-View.

WITH Mrs. Hoover as the ranking guest, "all the world" passed by yesterday at the preview of the orchid show presented by the American Orchid Society at the Willard where names that dot the blue book of the kingdom of flowers were mingled with those of the social register in large Eastern cities.

The background of gorgeous plants, which were on display in the ballroom, proved a rare setting for the groups of disintinguished visitors who represented society, not only of Washngton, but of seaboard cities, from Boston to the Capital.

Arriving at the exhibit about 2 o'clock with Mrs. Hoover were Mrs. Henry L. Stimson and Maj. John M. Eager, White House aid. They were joined by Mrs. Edward Everett Gann, Mr. F. Eugene Dixon, of Philadelphia, president of the society; Mrs. William K. duPont and Mrs. Pierre S. duPont, vice presidents, of Wilmington, Del., and Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Burrage, of Boston, the group leisurely inspecting the beautiful collection of plants arranged the entire length of the ballroom and crowding both walls, with an artistic arrangement also centering the great room.

Mrs. Hoover lingered at the show for nearly an hour. She was in black, her coat of velvet worn over a plaited frock of crepe de chine with tiny yoke of lace. A small black hat completed the costume. Mrs. Gann and Mrs. Stimson also wore black velvet wraps, Mrs. Gann's gown of blue chiffon and Mrs. Stimson in fuschia with modish yoke and cuffs of lace.

Among the winners of special awards were Mr. and Mrs. Dixon, who won the gold medal of the Royal Horticultural Society of England for the most meritorious exhibit in the display. Mr. and Mrs. Burrage, awarded the gold medal for the most artistic exhibit, and Mr. Dixon entertained Mrs. Hoover and the group accompanying her with explanations of the various specie of orchids, the First Lady evincing marked interest in the many exhibits.

Noted among the visitors yesterday were Mrs. Wilbur, wife of the Secretary of the Interior; Lady Broderick, Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Amos A. Fries, Mrs. Reginald Huidekoper, Mr. Clarence A. Aspinwall, Mrs. Henry Ravenel, the Rev. and Mrs. Edward Slater Dunlap, Miss Katherine Dunlap and Mrs. E. H. Chalefoux, of Boston.

Navy Couple To Visit With Mrs. Tweed

Stones Will Be Guests of Michael Strange on Long Island.

Lieut. Comdr. and Mrs. Ellis Stone will go to New York today to pass the week-end with Mrs. Harrison Tweed, in her home at Montauk, Long Island.

An item of news seemingly of little significance, yet within the few lines dwells a wealth of literary interest, for Mrs. Stone is Grace Zaring Stone, author of the recent enchanting novel, "The Heaven and Earth of Donna Elena," and Mrs. Tweed is Michael Strange, notable author and the former wife of John Barrymore.

Mrs. Tweed passed a part of last winter here at the house she purchased in Georgetown, a quiet old mansion and admirable as a background for literary pursuits.

Mrs. Stone's latest novel, "The Bitter Tea of Gen. Yen," was written or at least outlined while Commander and Mrs. Stone were in the Orient for several years, during which time she became closely associated with Chinese life in her following of Commander Stone's ship up and down the coast of China and Indo-China. Their home in Georgetown is furnished with rare treasures from the East and West, collected in their travels.

U. S. Attache In Paris Given Legion Honor

Dawson, in France Since 1917, Decorated With Cravatte.

With the Ambassador to France, Mr. Walter E. Edge, and members of the embassy staff in Paris attending the ceremony, Mr. Warrington Dawson, special attache of the American Embassy since 1917, was decorated with the cravatte of commander of the Legion of Honor in Versailles on Wednesday. Military and naval attaches in full dress uniform and high officials of the French government were present also when M. Although Mr. Dawson has been bed-ridden for several years he has carried on an active diplomatic career supplemented by notable literary pursuits which has brought wide recognition. His apartment at Versailles has been the mecca for leaders in French and American life, thus affording an endless stream of contacts with current life.

Mr. Dawson began his literary work when a mere boy, writing children's book reviews for his father's paper, the Charleston News and Courier. In 1909 he went with Theodore Roosevelt on the East African expedition, later writing a book, "Opportunity and Theodore Roosevelt." He is the author of many novels and also has published the addresses of former Ambassador to France Mr. Hugh Campbell Wallace.

The French government bestowed upon Mr. Dawson the order of officer of the Legion of Honor in 1925.

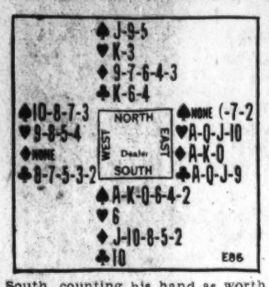
CONTRACT BRIDGE.

The following remarkable hand was held on the Jersey coast last summer in a game of Contract Bridge.



South, counting his hand as worth eight tricks and deeming it to be of a preemptive character, bid four Spades. He and his partner were using a four-bid for preemptive purposes and not as necessarily showing ten tricks. West and North passed; and East, with a holding apparently sure to take ten tricks—more probably eleven—bid five Hearts. South passed, as did West, and North decided that he had strength enough to bid five Spades. He overlooked the danger that this might induce West to bid for a small slam and that he might succeed in making it. This possibility is always to be considered when making a bid which will force an adversary to bid six if he overcalls. East bid six hearts and obtained the contract.

THE PLAY.

The play was rather unusual. South opened with a Spade which East ruffed, and led a winning Diamond ruffing it in his dummy. The Nine of trumps (Hearts) was led, North did not cover, and East underplayed. When the Nine won, the lone King was made in the North hand and West, shifting his suit, led a Club, East finessing the Jack. (There was a slight risk involved in this play; South might have had the King-x-x of Clubs and have given North a ruff.) East then dropped North's Heart King with the Ace, led another good Diamond, ruffing it once more in dummy, and then another Club, producing thirteen tricks—the small slam bid and one extra trick.

Had East doubled the five Spades, he probably would have taken five tricks—three Diamonds, one Heart and one Club setting the Declarer three. As South was not vulnerable, this would have been worth only 400 points, a small score compared with the total made by the Declarer who (also was vulnerable) secured 180 for tricks, 500 for a small slam bid and made, 50 extra for an extra trick, and 100 for honors. He also added a game to the credit of his side.

Dare Interprets the Mode

White satin, heavily trimmed with white beads, and a green velvet coat lightly touched with ermine makes a delightfully gracious evening ensemble. (Courtesy of Drecoll-Beer, Paris.)

New York, Oct. 16.

OH, the graciousness of the twentieth century modes! There is nothing that is not incorporated in them. . . . Loveliness, charm, harmony and actual gracious beauty, which flatters while it covers the figure beneath.

The mode is an infallible indication of the times. If all records of any age were, by some evil fate, destroyed, save a single fashion magazine, historians could piece together a very accurate picture of the life at the time of that magazine.

Recamier days were expressed by a mode of languorous loveliness; the modes of the Victorian era, in all the fussiness and frills, expressed the shallowness of those days; the crude styles of our recent war days expressed the mental attitude of those times.

But today! Ah, what today's fashions portray and even portend! Just look, will you not, at today's illustration, and see in it all the charm of all of the ages.

Isn't it nice to be alive in such an age!

Was a time when a nightgown was supposed to be voluminous and shapeless, but not today. Today's nightgowns have, to be just as well made and fitted to the wearer as a dress. And it's some trick to make that kind of a nightgown, believe me, which is what we all found out when we started figuring out a nightgown that was really something like the nightgowns one sees on the stage or on the screen, and nowhere else.

Well, between my design and Mamzelle's hard work, we evolved a nightgown which fits of its own accord, and stays fit, if you see what I mean. And whether you see what I mean or not, you'll see much better if you send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for the illustrated leaflet which tells you how to make it.

Although white continues to be by far the most popular choice for evening gowns, clever women who know that all white is not flattering to them, give their costume just the one note it needs for true smartness with colored shoes or jewelry, or a colored handkerchief, or a wrap. In the Drecoll Beer ensemble, that I sketched for you, for instance, the dress is of white satin beautifully trimmed with white beads, whilst the short coat is of green velvet with just the tiniest white ermine collar. And I wish you could have seen the way that decolletage figured itself out!

* * * *

The trend of the mode in hats might very well be high on the forehead and openly off the face, but as the Lovely Lady whose beautiful voice has charmed so many people for so many months over Station WABC so pertinently remarked, "This mode is not flattering to all types of faces." If your face is long and thin as hers is, let your new hats flare off the face but no offer, if you see what I mean, which you really should. Remember that the hat model is altered these days by the clever hatmaker to suit the individual face, without in any way changing the important lines of the model.

Indoor and Outdoor Gardens

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

WHEN PLANTS ARE INDOORS.

ABOUT the middle of August your plants were probably in good condition. For the last few weeks they had been on your porch in a more or less shady location, and the warm sunshine and frequent showers had done much for them.

Now, about the middle of October, you see signs of a decided change. You have taken your plants into the house and are forcing them to live in a new atmosphere where the air is hot and dry and the sunshine scant—away from all soothing showers, in a place where they will rarely receive sufficient ventilation.

Such treatment your plants have resented and now their leaves are both brown and drooping. This is indeed discouraging, and instead of trying to remedy things you, like many others, become disheartened and taken even less care of them, finding consolation in saying, "I never did have any luck with flowers." So as the weeks go by your plants become more and more dejected.

If the hands of our clock cease to rotate, we look at it, being familiar with its mechanism, and know, at once that it is merely run down. When we look at a number of half-dead plants we do not always know what is the cause of their apparent lack of vitality, as such a condition is not the result of an immediate retarding of the functional activities but rather a development so gradual that we failed to detect the change until the entire constitution of the plant had been undermined. Many make the mistake of thinking that all plants need to keep them healthy is sunshine and water. Of course, they do require these essentials, but that is not all.

Each plant has its individual requirements which must be understood and ministered to. All hard-wooded plants, for example, should have their foliage regularly washed. This is especially necessary in homes that are heated by furnaces, for such heating systems entail much dust, which settles in the pores of the leaves and literally chokes the plants.

Plant Amaryllis Now

If you never tried growing amaryllis indoors, there's a treat in store for you. Their stately stems and gorgeous blooms will add immeasurably to the appearance of your living room, and they're not at all hard to grow. If you would find out just what their soil and living requirements are, write, inclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope, to

JANE LESLIE KIFT,
Care of The Washington Post.

All hard-wooded plants, such as rubber plants, aspidistras, ferns and dracenas, should also have the surface soil in their pots loosened up each week. This admits more air to their roots and helps to prevent the loam from acquiring acidity. The air in all rooms where plants are kept should be changed twice a day.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

DIPHTHERIA DEATH RECORD.

FROM a trade publication we learn that in 1890 and for several years prior thereto the death rate from diphtheria was 97.8. In 1929, just 40 years later, it was less than 7.8 in a large group of American cities. The average man knows in a general sort of way that diphtheria is neither as prevalent nor as fatal as it was at the beginning of this century. He thinks of it as a diminishing disease but he does not know that it is now only one-twelfth as prevalent as formerly.

He is surprised to think of the diphtheria record of improvement as surpassing that of consumption and rivaling that of typhoid fever. He knows that the millions spent for sewage disposal and water improvement have brought typhoid under control, and the other millions spent on tuberculosis sanitaria and killing tuberculous cows as lessening the prevalence of consumption; and when he learns of the decrease in diphtheria he may wonder how that job was accomplished with so small an expenditure of money.

The answer is twofold. First, the use of vaccination against diphtheria has become fairly general. The cost of that to the State and city is trivial. A dollar spent in vaccination against diphtheria will go as far as several hundred dollars spent for sewage disposal and water purification as measures for typhoid prevention. In the second place, most of the cost of curing diphtheria is borne by the family. The State furnishes some antitoxin for more than it should, but most of this drug is bought by the family, as they should. While the cost of antitoxin seems large it shortens the illness so much and saves so many visits from physicians that it becomes a money saver in spite of the outlay for the drug. This antitoxin cost is spread over the community, and no man can say how much it aggregates. It is a fair guess that the reduction in diphtheria has cost but little as compared with the expenditures to control either typhoid or consumption.

CURING IVY POISON.

J. S. writes: When I was a boy I used to get infected so badly with poison ivy that I would be confined to my bed for weeks at a time. The doctors could give me only temporary relief. Cure seemed impossible until one day a very old lady heard of my case and went out to a little creek bank nearby and gathered a weed which she smashed up and rubbed on the infected parts. This gave me instant relief. Since that time I have cured several of my friends of very severe cases of poison ivy almost immediately. I am writing to let you know that I will be pleased to help any one who may be suffering from this awful rash, without pay of any kind, as I want to relieve suffering. I do not know the name of this weed and know of only one place where it may be secured.

REPLY.

In McNair's book on poison ivy there is a list of several hundred poison ivy remedies, each vouched for by one or more persons. In this group there are listed 60 plants. Perhaps yours will be found in the following, taken from this list: Virginia snakeroot, boneset, bugbane, cotton bush, button bush, Indian snakeroot, clearweed, sweet fern, lady slipper, honeysuckle, purple cornflower, foxglove, yellow jasamine, goldenrod, gum plant, hellebore, spotted touch-me-not, nettle, elder, thorn apple, wormwood.

What Today Means to You

"LIBRA."

IF OCTOBER 17 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9 a. m. to 10:40 a. m., from 1 p. m. to 2 p. m. and from 7 p. m. to 8 p. m. The danger periods are from 11:30 a. m. to 12:30 p. m. and from 5 p. m. to 6 p. m.

Astrological influences on this date will promote industry, and the fruits of the day will be from hard labor. Success through merit is shown. Developments in life which bring great happiness Much fluctuation in finance. Unhappiness in personal relationships.

The child born on this October 17 will have a vascillating nature, but will have a kind and lovable disposition. It will not be overly ambitious, but will have a contented spirit. It will be fortunate in quiet and subordinate positions. It will benefit through friends.

If your success depends on pure ability to do things, on a mind which quickly grasps knowledge, on a likeable disposition, and on personal wishes, it would be assured. Ability, however, is no more important than stickability; persistence counts. You are not lacking in ambitious desires, but you prefer fate to fulfill them without your personal supervision, or personal sacrifices. You are a manufacturer of ideas, but after their birth, they must fend for themselves, or be adopted by some one else. You seem content, because of a lazy streak, to remain on lower notches than those for which nature has fitted you.

You are of a good nature and you do not resent the efforts of others to prod you on to greater things. If the demands are too irksome, however, you simply balk and can not be budged further. You are a great reader, a keen observer, and a dreamer You are ever working out solutions for the troubles of the world. You can correctly analyze most things which do not strike too near home. You refuse to analyze, or to take too seriously, your own weaknesses. Other people worry for and about you, but it may be said that you almost never worry. Because of your sunny smile, your playful moods and insane optimism, the world is ready to forgive you much and to help you much. Although you take much for granted, people do not resent doing things for you. You have an amorous nature.

Successful people born October 17:

1. Richard M. Johnson, Vice President under Van Buren.
2. Lorettus S. Metcalf, founder of the Forum.
3. Bruce Crane, artist.
4. Eric Pape, artist.
5. Robert Lansing, former Secretary of State.
6. Thomas Fortune Ryan, capitalist.

"A VISITATION."

DEAR Miss McDonald: Kindly tell me what to do. I am in a panic of distress. After a visit of three months from my mother, 75 years old, I find she has talked about me to every one with whom she came in contact.

I go to business and during my absence she told the neighbors all of my past life's history, many things I preferred they should not know. Her criticisms were most unjust, damaging and untrue.

She told people I was cruel to her, when I know no one could have done more. I feel that I can never write to her again and yet if she lives I must have her visit me again next summer as she is dependent on her children. Before she left she seemed to actually hate me and reminded me of how much I was like my dead father, whose memory she hates. Please tell me what to do. Shall I write her of the things I've heard?

Can you imagine why a mother would take such a stand? Please answer, either through your paper or personally. MARIAN.

Well, to start with there is no occasion for panic, none whatever. You have a gossipy, backyard housekeeper for a mother and so have a few thousand other girls. So just accept it and forget it. Nothing that the old girl has done can possibly matter to you except as you let it affect your serenity. And it is not worth a moment's thought. It would be lovely if every mother was the sort they show in paintings, but it so happens that in real life a goodly number are malicious old souls who ought to be able to ride about on broomsticks. Your dad could probably help you to understand the situation, for you may be sure he endured plenty. But so long as men continue to pick shallow, useless, little man-hunters as wives, you will find shallow, useless, whining mothers. You have one. She probably nagged your dad to death and has now begun on you. Well, she does not mean to you what she meant to your poor dad, so just ignore her.

Do not write her of what you have heard. What difference does it make? If the neighbors are intelligent they have formed their own opinion of her as a mother, and would believe nothing that she would say. If they are not intelligent, what difference can their opinion make to you? Your life and happiness are all within you. Nothing can touch you or your happiness unless you allow it to enter into the sacred inner part of your consciousness. What you let in, what you think about, is all that can touch you. And with all the glorious things there are in this world to think about, I, for one, can not imagine why you should waste time on an inferior soul with a back-yard mental plane. Can you?

The visit, or rather visitation, is over. There will not be another for a year. Dismiss the whole matter until then. Do not write to her, do not think of her. And when she rides up on her broom next year will be time enough to decide the next step. Write me again then and we will run a nice little article for her special benefit on why some mothers find themselves unwelcome in their children's homes.

Meanwhile be glad you are "so much like your father" and enjoy your youth.

This column is for you! Your experiences, opinions and suggestions will help those who read this page. Express your views and help those in need of advice. You need not sign your name.

Guiding Your Child

By MRS. AGNES LYNE.

How Punishment Works.

Those who defend punishment or at least practice it as the most useful instrument of discipline do so because, as they say, "It gets results."

They forget to add that they also find punishment convenient, for it requires of them little effort and less thought.

Punished, the offender frequently ceases to offend at least in that particular direction. Yet what, besides restraining a child from certain acts, does punishment accomplish?

Punishment is effective in so far as it is either physically or psychically painful. The individual upon whom pain is inflicted is aroused to certain destructive emotions. He responds with fear, hate or wounded self-esteem.

These feelings are bad for him. If fear is his dominant response he learns to cringe and deceive while he appears to conform; if it is hate, he indulges in further misbehavior to show his defiance. He tries to avenge himself to the best of his ability.

If he is hurt in his own estimation he suffers from a feeling of inferiority and loss of self-confidence. Such emotions and attitudes are not helpful to discipline in the long run nor to the growth of good social adjustment generally.

There are few occasions when it is not possible to find some better method than punishment for getting results. Appeals to reason, to fair play, to consideration for others, and patient habit training will accomplish thoroughly and without harmful by-products what punishment at best only accomplishes temporarily and superficially.

Discipline through means other than punishment requires of the parent more thought, imagination and self-control, but it is well worth the extra effort it requires, for it develops desirable behavior as a result of the child's inner growth.

Uncle Sam's Home Hints

LIMA BEANS IN TOMATO SAUCE.
(U. S. Department of Agriculture.)

In colder weather the dried legumes, such as peas, beans of different kinds, lentils and so on, come into the menus more often. This tasty recipe for limas is:

2 cups dried lima beans.
2 quarts water.
2 cups canned tomatoes.
8 whole cloves.
½ pound sliced bacon.
1 large onion, sliced.
2 tablespoons flour.
Salt.
Pepper.
Tabasco.

Wash the beans and soak them overnight in water to cover. In the morning pour off this water, cook in 2 quarts of lightly salted water for about a half hour, or until tender but not broken, and drain. Simmer the tomatoes with the cloves for ten minutes and strain off the juice. Cook the bacon in a skillet until crisp, remove from the fat, drain on absorbent paper and keep warm. Brown the onion in the bacon fat, stir in the flour until well blended, add the tomato juice and beans, and cook until the sauce thickens. Season to taste with salt, pepper and tabasco, and serve with the strips of bacon over the top.

IT WAS LOCKED

READ THIS FIRST.

Robin Smith, a young and rising but extremely sensitive poet, is invited to make one of a country house party. He accepts because Lady Gwendolen Winston, with whom he is desperately in love, will also be present; but he is so worked upon by the contrast between his youth, poverty and awkwardness, and the polished, blase manners of the other guests, that after quarreling with the Earl of Winston, Gwendolen's brother, and Donald Flint, her fiance, he locks the door of his bedroom and flees through the window back to his attic room. When Robin does not reappear the house guests start a search for him. The Earl of Winston is also missing. The guests burst open the door to the poet's bedroom. They discover the body of Lord Winston. Gwendolen faints. The police are called and a constable arrives. He is told by Bruce Armstrong, explorer, that Smith, the poet, has gone.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XI.

"Well, I don't know as to that, although I suspect he ran away. But not for the reason you imagine," added the explorer hastily, seeing the expression on the constable's face. It reminded him of a wild beast who has spotted his prey. That was what it was for detectives and policemen, he imagined. An impersonal hunt, such as he indulged in when he went out to bag a tiger. Men and beasts had many instincts in common, not the least conspicuous being that of the chase.

"When did Mr. Smith leave? And how? Where is he now?" The constable was excitedly pouring question after question at the imperturbable explorer.

"If I'm not greatly mistaken, he left soon after 10 o'clock, by that window." He pointed to the still open casement. "And if I am anything of a psychologist, he is now sleeping peacefully in his own bed, wherever that may be. I regret to say I don't know him well enough to have his address for you."

His suave, half-mocking manner angered the constable. He meant to turn over as comprehensive a report as possible to the inspector when he arrived; so he curbed his impatience and continued his questionings.

"How did the body come here?"

"That's for you and your colleagues to discover. I found it here. That's all I know."

"What were you doing here?" asked the constable sharply.

"I was innocently searching for the two late guests, Lord Winston and the poet chap."

"What time was that?"

"About 10:30 or a quarter before 11."

"Why wasn't I summoned sooner? It was nearly midnight when Lady Dorothy's butler rang my home."

"Well—er—you see, we didn't find the body immediately." Bruce Armstrong smiled. It was a curious, enigmatic smile.

"Didn't find the body? What are you talking about? Wasn't it here all the time? * * * You haven't moved it?" The constable eyed the other man suspiciously.

"I found him lying on his face and turned him over to make sure of his identity. That was all."

"And it took you an hour to do that?"

"No. * * *"

"What were you doing all that time? That's what I want to know!"

"It will undoubtedly astonish you, but it is the truth. Truth is frequently stranger than fiction. * * *"

"What were you doing?" insisted the constable impatiently. He wasn't here to listen to platitudes.

"I was opening the door, with the assistance of an improvised jimmey. * * *"

"You mean thee door was locked? the constable asked in amazement.

"Exactly," was the bland reply.

"Then where's the key?" He got up abruptly and went to examine the lock. "Was it locked from the inside?"

"I don't know. * * *"

"It must have been if Mr. Smith left by the window. How do you know he did?"

"I don't know, I merely surmise that he did. There are two very distinct footprints just below the window as though a man had landed in the soft ground from some height."

"We must get hold of him at once! He'll be a valuable witness, if nothing more." The insinuation in the last few words could not be ignored.

"I shouldn't be surprised if you found a number of valuable witnesses about the premises."

The constable was not listening. He was too intent on his own theory which was forming rapidly. This was Mr. Smith's room. He was a poet. He must be poor—all poets were poor, as far as that went, from what he had heard of the breed. This one most certainly must be like others of his caliber, or his hostess would not have put him off in such a cubby-hole. He had mysteriously disappeared at almost the time the murder had been committed. He left by the window secretly after carefully locking the door and taking the key with him. The body had been robbed. It had been found in this very locked room. It was all as clear as daylight. He'd just read the other day about a writing fellow who was jailed for stealing bread. It was too bad they were so hard up. But why didn't they get a decent job, like other honest, God-fearing folk? That's what he wanted to know. If they'd do a man's work instead of wasting their time scribbling, there'd be no need to murder and rob them as were better off. Such goings-on led to Communism, played right into the hands of the Bolsheviks. An end ought to be put to them at once. An example ought to be made of this poet bloke. He ought to be hanged.

Next morning, precisely at 9, there was a knock on Robin Smith's door.

The poet, feeling weary from the excitement of the day before, was lying comfortably in his bed thinking of his delightful escapade. He was thoroughly enjoying himself. And he was not at all like other people, the bourgeois, who lived by the clock, who at a certain hour had to think of getting up, of swallowing their breakfast quickly, and of getting to work. And it was a particular pleasure to lie in bed this morning. He decided that he would lie in bed until he felt like getting up. And it was a delicious thought to have breakfast in bed. He was sure that the knock came from the maid, Mary, fetching his breakfast of bacon and eggs—and hot, steaming coffee! And, strange to say, in spite of his being a poet, Robin Smith could enjoy a breakfast of bacon and eggs as well as anybody. A healthy appetite did not appear to effect the merit of his poetry at all.

"Come in!" he called, his head alone protruding from under his bedcovers.

The door opened, and, to his astonishment, instead of Mary, a man appeared, a total stranger to him. He was a tall, robust figure attired in a dark-blue serge suit, looking altogether business-like, not at all the sort that Robin was accustomed to associate with. The face was energetic, yet quiet, almost elusive in expression. Above all, Robin noted the man's eye which seemed to look you through and through.

The stranger, shutting the door behind him, paused standing, and without a word looked down on Robin with those keen, penetrating eyes of his. This lasted but for a few moments, but for some reason to Robin it seemed as if the stranger had stood there an intolerably long time. What could this intruder possibly want? Robin could not utter a word for astonishment, while for some unaccountable cause his heart began to thump most furiously.

At last he thought he saw the man's lips move.

"I am Inspector Deemer, of Scotland Yard. You are Mr. Robin Smith?"

Robin gazed at his visitor as at a ghost, while Inspector Deemer, without taking his eyes from the poet, went on in his nonchalant voice:

"Lord Winston was found dead last night."

Robin raised himself from his pillow. He felt himself tremble as he tried to speak, and his words came in perceptible stammers:

"L-lord Win-in-ston d-dead?"

"Yes," replied his visitor calmly. "Found with a dagger in his heart. Murdered!"

Robin's head suddenly swam. The things in the room began to go round as though he were intoxicated. He grasped the sides of the iron bed so they cut into his hands. Gradually, the meaning of his visitor's words became clear to him, and with an effort at control he gathered comprehension. But he remained speechless.

Dissection of Single Cell Demonstrated to Society

Glass Points One Twenty-five Thousandth of an Inch in Diameter Explore Separate Bacteria; Hypodermic Injections Sometimes Given.

New York, Oct. 16 (A.P.)—Cell surgery, a method of dissecting with glass points not much thicker than a wave length of red light, was demonstrated to the New York Electrical Society tonight. The points are about one-twenty-five-thousandth of an inch in diameter, made by drawing out a molten glass tube.

This surgery is used to explore single cells of living bodies, to capture bacteria singly, and is valuable for industrial work in isolating individual molds and spores.

The technique shown tonight was perfected by Dr. Robert Chambers, professor of biology of New York University. In his absence, it was explained by Dr. Henry J. Fry, another biology professor, with the aid of microscopic motion pictures devised by C. G. Brand, also of New York University.

The apparatus is named micro-manipulator. The pictures showed single-cell animals, such as an amoeba, in a drop of water depended from the bottom side of a pane of glass, a microscope above the glass, a light shining through the drop from below, and the glass needles, operated by thumbscrews, reaching like fingers into the drop of water.

Single cells, invisible to the unaided eye, contain mechanisms of growth, and perform the bodily functions which produce either health or disease. Each cell is a chemical factory, with skin of its own, a central nucleus, and fluids and solids for its working materials.

The needle "knives" dissect it bit by bit. By breaking off a point a needle is converted into a hypodermic instrument, with which foreign chemicals are injected into the cell. A chemical outside the cell is found sometimes to produce quite different effects when it is given internally with the all but invisible hypodermic point. Thread electrodes are inserted into the cell to read the electrical conductivity of its interior, section by section.

A single bacterium, mold or spore is picked up to grow what is known as a "pure culture," that is, an uncontaminated strain. With the bacteria this is important in studying disease.

Raising pure cultures of molds is one of the latest developments of the chemical industry. Molds produce cheese flavors, varying according to what kind of a mold is selected. They make alcohol of percentages which again depend partly on the power of the original mold. They are coming to the front as a cheap method of manufacturing a number of chemicals.

There are thousands of different molds and one problem has been to catch the right one.

IN THE PLAYHOUSE

By JOHN J. DALY

FROM the grapevine route it is learned that Mr. Flo Ziegfeld is contemplating another attack on Washington with "Smiles," the new show he has in rehearsal. It would mean a shift in plans, since the National is pretty well booked up to the Christmas holidays. William Anthony Maguire is hard at work on the book of "Smiles," the dialogue written by Louis Bromfield. Up to this, Boston has been heralded as the scene of the debut, but Ziegfeld always favors a Washington premiere.

Since the National Theater saw fit to change its plans for Thanksgiving week, getting an unknown play by an unknown author, with an all-star cast, instead of the previously announced "On the Loose," with Colleen Moore, the Belasco Theater now follows suit. For Thanksgiving week the Lafayette Square playhouse yesterday scheduled Miss Katherine Cornell in "Dishonored Lady," the play originally booked for later in the season.

"Up Pops the Devil" is making a hit in New York, and "Up Pops the Devil" is one of the favorite dramatic works interesting Mr. Joseph M. Gaites who is busy just now getting about five plays on their way to fame and fortune. One of these is already playing here, "Scarlet Sister Mary," another is due next week, "Michael and Mary," another will be here the week after that, "The Man in Possession," and another left town last week, "Everybody's Secret." A wire from Mr. Gaites, received yesterday, states he is on the way to Washington to attend another rehearsal of Miss Barrymore's troupe this afternoon. They are still working on the play in the Belasco.

Miss Barrymore, incidentally, has been rather harassed by a garbled interview in the press, a statement attributed to her which set the hell-hounds loose and caused her no end of worry. Yet, in the face of rehearsal after rehearsal, and playing the regular performances in a play that keeps her on the stage from the opening to the final curtain, she seems none the worse for wear. Her philosophy of life stands her in good stead. Somehow, she manages to wrench a smile out of sorry situations—off stage, that is; in her own drama of life. On stage, in her new play from the Julia Peterkin novel, there is little comedy.

The Theater Guild, the Professional Players and Miss Eva Le Gallienne's Civic Repertory group all having demonstrated that much can be done in the theater if the theatergoing public is organized, now comes the New York Theater Assembly to add a fourth unit to the subscription plan. Walter Greenough is director of the New York Assembly, an outfit that got away to a belated start last year and now hopes to rival all others in the field. Five plays will be given during the current season. The first is called "Room of Dreams." It is by Daniel Coxe, an adaptation from the Viennese original by Ernst Weiss.

William Bolitho, celebrated journalist, turned in a manuscript just before he died, entrusting it to several friends. It will be produced soon with Marc Connelly, author of "Green Pastures," selected as the director. Bela Blau is the producer and the leading character will be portrayed by Colin Clive, the young English actor who had the Capt. Stanhope role in the London production of "Journey's End."

WRECK SURVIVORS BROUGHT TO HAVANA

Hallmoor Lands Members of Crew of Steamship She Had Sunk.

ANTOLIN NOT INSURED

Havana, Oct. 16 (A.P.).—Members of the crew of the Cuban steamship Antolin Del Collado, rescued after their craft sank early today following upon a collision with the Munson liner Hallmoor just outside Mariel Harbor, were brought to Havana this afternoon on the Hallmoor.

Some of the crew had to leap overboard to escape being taken under by the ship, so swiftly did it sink after being cut nearly in halves. The men said that the Antolin had been heading for Mariel port, making its way slowly through the fog. Regulation lights were burning, they said. The Hallmoor loomed suddenly in the fog and before the smaller craft could maneuver out of the way, it was struck amidships.

The alarm was given and the two passengers and those of the crew of 28 who were not on duty tumbled from their beds. The vessel listed heavily and started to sink before its three lifeboats could be lowered. One of the small boats was crushed in its davits, but the other two were successfully lowered as the Antolin went down.

All those who leaped overboard were picked up and the entire party was taken on board the Hallmoor.

The Antolin, which until 13 years ago was called the Marco Aurelio, cost $90,000 when it was built. It was supposed to be the oldest boat in Cuban freight service.

An investigation will be launched tomorrow morning into the accident. Julien Alonzo, president of the Empressa Naviera, the company which owned the sunken ship, said that it had sunk in 250 feet of water and that it, and the $80,000 cargo of food supplies intended for eastern Cuban ports could not be salvaged. He said that no insurance had been carried.

Hoover Secretary Loses Damage Suit

$60,000 Action on Son's Behalf Results in Trolley Firm Verdict.

Minneapolis, Oct. 16 (A.P.).—Walter H. Newton, secretary to President Hoover, today lost the $60,000 damage suit he brought against the Minneapolis Street Railway Co., for injury to his son, John, who lost a leg when a street car knocked him from his bicycle last year.

Secretary Newton had brought two suits which were tried at the same time. In one he asked $50,000 damages on behalf of his son and in the other $10,000 for himself. The jury returned a verdict for the company.

As the verdict was announced Mrs. Newton burst into tears and nearly collapsed while John hobbled to her side on his crutches and sought to console her. Counsel for Newton said he would seek a new trial.

FALSE-PROFIT CLAIM IS LAID TO BOB FIRM

Company Paid Dividends Stockholders Did Not Know of Charge.

MAIL FRAUD IS ALLEGED

New York, Oct. 16 (A.P.).—Fictitious earnings, Assistant Attorney General Washburn said today, have been reported by the Metal & Mining Shares, Inc., the head of whose directorate, Charles V. Bob, is missing. The company also has paid dividends without the knowledge of the stockholders and without the knowledge of most of the directors and officers of the company, Washburn said, since the stock market crash a year ago.

After this disclosure Washburn, who has charge of the State Bureau of Securities, conferred with District Attorney Crain with the result that Mr. Crain assigned an assistant to present the evidence obtained to the grand jury.

The assistant attorney general also said he expected to turn over to the Federal attorney's office data tending to show the mails were used fraudulently by Metal & Mining Shares, Inc., in Mr. Bob's numerous transactions, personally, in disposing of stock outside the State.

It operated as an investment corporation of the first-class up until November and thereafter it began to liquidate its holdings in good listed securities and to acquire shares of various companies Bob was promoting, Washburn said. Recently the State official discovered that securities listed as worth $6,000,000 were missing from the safe of the concern.

A large portion of the securities have now been located in the safety deposit vault in the Chemical Bank & Trust Co., while other securities have been found in the safe of Charles V. Bob & Co., authorities said. Frank Meehan, an official of the State bureau, said he believed most of the securities were in safe keeping here or abroad, or pledged as collateral on loans.

Detective's Daughter Is Believed Kidnaped

Denver, Oct. 16 (A.P.).—Believed to have been kidnaped, 10-year-old Leona O'Loughlin, daughter of L. O'Loughlin, Denver City detective, was the object of a State-wide hunt today. The girl has been missing since early Wednesday.

Denver police headquarters held the opinion O'Loughlin's recent investigations and arrests may have caused his enemies to seek revenge by kidnaping the child.

HIGH BOND REDUCED FOR GANG MEMBER

Supreme Court of Illinois Calls Chicago Judge's Act Unconstitutional.

THIRD "ENEMY" SEIZED

Chicago, Oct. 16 (A.P.).—A third member of the "Public Enemies Club" was removed from the streets of Chicago today, but a supreme court decision that $50,000 bond was asking too much of an alleged vagrant made easier the lot of James ("Fur") Sammons.

The high court at Springfield ruled that Judge John H. Lyle, of the Chicago Municipal Court, disregarded and openly violated Constitution and law in fixing prohibitive bond and reduced the figure to $5,000. Sammons' attorney was expected to furnish the money and obtain his freedom shortly.

Less happy was the fate of George ("Red") Barker, alleged labor racketeer and gunman. Chief Justice John P. McGoorty of the criminal court found that he was at large by virtue of a habeas corpus writ which the Circuit Court of Peoria County had no right to issue. Barker was handed to the custody of parole officers and removed forthwith to the Pontiac Reformatory, where word came later in the day that Barker had already been assigned to a cell.

Third Name Is Erased.

Barker's withdrawal from the municipality signalized erasure of a third name from the list of men not wanted here. Jack Zuta was written off the records by enemy gunmen. Willie Niemoth was returned to Baltimore, tried and sentenced to prison for a $47,000 pay-roll robbery.

Sammons, incidentally, is still under shadow of extradition proceedings for the same crime that cost Niemoth his liberty.

The Supreme Court, in lowering his bail on the vagrancy charge, pointed out that instead of piling up exorbitant bond on the minor count authorities should arrest him on charges of driving while intoxicated, carrying concealed weapons, vagrancy and assault to kill, with bonds on each count. The court said that the public could scarcely be expected to obey the law when courts openly violate it.

Excessive Bail Not Required.

"Excessive bail is not to be required for the purpose of preventing the prisoner from being admitted to bail," the ruling said.

The first of 22 secret warrants issued yesterday by Judge Lyle was served today on Marcus Looney, business agent for a local union. War on alleged rackets was carried into the Chicago Chauffeurs, Teamsters and Helpers Union by State attorney's raiders late today. Police seized records and took Samuel Alex, secretary, to the Racket Bureau to be questioned.

The Lingle murder mystery broke into print again today with report of a new investigation. Corpl. Thomas McAdrian, a guardhouse prisoner at Fort Sheridan, told Waukegan officers that he overheard supposed Indiana gangsters plotting the death of the Tribune reporter last June in a roadhouse at Wheeling, while McAdrian was a deserter from the Army post.

Comment by Lyle.

Judge Lyle said, upon learning of the Supreme Court decision in the Sammons case, that he would be "resigned" to the ruling and would hereafter set bonds of $5,000 on known hoodlums arrested as vagrants.

He granted a change of venue to Claude Maddox, Capone gangster, who was arrested last Sunday in Cicero in company with Barker and Jack "Three-Fingered" White. All were charged with gun toting.

"I should like to have it generally understood that I shall be governed by the Supreme Court at all times," Judge Lyle said to prosecutors. "It is a misfortune of the public, but not your fault or my fault, if criminals are allowed to go about Chicago free to continue their activities."

Ginger-Drink Victims Plead Guilty to Sale

Mobile, Ala., Oct. 16 (A.P.).—Charles F. Smith and Frank Cain, Clarke County retail dealers and victims of a so-called ginger extract alleged to have caused paralysis, in Federal court today entered pleas of guilty to selling the stuff in violation of prohibition.

Smith and Cain, badly crippled, claimed to have been paralyzed from drinking the knid of extract they sold. Judge R. T. Ervin postponed sentence.

Oklahoma City, Oct. 16 (A.P.).—J. I. Whidden and R. T. Pierce, professed Communists who were arrested after making an alleged vocal demonstration yesterday against Secretary of War Hurley, pleaded not guilty to a riot charge today.

Their bonds were fixed at $500 each. Being unable to furnish them at once, they were returned to the county jail.

M. H. Dawson, Brother of G. O. P. Aid, Shoots Wife's Aunt.

Davenport, Iowa, Oct. 16 (A.P.).—M. H. Dawson, executive manager of the Mississippi River Association, today shot and killed his wife's aunt, Mrs. Jessie Horwood, and then committed suicide. Friends of Dawson, who was 52 years old, said that they believed financial worries caused mental derangement.

Coroner J. D. Cantwell pronounced the case one of murder and suicide and said that he would hold no inquest.

Dawson was a brother of A. P. Dawson, executive secretary of the national Republican senatorial committee, and was a prominent business man.

The widow, who was prostrated and under a physician's care, and two daughters survive.

FormerUnionBank Head Held on $25,000 Bond

Cincinnati, Oct. 16 (A.P.).—Joseph C. Castellini, former president of the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks National Bank, pleaded not guilty today to a Federal indictment for alleged violation of national banking laws. Bond was fixed at $25,000.

Castellini resigned as head of the bank last July after bank directors closed the institution due to a run and discovery of a $200,000 shortage.

Incinerator Death Is Called Suicide

Film Actor's Father Is Believed to Have Killed Self by Burning.

Los Angeles, Oct. 16 (A.P.).—The charred body of John Harron, 70, father of Johnny Harron, film actor, was found today in the incinerator of his South Broadway gasoline service station. An autopsy revealed three ounces of gasoline in his stomach. Police declared the death a suicide.

Johnny Harron recently played with Al Jolson, stage and film comedian, in a talking picture. Another son, Bobby Harron, who played leading parts in D. W. Griffith's films some years ago, died in New York City of a gunshot wound believed to have been accidental.

Police Inspector Davidson said Harron undoubtedly swallowed gasoline and saturated his clothing. Indications were he threw papers into the incinerator, sprinkling them with gasoline, and then climbed in and struck a match, police said.

Easterwood Presents Check at Luncheon Honoring Atlantic Fliers.

OFF FOR FRANCE TODAY

New York, Oct. 16 (A.P.).—Dieudonne Coste and Maurice Bellonte, who sowed the seeds of daring on the ocean air, reaped a golden harvest today.

At a luncheon in their honor they were given a check for $25,000, representing the prize offered by William E. Easterwood, jr., of Dallas, for extending the flight from Paris to New York on to the Texas city.

Yesterday they had privately received a check for almost twice that amount, the unexpended balance of the fund raised by the good will flight committee, composed of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and various other wealthy men interested in aviation.

The presentation today was made by Col. Easterwood. Coste responded in French, telling of the receptions he and Bellonte had been given in many cities. From now on, he said, he and his companion would consider that they had two countries, France and America.

After the luncheon the fliers went to a bank to deposit the prize check. Then they were driven to Brooklyn for a reception at Borough Hall by the president of the Borough of Kings. It was their last reception in America. After that they were at last free to rest and to prepare for their voyage home tomorrow on the liner France.

CANCER CLINICS URGED

Philadelphia, Oct. 16 (A.P.).—Dr. Allen B. Kanavel, of Chicago, was elected president of the American College of Surgeons today at the twentieth annual clinical congress being held here. Dr. Kanavel is professor of surgery at Northwestern University Medical School.

Dr. Rose Millar, Ottawa, Canada, and Dr. Eldridge J. Eliason, Philadelphia, were elected vice presidents. Fifty members were elected to the board of governors, with terms expiring in 1933.

At a round-table conference on cancer, Dr. James Ewing, of New York Skin and Cancer Hospital, recommended establishment of five or six large institutions at central points in this country for the exclusive study and treatment of cancer patients.

The institutions, he said, would cost about $10,000,000 each and he suggested that one or two of them should be Government owned and the others privately owned.

"Until this step is taken," Dr. Ewing said, "it will be almost impossible to control cancer, as its study is such a tremendous undertaking as to demand group study."

Commendation of cancer work by the United States Veterans' Bureau was given by Dr. Henry Schmitz, organizer and consulting radiological surgeon of the Edward Hines, Jr., Hospital of Chicago.

in the last three months ★ ★ ★

Waiting for cross-town traffic at 14th Street and New York Avenue, N. W. . . Switch to ESSO and find out how much faster and smoother you can pick up from a standstill when the officer signals—"Go!"

This station at George Ave. and Piney Branch Rd. is typical of the "Standard" service stations you'll find all over Washington. There's a "Standard" dealer or service station near you. Visit the nearest one today.

Last spring an impartial traffic check showed ESSO was Washington's favorite motor fuel . . . that it was preferred to any other motor fuel or gasoline on sale in the District of Columbia, even those selling at regular gasoline prices.

Now, 50% of the leading car dealers in Washington use ESSO in the cars they demonstrate, and recommend it in the cars they sell. At Washington Airport and at Hoover Field, where men know motors, 100% of the personnel use ESSO in their cars. And hundreds of Washington men and women have switched to ESSO, the Giant Power Fuel, in the last three months because they have found it more powerful than any gasoline sold in Washington.

Join the trend to ESSO yourself. Test it against the gasoline you're using now. Find out in your own car that the finest, especially-prepared straight gasoline the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey can manufacture, plus Ethyl fluid, is more than worth its 3-cent premium.

Hallmoor Lands Members of Crew of Steamship She Had Sunk.

ANTOLIN NOT INSURED

Havana, Oct. 16 (A.P.).—Members of the crew of the Cuban steamship Antolin Del Collado, rescued after their craft sank early today following upon a collision with the Munson liner Hallmoor just outside Mariel Harbor, were brought to Havana this afternoon on the Hallmoor.

Some of the crew had to leap overboard to escape being taken under by the ship, so swiftly did it sink after being cut nearly in halves. The men said that the Antolin had been heading for Mariel port, making its way slowly through the fog. Regulation lights were burning, they said. The Hallmoor loomed suddenly in the fog and before the smaller craft could maneuver out of the way, it was struck amidships.

The alarm was given and the two passengers and those of the crew of 28 who were not on duty tumbled from their beds. The vessel listed heavily and started to sink before its three lifeboats could be lowered. One of the small boats was crushed in its davits, but the other two were successfully lowered as the Antolin went down.

All those who leaped overboard were picked up and the entire party was taken on board the Hallmoor.

The Antolin, which until 13 years ago was called the Marco Aurello, cost $90,000 when it was built. It was supposed to be the oldest boat in Cuban freight service.

An investigation will be launched tomorrow morning into the accident. Julien Alonzo, president of the Empressa Naviera, the company which owned the sunken ship, said that it had sunk in 250 feet of water and that it and the $80,000 cargo of food supplies intended for eastern Cuban ports could not be salvaged. He said that no insurance had been carried.

Hoover Secretary Loses Damage Suit

Minneapolis, Oct. 16 (A.P.).—Walter H. Newton, secretary to President Hoover, today lost the $60,000 damage suit he brought against the Minneapolis Street Railway Co., for injury to his son, John, who lost a leg when a street car knocked him from his bicycle last year.

Secretary Newton had brought two suits which were tried at the same time. In one he asked $50,000 damages on behalf of his son and in the other $10,000 for himself. The jury returned a verdict for the company.

As the verdict was announced Mrs. Newton burst into tears and nearly collapsed while John hobbled to her side on his crutches and sought to console her. Counsel for Newton said he would seek a new trial.

FALSE-PROFIT CLAIM IS LAID TO BOB FIRM

Company Paid Dividends Stockholders Did Not Know of Charge.

MAIL FRAUD IS ALLEGED

New York, Oct. 16 (A.P.).—Fictitious earnings, Assistant Attorney General Washburn said today, have been reported by the Metal & Mining Shares, Inc., the head of whose directorate, Charles V. Bob, is missing. The company also has paid dividends without the knowledge of the stockholders and without the knowledge of most of the directors and officers of the company, Washburn said, since the stock market crash a year ago.

After this disclosure Washburn, who has charge of the State Bureau of Securities, conferred with District Attorney Crain with the result that Mr. Crain assigned an assistant to present the evidence obtained to the grand jury.

The assistant attorney general also said he expected to turn over to the Federal attorney's office data tending to show the mails were used fraudulently by Metal & Mining Shares, Inc., in Mr. Bob's numerous transactions, personally, in disposing of stock outside the State.

It operated as an investment corporation of the first-class up until November and thereafter it began to liquidate its holdings in good listed securities and to acquire shares of various companies Bob was promoting, Washburn said. Recently the State official discovered that securities listed as worth $6,000,000 were missing from the safe of the concern.

A large portion of the securities have now been located in the safety deposit vault in the Chemical Bank & Trust Co., while other securities have been found in the safe of Charles V. Bob & Co., authorities said. Frank Meehan, an official of the State bureau, said he believed most of the securities were in safe keeping here or abroad, or pledged as collateral on loans.

Detective's Daughter Is Believed Kidnaped

Denver, Oct. 16 (A.P.).—Believed to have been kidnaped, 10-year-old Leona O'Loughlin, daughter of L. O'Loughlin, Denver City detective, was the object of a State-wide hunt today. The girl has been missing since early Wednesday.

Denver police headquarters held the opinion O'Loughlin's recent investigations and arrests may have caused his enemies to seek revenge by kidnaping the child.

HIGH BOND REDUCED FOR GANG MEMBER

THIRD "ENEMY" SEIZED

Chicago, Oct. 16 (A.P.).—A third member of the "Public Enemies Club" was removed from the streets of Chicago today, but a supreme court decision that $50,000 bond was asking too much of an alleged vagrant made easier the lot of James ("Fur") Sammons.

The high court at Springfield ruled that Judge John H. Lyle, of the Chicago Municipal Court, disregarded and openly violated Constitution and law in fixing prohibitive bond and reduced the figure to $5,000. Sammons' attorney was expected to furnish the money and obtain his freedom shortly.

Less happy was the fate of George ("Red") Barker, alleged labor racketeer and gunman. Chief Justice John P. McGoorty of the criminal court found that he was at large by virtue of a habeas corpus writ which the Circuit Court of Peoria County had no right to issue. Barker was handed to the custody of parole officers and removed forthwith to the Pontiac Reformatory, where word came later in the day that Barker had already been assigned to a cell.

Third Name Is Erased.

Barker's withdrawal from the municipality signalized erasure of a third name from the list of men not wanted here. Jack Zuta was written off the records, by enemy gunmen. Willie Niemoth was returned to Baltimore, tried and sentenced to prison for a $47,000 pay-roll robbery.

Sammons, incidentally, is still under shadow of extradition proceedings for the same crime that cost Niemoth his liberty.

The Supreme Court, in lowering his bail on the vagrancy charge, pointed out that instead of piling up exorbitant bond on the minor count authorities should arrest him on charges of driving while intoxicated, carrying concealed weapons, vagrancy and assault to kill, with bonds on each count. The court said that the public could scarcely be expected to obey the law when courts openly violate it.

Excessive Bail Not Required.

"Excessive bail is not to be required for the purpose of preventing the prisoner from being admitted to bail," the ruling said.

The first of 22 secret warrants issued yesterday by Judge Lyle was served today on Marcus Looney, business agent for a local union. War on alleged rackets was carried into the Chicago Chauffeurs, Teamsters and Helpers Union by State attorney's raiders late today. Police seized records and took Samuel Alex, secretary, to the Racket Bureau to be questioned.

The Lingle murder mystery broke into print again today with report of a new investigation. Corpl. Thomas McAdrian, a guardhouse prisoner at Fort Sheridan, told Waukegan officers that he overheard supposed Indiana gangsters plotting the death of the Tribune reporter last June in a roadhouse at Wheeling, while McAdrian was a deserter from the Army post.

Comment by Lyle.

Judge Lyle said, upon learning of the Supreme Court decision in the Sammons case, that he would be "resigned" to the ruling and would hereafter set bonds of $5,000 on known hoodlums arrested as vagrants.

He granted a change of venue to Claude Maddox, Capone gangster, who was arrested last Sunday in Cicero in company with Barker and Jack "Three-Fingered" White. All were charged with gun toting.

"I should like to have it generally understood that I shall be governed by the Supreme Court at all times,' Judge Lyle said to prosecutors. "It is a misfortune of the public, but not your fault or my fault, if criminals are allowed to go about Chicago free to continue their activities."

Ginger-Drink Victims Plead Guilty to Sale

Mobile, Ala., Oct. 16 (A.P.).—Charles F. Smith and Frank Cain, Clarke County retail dealers and victims of a so-called ginger extract alleged to have caused paralysis, in Federal court today entered pleas of guilty to selling the stuff in violation of prohibition.

Smith and Cain, badly crippled, claimed to have been paralyzed from drinking the kind of extract they sold. Judge R. T. Ervin postponed sentence.

Oklahoma City, Oct. 16 (A.P.).—J. I. Whidden and R. T. Pierce, professed Communists who were arrested after making an alleged vocal demonstration yesterday against Secretary of War Hurley, pleaded not guilty to a riot charge today.

Their bonds were fixed at $500 each. Being unable to furnish them at once, they were returned to the county jail.

M. H. Dawson, Brother of G. O. P. Aid, Shoots Wife's Aunt.

Davenport, Iowa, Oct. 16 (A.P.).—M. H. Dawson, executive manager of the Mississippi River Association, today shot and killed his wife's aunt, Mrs. Jessie Horwood, and then committed suicide. Friends of Dawson, who was 52 years old, said that they believed financial worries caused mental derangement.

Coroner J. D. Cantwell pronounced the case one of murder and suicide and said that he would hold no inquest.

Dawson was a brother of A. F. Dawson, executive secretary of the national Republican senatorial committee, and was a prominent business man.

The widow, who was prostrated and under a physician's care, and two daughters survive.

FormerUnionBank Head Held on $25,000 Bond

Cincinnati, Oct. 16 (A.P.).—Joseph C. Castellini, former president of the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks National Bank, pleaded not guilty today to a Federal indictment for alleged violation of national banking laws. Bond was fixed at $25,000.

Castellini resigned as head of the bank last July after bank directors closed the institution due to a run and discovery of a $200,000 shortage.

Incinerator Death Is Called Suicide

Film Actor's Father Is Believed to Have Killed Self by Burning.

Los Angeles, Oct. 16 (A.P.).—The charred body of John Harron, 70, father of Johnny Harron, film actor, was found today in the incinerator of his South Broadway gasoline service station. An autopsy revealed three ounces of gasoline in his stomach. Police declared the death a suicide.

Johnny Harron recently played with Al Jolson, stage and film comedian, in a talking picture. Another son, Bobby Harron, who played leading parts in D. W. Griffith's films some years ago, died in New York City of a gunshot wound believed to have been accidental.

Police Inspector Davidson said Harron undoubtedly swallowed gasoline and saturated his clothing. Indications were he threw papers into the incinerator, sprinkling them with gasoline, and then climbed in and struck a match, police said.

Easterwood Presents Check at Luncheon Honoring Atlantic Fliers.

OFF FOR FRANCE TODAY

New York, Oct. 16 (A.P.).—Dieudonne Coste and Maurice Bellonte, who sowed the seeds of daring on the ocean air, reaped a golden harvest today.

At a luncheon in their honor they were given a check for $25,000, representing the prize offered by William E. Easterwood, jr., of Dallas, for extending the flight from Paris to New York on to the Texas city.

Yesterday they had privately received a check for almost twice that amount, the unexpended balance of the fund raised by the good will flight committee, composed of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and various other wealthy men interested in aviation.

The presentation today was made by Col. Easterwood. Coste responded in French, telling of the receptions he and Bellonte had been given in many cities. From now on, he said, he and his companion would consider that they had two countries, France and America.

After the luncheon the fliers went to a bank to deposit the prize check. Then they were driven to Brooklyn for a reception at Borough Hall by the president of the Borough of Kings. It was their last reception in America. After that they were at last free to rest and to prepare for their voyage home tomorrow on the liner France.

SURGEONS COLLEGE ELECTS CHICAGOAN

Philadelphia, Oct. 16 (A.P.).—Dr. Allen B. Kanavel, of Chicago, was elected president of the American College of Surgeons today at the twentieth annual clinical congress being held here. Dr. Kanavel is professor of surgery at Northwestern University Medical School.

Dr. Rose Millar, Ottawa, Canada, and Dr. Eldridge J. Eliason, Philadelphia, were elected vice presidents. Fifty members were elected to the board of governors, with terms expiring in 1933.

At a round-table conference on cancer, Dr. James Ewing, of New York Skin and Cancer Hospital, recommended establishment of five or six large institutions at central points in this country for the exclusive study and treatment of cancer patients.

The institutions, he said, would cost about $10,000,000 each and he suggested that one or two of them should be Government owned and the others privately owned.

"Until this step is taken," Dr. Ewing said, "it will be almost impossible to control cancer, as its study is such a tremendous undertaking as to demand group study."

Commendation of cancer work by the United States Veterans' Bureau was given by Dr. Henry Schmitz, organizer and consulting radiological surgeon of the Edward Hines, Jr., Hospital of Chicago.

in the last three months ★ ★ ★

Waiting for cross-town traffic at 14th Street and New York Avenue, N.W... Switch to ESSO and find out how much faster and smoother you can pick up from a standstill when the officer signals—"Go!"

This station at George Ave. and Piney Branch Rd. is typical of the "Standard" service stations you'll find all over Washington. There's a "Standard" dealer or service station near you. Visit the nearest one today.

Last spring an impartial traffic check showed ESSO was Washington's favorite motor fuel . . . that it was preferred to any other motor fuel or gasoline on sale in the District of Columbia, even those selling at regular gasoline prices.

Now, 50% of the leading car dealers in Washington use ESSO in the cars they demonstrate, and recommend it in the cars they sell. At Washington Airport and at Hoover Field, where men know motors, 100% of the personnel use ESSO in their cars. And hundreds of Washington men and women have switched to ESSO, the Giant Power Fuel, in the last three months because they have found it more powerful than any gasoline sold in Washington.

Join the trend to ESSO yourself. Test it against the gasoline you're using now. Find out in your own car that the finest, especially-prepared straight gasoline the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey can manufacture, plus Ethyl fluid, is more than worth its 3-cent premium.

Women's Golf Favorites Survive

Van Wie-Hill and Collett-Hicks Semi-final Line-Up.

Subpar Golf Marks Play in 3 Matches at Los Angeles.

By RUSSELL J. NEWLAND.

LOS ANGELES COUNTRY CLUB, Los Angeles, Oct. 16 (A.P.).—Booming drives and flashing short games combined today to furnish a huge gallery with some of the most brilliant golf of the week as four feminine stars stroked their way to the semifinals of the thirty-fourth annual women's national championship.

No upset marred the play, the four favorites, Miss Glenna Collett, New York; Miss Helen Hicks, Inwood, N. Y.; Mrs. O. S. Hill, Kansas City, and Miss Virginia Van Wie, Chicago, all going into the semifinals. Three matches produced subpar golf while the fourth ranged on the borderline of standard figures.

Four times winner of the title and striving for a third successive reign, Miss Collett defeated Miss Peggy Wattles, Buffalo, N. Y., 3 and 1. The defending champion won the first two holes and was never headed, although her more youthful rival managed to square accounts once at the eighth.

Miss Collett 1 Up At Turn.

Miss Collett won the ninth with a par 3 to make the turn 1 up. Each tourned the first half in 39, par figures.

With the next two holes halved, Miss Collett captured the twelfth and thirteenth to go 3 up, lose the fourteenth to a birdie 5 and after halving the next two posted a birdie 4 on the seventeenth to clinch the match.

Miss Collett was four under women's par when she finished, while Miss Wattles was two under.

Lured by what promised to be the greatest battle of the day, more than 1,000 spectators trailed Miss Hicks, 19-year-old star, and Mrs. Leona Pressler, of San Gabriel, Calif. Miss Hicks won, 2 and 1. The crowd was not disappointed. For ten holes the pair battled even. They finished the first nine all square, Miss Hicks stroking a 38, 1 under par, to 39 for Mrs. Pressler, 1929 national runner-up.

As the result of the victories, Miss Collett will oppose the Hicks girl tomorrow in what figures to be the most sensational round of the tournament. The match will pit the terrific driving of the Inwood entrant with the seasoned all-round performance of the defending champion.

In today's upper bracket matches, Mrs. Hill and Miss Van Wie pulled through without difficulties. Mrs. Hill, medalist, eliminated the rising young star, Miss Maureen Orcutt, of Haworth, N. H., 3 and 2, while Miss Van Wie routed Mrs. Roy Green, of Culver City, Calif., by the one-sided score of 7 and 5.

Mrs. Hill Shoots First 9 in 38.

Mrs. Hill shot a 38 for the first nine and was 5 up at the turn. Her opponent slumped badly, using 3 strokes. After halving the tenth and eleventh, Miss Orcutt won the next three holes to cut her rival's lead to 2 up. The fifteenth was halved, but Mrs. Hill took the next and deciding hole with a birdie 4, Miss Orcutt finding the rough and a trap for a 6.

Miss Van Wie won the first four holes; the next four were halved and she went 5 up at the ninth with a par 3 to Mrs. Green's 4. A birdie 4 on the tenth put the Chicagoan 6 up, and she lost the eleventh with a 4 to Mrs. Green's birdie 3. Miss Van Wie carded a birdie 3 on the next hole and ended the affair on the thirteenth with an eagle for the 430-yard layout.

Miss Van Wie had a 38 for the first nine and at the thirteenth was 5 under par. Mrs. Green made the turn in 44.

SPEED SHOWN IN OLD LINE WORKOUT

Open Play Looms in St. John's Game Tomorrow.

UNIVERSITY OF MARYLAND'S varsity eleven showed quite a bit of snap in its drill yesterday as it spent its last long session under the floodlights in preparing for the important State tilt with St. John's at College Park tomorrow.

The Old Line players, who were not so peppy the first three days of the week after the gruelling battle with North Carolina, appeared to have thrown off thir lethargy and should be in first-class trim for the Johnnies.

There should be plenty of open play in the contest, Maryland's offensive consists of fast running plays mixed with serials, while St. John's is expected to resort to tossing in its effort to upset the Old Liners. And Maryland in Chalmers and St. John's in Willis Lynch have two boys who can throw 'em.

Maryland to Start Same Lineup.

All indications point to Maryland starting the same team that began the Yale and North Carolina games with Bill Evans still holding to his "pinch-hitting" role despite the fact that he ran wild after going into the clash with the Tarheels last Saturday.

St. John's will present a couple of speed merchants in Bob MacCartee and Paul Cassassa, Washington boys, but Maryland also has its fliers in Rozey Berger, Al Woods and Ray Poppelman, so that some flashy runs may be expected.

Simmons League Batting Champion by 2 Points

Chicago, Oct. 16 (A.P.).—Al Simmons, clean-up man for the world's champion Athletics, beat out Lou Gehrig, of the Yankees, for the 1930 American League batting championship by 2 points, official averages revealed today.

So close was the struggle between the two for the batting crown that a rush order was filed with the league statistician by the American League and the results placed Simmons' average at .381 and Gehrig's at .379.

Usually, the official results are not announced until the calm of winter when they refresh the fan's memory of the past season and increase his interest in the approaching one.

The official, final standings of the two batsmen:

	G.	AB.	H.	Pct.
Simmons	138	554	211	.381
Gehrigh	154	581	220	.379

Westbrook Pegler Says

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—The heavyweight pugilists are indulging in much talk, listing those who, for various reasons, do not deserve to be fought by them. Altogether the situation is cluttered with so many social, political and professional aversions that just now there are no two prize fighters among the so-called leaders of the set who find one another compatible and eligible.

The customers, strangely enough and for the first time in years, appear to be unanimously agreed that if none of them ever fight again it will be 1,000 years too soon, and the heavyweight class is dying of inactivity, apathy, larceny and wealth. There will be no flowers at the funeral, but, for lack of any other more fitting disposal of the Tunney-Muldoon Tombstone, which now obstructs the lobby of the new Garden, the trophy of a fraudulent trade, it might be a good idea to cart it off to some dump and mount it there amid the rest of the rubbish as a monument to the moribund heavyweight division.

This is no opportune time for the pugilists to be naming those whom they do not wish to fight, for every such list has been greeted with a resounding silence from the patrons, indicating that it will be quite O. K. with them if none of them ever enters a ring again.

Primo Can't Fight If He Would.

William Stribling will not fight Sharkey or Carnera. Sharkey will not fight Carnera or Stribling. Max Schmeling seems determined not to fight any one, and Carnera, in his first fight in this country against a pugilist above the grade of the common stumble bum, lost a decision to James Maloney, who is flattered when he is called a third-rater, indicating that even if Primo should want to fight, he couldn't.

This decline of the heavyweight business has been steady since the demise of Tex Rickard, and, while the regrettable depression in the market holdings of the millionaire devotees probably has had something to do with the condition, I have an idea that Mr. Will Carey, Rickard's successor in the Garden firm, has been largely responsible.

Believes Mr. Carey Too Honest.

Some persons, including the depressed millionaires and the heavyweights, might feel inclined to blame Mr. Carey for this, but there are others who will think he has performed a public service and render him gratitude accordingly.

It is my belief that Mr. Carey has been too honest for his responsibilities, and if I were one of the depressed millionaires, owning shares of stock in the Garden which, at my last inspection, were just barely quotable, I should advocate his removal from office and the substitution of a gentleman with the correct temperament.

Also, I would listen attentively to a proposal to depose Mr. Frank Bruen, the business manager of the firm, and appoint some energetic conniver with long schooling in the prize fight industry, which is blood kin of the hijacking industry, of whom I could nominate several.

Mr. Bruen is of the race track and, while the horse business is not and never has been without its larcenists, the prize fight business represents larceny in the postgraduate sense. A trainer or owner who fakes a horse race and is found out is barred from the tracks even as a spectator, but in prize fighting, the commissions,

C. U. PRIMED FOR LOYOLA CONTEST

Cardinals to Present Strongest Line-Up Tomorrow.

CATHOLIC UNIVERSTY expects its attack to function in high gear for the first time this season when it plays Baltimore Loyola tomorrow night in Griffith Stadium.

In each of three earlier battles the Cardinal offense has been slowed on account of the crippled condition of the team as a whole and the back field in particular.

The fact that tomorrow night the Cardinals will present their strongest array to date gives rise to high hopes on the Brookland campus for victory. Thus far the Cardinals have failed to win a game.

Fred Guarnieri, blocking quarter back, and Johnny Oliver, versatile half back who calls signals besides running and passing, are expected to inject new power into the C. U. attack. This will be Guarnieri's first game this year, but he gained some experience in 1929 when he served as a reserve full back. Oliver is returning to action in good physical condition for the first time since being hurt in the Franklin and Marshall game.

O'Brien Returns To Post.

Ed O'Brien, right tackle, will be back in the line after a two weeks' period of idleness with an injury, and Carl DeMello, half back, will be ready to resume work as a substitute since his ankle ailment has disappeared.

With prospects of having a stronger line-up available, Coach Dutch Bergman has been stressing offensive drill this week. A defensive improvement was noted when the Cards met Holy Cross last week, so Loyola should find the Brookland team far more capable than was indicated in the first two weeks of the campaign.

Loyola has played but two games thus far and is in ne condition for battle. In its opening encounter it lost to Rider College, 7-0, but it came back last Saturday to swamp Washington College, 33-7.

Dellaire Threat Of Loyola.

The Baltimoreans own a clever back in Dellaire, who specializes in forward passing. He is their man threat, for he runs the ball well and does some of their punting besides heaving the pigskin. The Cardinals must keep him covered 1 norder to hold Loyola gains to a minimum.

The game marks Catholic's local debut under lights. Bergman gave his team a workout in Griffith Stadium last night in preparation.

Authorities of the Brookland school have invited all of the students of Washington's public and private high schools to attend the contest free of charge.

Gelbert, Cardinals' Star In Series, Takes Bride

Valley Forge, Pa., Oct. 16 (A.P.).—Charles S. Gelbert, star shortstop of the St. Louis Nationals and one of the outstanding players in the recent world series was married today to Mabel Grace Hafer, of Chambersburg, Pa. The romance which resulted in today's marriage began on the campus of Lebanon Valley College when Gelbert and Miss Hafer were members of the same class.

After a reception at Washington Inn, Valley Forge, the couple will leave for northern New York and Canada, and will make their home in St. Louis.

Coach Seeks Replacements for Injured Regulars.

THE gloom surrounding Georgetown's practice camp in Griffith Stadium yesterday was the same as of Wednesday — thick and dark enough to use for chalk talks, with Coach Tommy Mills repeating his statement of the day before concerning the game to be played tomorrow with Western Maryland in Baltimore: "We're going to take a licking."

It seems that until the freshmen ran through, around and over the Hilltop varsity in a scrimmage on Wednesday, Mills was becoming somewhat brighter in mind about the impending battle. The sensational victory scored by the Blue and Gray over West Virginia Wesleyan last Friday night had begun to influence Mills into thinking that his boys had a chance against the tough Terrors from Westminster.

Mills Sees Little Chance for Victory.

"But now that's out," Tommy declared yesterday. "The only way in the world that we can beat Western Maryland is to shake a back loose in the open field with nobody between him and the goal posts. And that's going to be mighty hard, if not impossible to do, judging from the weak defense we put up against the Western Maryland plays as employed by the Freshmen."

Adding to Mills' cup of woe is the fact that he hasn't any experienced replacements for two positions in the line-up. Two days before his biggest test of the season he was desperately seeking some one to fill in for Bill Maczees at left half back, and for Aurel Tremblay at right guard. These two are injured, Maczees with a deeply cut lip in which ten stitches were required, and Tremblay with a sprained ankle.

In Maczees' position Mills was experimenting with Tom Wallace, a comparatively untried junior, who flashed fleetness of foot in broken field running against West Virginia Wesleyan. But Wallace, naturally a right half back and lacking familiarity with the plays, showed unmistakable signs of needing much more practice before he can plug up the gap acceptably.

Dick Danner, second string left guard, was shoved into the breach at right guard, and he, too, on account of little previous experience in competition, evidenced some weaknesses.

It is possible that both Maczees and Tremblay will be able to play tomorrow. College athletes are quite likely to sniff at injuries when the time comes for battle. But in any event, neither of this pair will be 100 per cent fit.

A dummy scrimmage consumed most of the time in yesterday's practice with the freshmen again working against the varsity. No strenuous action was permitted. Mills endeavored to smooth out some defects in the running plays.

Great Fight Expected By Hilltop.

In spite of circumstances, Georgetown may be expected to wage a great fight. Memories of last year's 7-0 defeat from an obscure team from Maryland's hill country are fairly scorching the Hilltoppers' minds. They hope to wreak revenge in no small measure.

Practice at Westminster has been speeded to the limit this week. Dick Harlow's warriors are expecting to meet their toughest foe to date. Indeed, Harlow declared yesterday that this game offers the hardest opposition a Green Terror eleven has faced during his five years as its coach.

The Terrors are reported to be building up a defense calculated to stop Johnny Scalzi, Georgetown quarter back, who has displayed fine open field ability in previous contests. No doubt Georgetown will suffer if Scalzi is throttled, but the Terrors still will be troubled plenty if that is the limit of their success on the defense.

Georgetown's running attack, as demonstrated against West Virginia Wesleyan, is a thing of terrific speed and masterful timing. It probably would avail touchdowns against the strongest of defenses. And in view of the fact that the Terror ground attack also is deadly, the game may develop into a free-scoring affair.

Cubs Likely to Sell Their Farm at Reading

Chicago, Oct. 16 (A.P.).—Because of the major-minor league draft controversy, the Chicago Cubs may sell their International League baseball farm, the Reading, Pa., club.

President William Veeck, of the Cubs, today refused to deny or affirm the report, although he said, "there wouldn't be much use to own the club if relations between the majors and minors were broken and no players were permitted to be exchanged."

A definite announcement was expected within the next ten days.

fleet-footed end of the Coyotes, whose specialty is snaring forward passes, is pictured getting under way on a long run. He will be closely watched by George Washington in the game tonight.

ON EASTERN GRIDIRONS

WEST POINT, N. Y., Oct. 16 (A.P.).—After a brief workout at noon, Army's football squad, 38 strong, left today for Boston, ready for the big duel with Harvard. Practice sessions will be held tomorrow in Harvard Stadium and at the Belmont Springs Country Club.

Columbia Scrimmages With Frosh.

New York, Oct. 16 (A.P.).—The Columbia Lions went through another gruelling workout today before leaving at midnight for Hanover, N. H., where Dartmouth's strong eleven will be met Saturday. Scrimmage against the freshmen was the outstanding business of the day. The squad of 34 will practice in Harvard Stadium tomorrow.

Cornell Stresses Passes In Practice.

Sophomore in Tiger Back Field.

Brown Coach Eases His Workout.

Bear Stories Told At Dartmouth.

Hanover, N. H., Oct. 16 (A.P.).—Bear stories were the order of the day in Dartmouth camp. Coach Jackson Canneil warned his men that Columbia has an even chance to whip the Indians. Clark, Frigard, Mackey and Durgin, back field men, all are out with injuries.

Injury Jinx Dogs Yale Squad.

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 16 (A.P.).—The injury jinx continued to dog the Yale Varsity Football Squad today, depriving Coach Mal Stevens of another quarter back, Charley Heim. Favored to start against Brown Saturday, he was declared unfit because of an injury suffered in practice earlier in the week. He was to have replaced McLennan, out because of a twisted ankle. Sandy Wiener, tennis star, now will take the quarter back post.

Harvard Handicapped For Army.

Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 16 (A.P.).—Arnold Horwein will be forced to depend upon a make-shift line-up against Army. Devins, back, and Talbot, line man, both are definitely out and there is considerable doubt whether Mays or Chard will be available for the back field. Bob Ogden, veteran end, also may be unable to play.

Carnegie Takes 37 For Notre Dame.

Pittsburg, Oct. 16 A.P.).—Thirty-seven Carnegie Tech football players, including every available varsity man, left tonight for Elkhart, Ind., where they will remain in seclusion until time for the game with Notre Dame Saturday. Coach Bob Waddell will be joined at Elkhart by Advisory Coach Walter Steffen, the Chicago judge. The Tartans will practice at Elkhart tomorrow.

Pitt Squad Leaves For Syracuse.

Pittsburgh, Oct. 16 (A.P.).—The Panther football squad of the University of Pittsburgh, were on their way to Syracuse tonight in confident spirit, despite the loss of three regulars due to injuries. Macmurdo, Hirschberg and Morris are on the bench with hurts suffered two weeks ago. The Saturday game with Syracuse may have a large bearing on the Eastern championship.

Colgate Takes Only Light Drill.

Hamilton, N. Y., Oct. 16 (A.P.).—Colgate University's football squad went through a light drill of two hours here today before leaving for East Lansing tonight for the Michigan State game aSturday. Defense against Spartan plays was rehearsed. Coach Kerry took25 players with him.

N. C. State Will Seek New Coach, Is Report

(Associated Press.)

With the season hardly under way, North Carolina State athletic moguls are reported to be sharpening the ax for their new coach.

State, under John Van Liew, has dropped three of its first four games, and Wolfpack fans are unhesitant in expressing their disappointment.

The Raleigh News and Observer says that a step at this time by the college to obtain a full time back field coach can be taken very plainly to mean that Van Liew, serving a one-year contract, will not be back next year.

Rivals Keyed For Fray at Stadium

Intersectional Battle Marks Home Debut of Colonials.

South, Quarter Back, Star Passer, Threat of Coyotes.

By JACK ESPEY.

AN intersectional football game between a colorful visiting team and a home club that has attracted unprecedented interest locally graces the sports calendar for tonight when South Dakota University's invading Coyotes engage a hardy young George Washington University Eleven in Griffith Stadium, beginning at 8:15 o'clock.

The rivals in this intersectional clash, the first Washington has known in many years, stack up about evenly in every respect, and with this fact in mind together with reports that both teams are keyed to a grim fighting pitch the fans may well look for plenty of excitement.

Colorful to an extreme in their blazing red jerseys with every player a lean, raw-boned husky, the Coyotes impress immediately. Hailing from the land of coyotes, they have brought a real one with them as a mascot. The vicious animal was captured by "Crash" Kramer, a substitute half back.

Local Debut for Colonials.

It is George Washington's 1930 local debut, the first appearance in varsity spangles of the crack Colonial freshmen team of 1929. Needless to say, supporters of the downtown university eagerly await the hour of battle. There are more than 6,500 students at George Washington and to a man they are expected to attend. The total attendance may equal that of the Georgetown-West Virginia Wesleyan game a week ago.

The game also marks the local debut in varsity ranks of Head Coach James E. Pixlee, who last year nursed this current varsity edition as a freshman team in his initial season with the Buff and Blue.

Word preceding the Coyotes from the wind-swept prairies tells that they form the strongest football team their institution ever boasted. This, in the face of their 1930 record —one victory, one loss and one tie —does not mean a great deal, but, as a matter of fact, George Washing-

BOBASHELA, GARNER UP, LAUREL FEATURE WINNER

Boot To Boot, Choice, Runs Dull Race

Audley Mare, Off in Front, Scores Without Urging.

Bronco Wins Feature Race After Ravine, 50 to 1, Leads.

By J. B. SNODGRASS.
Special to The Washington Post.

LAUREL, Md., Oct. 16.—The Westminster, which featured the Laurel card today, drew six starters. The Audley Farm's Bobashela led all the way to win by a half length, running the mile in the fast time of 1:38 2-5. W. E. Caskey's William T. was second, a half length in front of K. E. Hitt's Sunvir. There was no outstanding favorite in the field and but one long priced starter, Searcher. The winner paid $10.80.

There was a large crowd out again and the weather was pleasant but warm. The betting at this track is heavier than usual and there seems to be no signs of hard times in the pari-mutuel section.

No time was lost at the gate, the horses starting immediately in front of the grandstand in mile races. M. Garner was alert at the gate and got off first, but Boot to Boot, the public choice, and Solace fought it out for a contending position. William T. closed fast to get the place. Sunvir outgamed Solace in the final drive, the Seagram horse finishing fourth. Garner's ride on Bobashela was excellent, while the horse needed no urging at any point. Boot to Boot ran a dull race compared with his last effort here last week.

Bronco Romps Home In Opener.

Twelve maiden colts and geldings, 2-year-olds, started eventually in the first race, at six furlongs, rated as low as $2,000 each at the claiming window. W. R. Coe's Bronco, which looks very much like a ranch horse, won easily. Three lengths back the Walbri Farm's Brighton was second, and Ben Kling third. The pace was set by Ravine, marked up at 50 to 1, and it was not until the far turn that Bronco was permitted to take the lead from him. Leishman, once in front, rated his pony ahead and Bronco was never out of a pull. He paid $4.80. The time was 1:13 2-5. Our Johnny showed speed. Brighton was $21 a place.

The Colgate Stable's Elizabeth Bolla won the second race, W. Day up. First Mission, an outsider, closed fast from the sixteenth, passing most of the field to be second, two lengths behind the winner, a good finish for Jockey Tilden, Adams was third on Wicker.

Toki, the favorite, failed again. She led to the far turn, with Paddock second, when she dropped out. Paddock was outrun, finishing fourth. The winner paid $15.80 to win. First Mission was $14.4 place and Wicker $5.50 to show. The time was 1:13 2-5. Twelve started. Toki getting a good lead at the barrier.

Winden's Priory Leads Two-Year-Olds.

J. E. Widener's Priory won the St. Michaels Stake, for 2-year-olds, by two lengths. W. R. Coe's Rahorus was second, a half length in front of Robert A. Fairburn's Glastonbury. Avalon, pacemaker, was fourth. Garner held Priory, the favorite, off the early pace, while Avalon led almost to the stretch. Then Priory was turned loose, went to the front and was going away at the end. The 6 furlongs was run in 1:12 1-5. This was faster time than in which Priory lost the Johnson Stake race Saturday. Rahorus came from far back to get the place. The winner paid $4.20.

The Brookmeade's Stable's Raccoon repeated his good race of Monday to win the fourth event, the Halethorpe Purse for 3-year-olds. The Geneseo Stable Brown Trap, with Adams up, an outsider, took the place, beaten a half length. W. R. Coe's Cesare, second choice to Raccoon, was third. Honey Grove was fourth. The time was 1:45 2-5 for the mile and a sixteenth. The winner paid $5.20.

Robertson went from the gate flying and led all the way. Cesare closed fast, but could not catch Adams on Brown Trap, which paid $4.50 for place. Panda was scratched. Cesare was conceding weight to the field.

Nile Maiden's Victory Is Double for Coe.

The sixth race was the second division of the Halethorpe, the first section being the fourth event. Nile Maiden won by a length and a half, making a double for W. R. Coe and also a double for Jockey Leishman. R. F. Carman saddled the second horse, Good and Hot, which left the gate first and led to the sixteenth pole. Mrs. James Arthur's Berber, Adams up, was third. The time was 1:46 3-5. The winner was odds on, paying $3.80. Seven horses started for the $1,500 purse, at a mile and a sixteenth.

The chestnut gelding Wayfarer, owned by Richard Pending, stalled off the stretch rush of Baritone and won the seventh race on the program by a half length, paying $15.00 in the $2 straight mutuels.

BRONCO broke from outside and was carried wide down the back stretch, went to the front going to the half-mile pole and drew away rounding far turn. He had something in reserve at end. BRIGHTON broke slowly, worked his way up on the outside, moved up with a rush making turn into the home stretch. KEN KLING was hard ridden all last furlong, bumped ARIES when latter was making his run coming into home stretch and Louman was forced to snatch up to keep from falling. RAVINE, LOOKBY and PROBATION all showed flashes of speed.

ELIZABETH BOLLA, steadied in near pursuit of the leaders, moved up to take command when ready, was kept under pressure and gradually drew clear. FIRST MISSION began slowly, reached his company with good speed and finished in stout fashion. WICKER, prominent throughout, held on well for the final drive. PADDOCK raced TOKI into submission and continued with good energy. TOKI weakened fast the last furlong. CANDY PIG ran evenly.

PRIORY, forcing a fast pace from the start, reached AVALON when approaching the home stretch, was kept under urging until clear and had speed in reserve at the finish. RA HORUS dropped back at the turn, resained his stride and finished stoutly. GLASTONBURY closed strong on the inside. AVALON set a rapid early pace and held on well. PORTCODINE showed speed.

RACCOON outran his field to the first turn, was steadied in front, was shaken up entering the home stretch and, withstanding a drive gamely, outstayed BROWN TRAP. Latter forced a good pace from the beginning, offered stiff contention and fought it out with good energy. CESARE, forced to work his way up on the outside, faltered in the final furlong. HONEY GROVE broke fast, was kept close up and finished willingly. TIMON stopped.

BOBASHELA GLIDES HOME IN FEATURE RACE.

BOBASHELA going in his best form, and having keen speed, raced BOOT TO BOOT into defeat, saved ground and, under stout urging, lasted to stall off WILLIAM T. Latter, reserved off the pace, moved up menacingly when put to a drive and finished stoutly. SUNVIR, prominent all the way, was easily best of the others. SOLACE could not improve his position. BOOT TO BOOT tired badly in the final test. SEARCHER was held safe.

She wore down the tiring GOOD AND HOT in stretch run and was going away at end. GOOD AND HOT beat the others away from the post and saved ground all the way. He was driving hard at end to stall off BERBER. Latter closed in resolute fashion under punishment. MA BELLE showed a lot of speed to the top of home stretch and was eased up when she stopped.

TECH AND BUSINESS OPEN SCHOOL SERIES TODAY

Little Chance For Stenogs In Clash

Nelson, Quarter Back, Bright Star of Defending Champs.

By BOB CONSIDINE.

THE annual high school football series gets under way today at Central High Stadium at 3:45 o'clock when Tech High, Elmer Hardell's tribe of stanch young men, start their obstacle-strewn path toward another District championship. Business High is slated to be the first victim, the two meeting today. Business finished last in the series in 1929, and is only expected to give Tech's bigger and better team a gentle rub.

Business' fighting spirit is well known in high school ranks, and Hardell is taking no chances on its superseding his team's power. He has selected his best men for the opening whistle, disdaining the prevalent habit of starting "shock troops."

Eastern vs. Landon, the only other scholastic game scheduled for today, was moved up one day, and the tussle was enacted yesterday at Eastern's field, with the home team winning, 12 to 0. The change in date was on account of the Tech-Business game today, which both teams desired to see.

Eastern was far from impressive in this win. A fine driving attack at the very outset saw the Lincoln Parkers mow down "Milly" Price's lighter eleven and quickly score a touchdown. But after this Eastern let down badly, and the Wisconsin avenue lads held them in check until late in the final section.

Emerson to Invade Staunton.

Twenty wearers of Emerson Institute's maroon will leave today for Staunton, Va., to face their hardest test of the year. Tomorrow morning, at 10:30 o'clock, they take the field against the Staunton Military Academy.

Coach Harley Page Sanborn put his men through a drill yesterday, the last they will see until tomorrow's battle.

Some comparison of the relative strengths may be gained from the information that Staunton bested Woodberry, 6-0, while Emerson lost to that team, 6-0.

Quantico Marine Team Plays Carlisle Today

Two of last season's undefeated elevens will clash this afternoon, when the Quantico Marines take on the Army Medicos from Carlisle Barracks, Pa., at Quantico. The opening kickoff is scheduled for 2:30 o'clock. Carlisle in 1929 was the unbeaten service champions of the Third Corps Area, while the Leathernecks also went through a stiff schedule without loss.

The Marines boast their usual strong, rugged squad again this fall. Last Saturday the Fort Eustis team was swamped under a 110-0 score. Langley Field was trounced, 7-0, several weeks ago. Outstanding stars of the outfit are Lieut. Daly, former Nebraska half back; Lieut. Noon, former Notre Dame player; Diaz, shifty quarter, who made four touchdowns against Eustis; Beck, center, and Sheff, full back.

On Armistice Day the Quantico Marines will play an all-star college team at Philadelphia. Five days later they will meet the Mohawks, runners-up for the District unlimited championship last year.

Wake Forest Defeats N. C. State, 7 to 0

Raleigh, N. C., Oct. 16 (A.P.).—Wake Forest's Deacons scored a hard-fought 7 to 0 victory over the North Carolina State College Wolfpack before a fair week crowd of 8,000 here today. The Deacons, playing the best football all the way through but fumbling often chalked up the victory as their fourth over State in 24 games and the first since 1924.

Wake Forest scored shortly after the second period started.

The Deacons got to the Wolfpack's 7-yard line just before the first period ended and an exchange of punts gave them the ball on their own 33-yard line.

Mills ripped off 25 yards and Benton passed to Covington for 17 more. Several line plays gained little yardage and Benton again flipped to Covington, the Deacon fullback substitute being downed on State's 3-yard line. Quillen made a beautiful cutback run over right tackle for the touchdown and then added the point with a perfect dropkick.

ton friends and scouts who have watched the visitors in action state that the Capital eleven will have its hands full.

Coach Vincent Montgomery has injected plenty of deception in the South Dakota attack, hoping to wrest the decision through surprise maneuvers. He has not been content to rely solely upon bull strength, in which the Coyotes are amply stocked.

Forward passing plays a conspicuous part in the South Dakota offense with "Big Bill" South, 175-pound quarter back, tossing the oval to Joe Crakes, six-foot-two end. It is said that South can throw strikes with a football and that Crakes can catch it under the most difficult conditions. The visitors' passes are unfolded from a punt formation which sometimes is a spread and at other times a close formation.

South's qualities are many. He is South Dakota's best passer, best punter, best runner and, in short, its most valuable player. That the Colonials will watch him closely goes without saying.

The probable G. W. plan of attack is to pound the Coyote line at the outset and turn to the aerial route only if "Bugs" Bagranoff, Otto Kriemelmeyer, Joe Carter and Lee Carlin can not carry the ball through the opposing forward wall.

Billy Wells, the Colonial passing wizard and able field general, will not start the game. Pixlee will hold him on the bench so that he can pick out any weak spots in the enemy defense, and if such are discerned he will enter the fray to direct the G. W. attack at those places.

Kriemelmeyer, Washington's only native son in the Colonial line-up, is expected to prove an important factor. The punting burden has been entrusted to this lad who first gained fame locally as the all-high full back of Tech High School in 1928.

The weights of the teams are nearly even. The Coyotes average 186 pounds as a team to 183 for the locals. In the back field the invaders average 181 to 177 and in the line have an edge of 188 to 187.

Neither team has an impressive 1930 record on paper. South Dakota's sheet shows an 85-0 victory over Augustana, a 25-7 loss to North Dakota State and a 7-7 tie with Yankton. George Washington has defeated Delaware, 9-6, and bowed to Rutgers, 20-6. But past records will mean nothing to such determined opponents as those who will clash tonight.

which are political bodies and always mindful of the interests of their friends and their friends, never bar permanently any one who has any friends.

Garden Also Forgets Sportsmanship.

Mr. Carey and Mr. Bruen have been several guesses behind their problems from the time they took office and their most grievous failure was the recent Sharkey-Campolo promotion, a fight without an excuse, which did not come off. For the first time, the Garden firm was unable to go through with a production, and the fact that the bout was booked only to thwart Michael Malloy's Sharkey-Carnera understanding in Chicago aroused some indignation in the trade.

The Garden concert, since Carey's accession, had made some pretense of sportsmanship, but, in this case, when a small dealer seemed likely to make some money the big store enforced its monopoly. Unable to produce this bout himself, Mr. Carey and his firm were not willing to let a man produce it who could. In the end there was no bout at all and the Garden suffered a loss of prestige worse than any since the firm was organized.

Incidentally, it was odd to hear that Mr. Campolo refused to consent to the transfer of the Sharkey bout indoors on the ground that his share of the gate would be reduced, considering that one week before the date originally held for this production, he, Campolo, described himself as a wealthy Argentine patriot, fighting for the glory of his country and without the slightest thought of any earnings that might accrue. Perhaps a deception was practiced. I wouldn't be surprised.

The pugilists themselves will hardly know what to make of the customers' unconcern now that they have all discovered strong reasons why nobody deserves to be fought by them. Always, hitherto, there was a tendency to scold them for evading logical opponents or appeal to their loyalty to the public, but in the present case their determination to avoid one another is meeting with enthusiastic assent.

Of course the boys are all wealthy by now and need not fight any more, but prize fighters are always greedy and the widespread disinterest comes as retribution for many impositions. William Stribling, declining to fight Sharkey, states that he does not believe he could get a square deal from the New York public. In this I believe he is correct, but, on the other hand, Sharkey couldn't expect a square deal either, for both have had many opportunities and neither of them has ever shown any great desire to guarantee the customers a square deal. If they ever should fight, the customers would only hope that both boys got the worst of it.

Judging by past performances, I should say that the only time the customer can be fairly sure of a square deal from the current heavyweight class is when he stays home and keeps his money.

NAVY IN SCRIMMAGE.

Annapolis, Md., Oct. 16 (A.P.).—The Navy Football Squad was put through a hard scrimmage today, the hardest session since the Notre Dame defeat, in preparation for the Blue Devils of Duke to be met Saturday. The offensive and defensive passing game was stressed by Coach Bill Ingram.

SUNDAY FRAY LISTED FOR GONZAGA

Purple Eleven Battles La Salle Gridmen at Cumberland.

GONZAGA plays the first Sunday football game of its career on the impending Sabbath when it visits Cumberland, Md., for a session with the gridmen of LaSalle Institute.

Coach Orrel Mitchel has been experimenting with his men during the last few days' scrimmage, but it is doubtful if there will be nay drastic departures from the team which has heretofore been known as the first.

Mitchell's quarter-back position has been worrynig him, and Dna Dunan was temporarily transplanted to a half-back post, with Schramm calling the signals but Daniel is likely to get the assignment Sunday.

Gill, Lineman, Injured.

One of Orrel's linesmen, Johnny Gill, whom he has coddled from the greenest of materials nito a first rate running guard, will be out of the line-up Sunday nad for at least two weeks to come. Gill's right shoulder was thrown out of whack yesterday in practice, just when it began to appear that Orrel had some all-scholastic material in his line.

Moderation Winner In Hawthorne Race

Chicago, Oct. 16 (A.P.).—With the substituting of a claiming affair for the featured Young Sinners' Handicap, due to heavy scratching because of the sloppy condition of the track at Hawthorne today, the card was robbed of a real good feature.

This made the fifth number, the Edith Shayne Purse, the outstanding event of the day. It was a claiming affair for 3-year-olds and upward over the 1 1-16 mile distance.

G. H. Manheimer's 4-year-old colt Moderation, showing a liking for the going, proved the best, winning easily. The Missouri Stable's Prince Tokalon was second, and the Valley Lake Stable's Buddy Basil was third. The time was 1:51, and the winner's share was $850. He paid off at $20.74 to $2 in the mutuels.

With the rail position in the starting machine, Moderation was taken right into the lead, which he increased to win easily by 4½ lengths. Prince Tokalon made his move approaching the stretch turn and was next best, taking the place money by eight lengths from Buddy Basil. Cockrill, the heavily played favorite, finished fifth.

The racing was conducted over a sloppy track, with showers all afternoon

BOAT RACE POSTPONED.

Gloucester, Mass., Oct. 16 (A.P.).—The second race of the international series for the championship of the North Atlantic fishing fleets was again postponed today when Capt. Angus Walters, skipper of the Bluenose, found he could not have the Canadian champion ready in time to sail a race that could be completed before dark.

It was expected the next race with the Gertrude L. Thebaud would be sailed tomorrow.

Cubs Get Jakie May From Reds for Cash

Chicago, Oct. 16 (A.P.).—The Cubs today complete negotiations with the Cincinnati Reds for the purchase of Jakie May, veteran left-handed pitcher. The deal was strictly cash, but, as usual, the amount pad to the Cincinnati management, was not revealed.

The acquisition of May, who was with the Reds for seven seasons, brought the Cubs' purchases to three veteran hurlers in less than a week.

AMERICAN U. WEAKENED FOR GAME

3 Regulars Ailing as Eagles Leave for N. C. Game.

FACING their first contest in the South, 21 American University gridmen accompanied by Coach Young and managers were scheduled to entrain at 11 a. m. today for High Point, N. C., where tomorrow they will oppose the High Point College Eleven.

With Fred Johnson, half back; Ed Parke, end, and Will Denit, guard, all suffering from some form of indisposition, the Eagles will present an array weaker than their usual standard. Johnson is out for the remainder of the season with a fractured ankle, while Parke and Denit, though still in uniform, are recovering from colds.

Coach Young Names Players.

Coach Young last night announced his probable starting line-up as follows: Jarvis and Parke or Larson, ends; Lambert and Levin, tackles; Folston and Denit or Hendrick, guards; Lytle, center; Borsari, quarter back; Fuchsle and Olsen, half backs, and Diehl, full back. The reserves are Clark, Chates and Bowers, backs; and Tate, Rodriguez, Kidder, Hoover and Esper, linemen.

Clark, substitute half back, who has never played before, made such an impressive showing in practice this week that Coach Young has planned to use him tomorrow at some stage.

High Point has not startled the football world this season but is expected to prove a worthy foe for American.

Students Cheer Penn, Leaving for Wisconsin

Philadelphia, Oct. 16 (A.P.).—With the cheers of several thousand fellow students ringing in their ears, the University of Pennsylvania football squad left late today for Madison where the Quakers will meet the University of Wisconsin team on Saturday. The Pennsylvania band helped in the send-off.

"I feel that Pennsylvania has an even chance of winning from Wisconsin provided the weather is fair and the field dry," said Head Coach Lud Wray.

"If it rains or the field is soggy the advantage will be with Wisconsin because their style of play can take advantage of a heavy field.

"Our whole squad is in first-class condition with the possible exception of Jerry Ford, who, in a pinch, can play. I look for a hard game."

Quest Given 10-Goal Rank for Indoor Polo

New York, Oct. 16 (A.P.).—Winston F. C. Quest, young polo international-ist, again has been given the maximum ranking of ten goals for indoor play.

The new handicap list, announced today by the Indoor Polo Association, showed Guest and Lieut. M. McD. Jones, who now is playing with the Army Team in Argentina, rated at 10 and 9 goals, respectively, while Gerard S. Smith, of the Brooklyn Riding and Driving Club, was given a 9-goal ranking.

Marking the spread of the indoor game westward, a new circuit, to be known as the Western, was authorized, to include the Army players of Fort Francis E. Warren, in Wyoming.

The entire slate of officers, headed by George C. Sherman, honorary president, and Robert A. Granniss, president, was reelected.

Devitt Prep Engages Alexandria High Today

Alexandria, Oct. 16.—Tomorrow afternoon at 3:30 o'clock, Alexandria High School and the Devitt Preparatory School; of Washington, D. C., will clash in a football game at Baggett's Stadium that promises to be a real battle. Alexandria stock took a decided jump with the announcement that Gerald Turner, big tackle, will start in the opening line-up of the locals. Turner is the biggest player on the high school squad and is very fast afoot.

Jim McNamara, Devitt coach, is coming here with a fast and heavy team. His boys held Newport News High to a scoreless tie last Saturday. Devitt is bidding for the football honors in Washington and they are anxious to beat the Alexandrians in a decisive manner to point out to Washingtonians their strength at the football game.

Alexandria High School authorities have made arrangements to handle a big crowd at this contest. The field will be marked and special places will be set aside for automobiles. The gates will open at 3 o'clock.

Alexandria Sports

Special to The Washington Post.

ALEXANDRIA, Va., Oct. 16.—Twenty-five members of the Del Ray Athletic Club were present last night for the annual baseball banquet tendered to the team that carried the club's colors on the diamond the past season.

The banquet was held at 1015 West Clyde street and was presided over by P. O. Clarke, president of the livewire Potomac athletic organization. Mrs. Clarke and several other ladies served the affair.

Short talks were made by various members on the success of the baseball campaign and a rising vote of thanks was given to Jeff Williams, coach, for his efforts in directing the boys. Mr. Williams responded with a short and inspiring talk.

It was stated at the conclusion of the banquet that the regular monthly meeting of the club would be held next Friday and all members were urged to attend. On Sunday the Del Ray Club Football Team will oppose the Mardfeldts. This game will be played at Mount Rainier, Coach Hamilton has called a practice for this evening. This is a Capital City League contest.

Buck Beach's Virginia Athletic Club Football Team will make a determined effort Sunday to get on the winning side of the ledger when they oppose the Sixteenth Field Artillery gridders from Army headquarters on the Shipyard Field at 2:30 o'clock.

As an added attraction to the Virginia-Sixteenth Artillery clash, the Virginia Midgets will make their bow in Sunday football against Bill Hammond's Pirates.

Engine Co. 5 will play their first out-of-town game Sunday, October 19, when they will hook up with the fast Fort Washington Eleven at the Government camp. The firefighters are planning to carry a full squad of about 25 players. Manager Shaw states that the trip will be made on a Government boat.

Thomas, of Virginia, Seeks Glory on Offense at V. M. I.

Special to The Washington Post.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., Oct. 16. Bill Thomas, the shining light in Virginia's back field, is tired of being praised as a defensive star. He want's a little more credit for his offensive work. He is going into Virginia's next game with V. M. I., Saturday at Lexington, with the hope of getting it.

In the four games Virginia has played Thomas has carried the burden of the Cavalier attack. But his fine play as safety man has won him much more fame than his punting, passing and ball carrying, that all he he ever hears is about how he stopped opposing runners.

Against Duke and Pennsylvania his defensive play was truly spectacular. When he left the field in the final quarter of both these contests there was a ringing ovation of applause that lasted until long after he had rested upon the bench.

Rival Backs Halted Behind Line.

Weaknesses in Virginia's line enabled opposing teams to get ball carriers through with interperence ahead. Many of these backs got down to Thomas, but none of them passed him. Sometimes he had to sidestep or stiff arm an interferer before getting the man behind. His tackling was always deadly and sure.

"If it hadn't been for Thomas Virginia would never have stopped Penn's forward passes," one sports critic said. For Penn completed only one while Thomas was in action. "Thomas played a smart and spectacular game on defense," reports a Philadelphia paper.

Punts Average Fifty Yards.

Thomas starred in other departments. Virginia's passes gained much more ground than Penn's and Thomas was on the throwing end of most of them. Thomas did all the punting until he was taken out, and his kicks had an average of five yards better than those of the Quakers. Scouts who had seen his 62-yard run against Duke spread the warning that he'd have to be watched. They kept an eye on him at Franklin Field, and in doing it they let other Virginia backs get away.

W. & M. TEAM PINS HOPES ON SCOTT

Fleet-Footed Back Is Chief Threat Against V.P.I. Tomorrow.

Special to The Washington Post.

WILLIAMSBURG, VA., Oct. 16.—William and Mary makes its bid to be classed among the leading elevens of the State Saturday at Richmond, with Virginia Poly furnishing the hurdle. The Indians' coaches sent their charges through a snappy workout today in final preparation for their most important game.

Last year, with the Indians' tomahawks not quite sharp enough for the Gobblers' necks, V. P. I. took the long end of a 25 to 14 score. The Indians, in true Redskin fashion, are out for revenge, and have sharpened a fast passing and running attack in hopes of offsetting with speed the Gobblers' advantage of strength and weight.

With their running attack built chiefly around the fleet-footed Bill Scott, whose long runs gave the Indians both of their touchdowns last year, and Red Maxey, the king of last year's high-scorers in the State, William and Mary will not be lacking in speed. Upon their forward wall, however, whose playing can only be classed as erratic thus far this season, the Indians' chance of success lies.

Constantino Nursing Injured Shoulder.

The squad is in comparatively good shape, with only Constantino, the Indians' great defensive back, on the injured list with a wrenched shoulder. Light workouts have marked the final stages of the Indians' preparations, as Coach Bocock is anxious not to overtrain his eleven, which has already gone through three hard games and is facing seven more as hard ones.

The entire William and Mary student body will accompany its team to Richmond, and will vie with the V. P. I. cadet corps for yelling honors while their teams are vieing for State honors.

Virginia and V. M. I. Freshmen Play Today

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., Oct. 16.—Virginia's first year football team will make its debut against the Virginia Military Institute freshmen tomorrow afternoon. The game will be played on Lambeth Field at 3:30 o'clock.

Joe McConnell, first year coach, and Roy Randall, director of first year athletics, have been working with a squad of new men for exactly a month.

Ed Adams, a home-town boy and graduate of the Lane High School of Charlottesville, will play full back unless the coaches decide to put in Palmer, from Jefferson High, Roanoke. The choice for quarter back is between Bucky Harris of McGuire School, and Milton Abramson from Devitt Prep.

For the half back positions in the starting line-up there is a quadrangular race between Holiday, a Virginian; Baird, who comes from New York Military Academy; Booker, from Lexington, Ky.; and Suddrath, a product of Devitt Prep.

V. P. I. Yearling Team Makes Debut Today

Special to The Washington Post.

Blacksburg, Va., Oct. 16.—Virginia Polytechnic Institute freshman eleven will open its 1930 season in Miles Stadium here tomorrow against Roanoke College freshmen. Game time is 3:15 p. m.

Coaches Henry Redd, John Looney and Phil Hotchkiss will have a squad of 60 in uniform for the fray. These three score players are the outstanding candidates of the 210 who reported for practice four weeks ago. Coach Redd expects to use at least four teams against the Little Maroons tomorrow, regardless of the score, he stated today.

The schedule includes five games, two with Virginia Conference members and three with Old State rivals: October 17—Roanoke College Freshman at Blackburg, Va; 25—William and Mary Freshman, at Williamsburg, Va. November 7—Virginia Freshman, at Blacksburg, Va.; 15—W. and L. Freshmen, at Blacksburg, Va.; 22—V. M. I. Freshman, at Lexington, Va.

Fishburne Weakened For Episcopal Game

Special to The Washington Post.

Waynesboro, Va., Oct. 16.—With gratifying victories over Randolph-Macon and Fork Union already tucked away in its bag of triumphs, Fishburne Military School's Football Team is now faced with the strong probability of suffering a defeat when it meets Episcopal High School in Alexandria Saturday.

Fishburne has always regarded E. H. S. as a worthy foe, but the latter's brilliant 14-to-0 victory over Augusta Military Academy last week has served to increase considerably an already healthy respect for the Episcopal aggregation.

To darken further Fishburne's hopes there is the matter of injuries. Martin, Mattox, and Warburton, from the line, have been unable to participate in practice this week, due to injuries received in the Fork Union game.

GRAINS AND COTTON SAG AS STOCKS SINK

Issues Lose 2 to 4 Points; Southern Railway and Warner Brothers Up.

1,854,710 SHARES SOLD

New York, Oct. 16 (A.P.).—This was a day of reactions in the stock and commodity markets. Shares prices sagged also steadily in the dullest trading since September 18, closing 1 to 4 points lower in a 1,854,710-share turnover. Wheat and corn lost 1 to 2 cents, and cotton was off 60 to 90 cents a bale.

The lethargic decline in stocks caused favorable comment in quarters which are hoping that the market will get plenty of time for stabilization. The shorts have lost some of their boldness in the face of the tightest loaning rates in years, regardless of whether those rates are the result of an organized effort to prevent indiscriminate short sales that might tend toward demoralization. On the other hand, support from covering was not so noticeable today, and it was apparent that the larger bear operators were willing to wait for definite signs of strength.

For two successive days the market had advanced, which was something of an accomplishment; and profit taking therefore was regarded as natural, although some brokerage circles had expressed a belief that the rally could carry further. Nevertheless the realizing failed to make a very deep dent on many of the favorite shares, for good support was in evidence at the lowest levels. United States Steel rallied promptly on its frequent excursions below 150 and closed a fraction above that quotation, off 2 points net. General Electric met large offerings and lost 3 points, while Westinghouse, whose earnings statement is expected soon, dropped more than 4 before firming slightly. The net loss was 3¾.

Call Money at 2 Per Cent.

Bonds appeared stronger. Call money officially held at 2 per cent, but was available at 1¾. A lively demand for commercial paper failed to affect rates.

The $27,000,000 increase in outstanding bankers' acceptances last month in comparison with August was encouraging at first glance, since it was in line with seasonal trends, but it developed that the gain was due chiefly to credits of the Grain Stabilization Corporation on wheat held in warehouses. Export and import credits declined.

Shipment of $5,000,000 in Argentine gold to New York was seen as a move to support the peso. It was reported that the republic might send in considerably more, although such a movement would not be interpreted as forecasting the reopening of the Argentine conversion office.

The $153,000,000 decline in Federal reserve brokers' loans, about in line with expectations when allowance was made for the Monday holiday, brought the decrease for the past three weeks to $470,000,000 and carried the total down to $2,752,000,000, the lowest since early 1927. The deflation from the peak on October 2, 1929, slightly exceeds four billions.

Gillette Gains 7 Points.

A few stocks, mostly those affected by special situations, showed independent strength, especially Gillette, which rallied more than 7 points on announcement of the Autostrop merger plans. The closing price was 5 net higher. Consolidated Film ran up a couple of points, stimulated by news that an important contract had been closed. Warner Brothers Pictures gained more than 3 and Paramount and Loew's held firm. Fox Film sagged. Southern Railway rallied 3 on covering prompted by assurances that the dividend would be maintained.

On the downside, there were losses of between 2 and 3 in American Telephone, American Can, Sears Roebuck, New York Central and Consolidated Gas. Bethlehem Steel, Standard of New Jersey, Baltimore & Ohio, Woolworth and Vanadium dipped about a point, Colorado Fuel & Iron broke to a new low on publication of a bearish earnings forecast. Eastman Kodak also lost 4. General Motors was freely sold but halved its extreme decline of 1 point.

Losses in wheat amounted to a cent and a half. Canadian pool selling and large Western and Argentine exports were factors in the market. Corn dropped 2 cents on increased country offerings and liquidation.

Foreign exchanges were firm to strong, featured by advances in sterling and French franc. The Spanish peseta also improved.

NEW YORK COTTON.

New York, Oct. 16 (A.P.).—After holding fairly steady during today's early trading, cotton weakened under increased Southern and local selling which was promoted by the easier showing of grain and stocks. New December contracts sold off to 10.32 and closed at that figure, with the general market closing barely steady at net declines of 12 to 18 points.

The opening was steady at an advance of 4 points to a decline of 3 points. Liverpool cables were just about as due on the New York close of yesterday, but there was some buying early which appeared to be encouraged by reports of some increase in the South Carolina mill activity and an official forecast for probable frost in Northwest Oklahoma and the Texas Panhandle.

New December sold at 10.53 and March at 10.87 on this demand making net advances of some 3 to 5 points on the more active positions, but this bulge seemed to be meeting a little more hedging from the South as well as realizing or liquidation. Reactions following which became more pronounced as prices worked off without attracting increased support and there was probable some Wall street or Western selling coupled with reselling by early buyers in the late trading. March sold off to 10.68 and closing prices were the lowest of the day on most of the active positions.

Some further trade buying was reported here during the day and reports that a few cotton mills in the Greenville section were planning to increase their working time from three to four days per week, were said to be a contributing factor on the early steadiness. Such bullish features as were in evidence, however, evidently failed to stimulate any general or aggressive buying, however, and this seemed to render the market more sensitive to the influence of the easier ruling in grain and stocks.

Liverpool cables said that hedging in that market had been absorbed by trade calling and continental buying and reported improved sales of cotton cloths for the British home trade and India. Port receipts today 55,901, United States port stocks 3,155,630. Exports today 68,003, making 1,732,897 so far this season.

BOTH FOREIGN BONDS AND DOMESTICS GAIN

South American Advances Again Prove Feature in Improved Trend.

U. S. GOVERNMENTS RISE

New York, Oct. 16 (A.P.).—Foreign bonds advanced on a broad front today as bargain hunters, attracted by the greatly reduced prices established in the recent selling wave bid briskly for a wide list of South American and other foreign obligations. There were many gains ranging from 2 to 5 points.

In addition to the rally in the foreign section, prices in the domestic group moved a shade higher, and a better inquiry for some high grade railroad and utility liens developed. U. S. Governments also were firmer, featured by the rise of Liberty 3½s to a new year's high at 101.8. The record high for this tax-exempt issue is 108.1, established on October 19, 1922.

As on previous days of the advance, the advance in foreign bonds centered in the Latin-American group. A favorable factor was the announcement by the State Department that the Government would not interfere with purchase of supplies in this country by Brazil to quell the revolt.

Turnover Proves Moderate.

Turnover was very moderate, but some of the gains were as spectacular as the recent drops. Antioquia 7s B climbed 12 points and the 7s A 10, and Brazilian Central Railway 7s regained 10¾ points.

Other prominent gains included Argentine 5½s, up 2⅞; Argentine 6s of September 1960, 2½; Brazil 8s, 2; Brazil 6½s, 1½; Bolivia 7s, 3⅞; Colombia Mortgage Bank 7s of 1946, 4¾; Curdinamarca 6½s, 5; Chile Mortgage Bank 6s, 6¾; Minas Geraes 6½s 3; Peru 1st and 2d 6s, 2; Rio de Janeiro 6½s, 3⅞; Rio Grande do Sul 6s, 5¾; Sao Paulo 7s of 1956, 6, and Uruguay 8s, 3.

The European list was much improved. Polish bonds recovered sharply from the year's lows. The 8s were up 4 and the 7s and 6s, 1 to 2. British 5s, which are thinly traded, rose 2¼, and good gains were made by Berlin City and electric company issues. Denmark 5½s, Hungarian Municipal 7s, Karlstadt 6s, Rhine-Westphalian 6s, and Servian 8s and 7s. German 7s gained ½ but the International 5½s, which have moved uncertainly, sagged ¾.

International Phone Gains.

The upward trend evidenced in recent sessions was maintained by rails on narrow advances. Price improvement was more marked in the utility group, American Water Works 5s, Brooklyn-Union Gas 5s, Detroit Edison 6s and 5s, Duquesne Light 4½s New England Telephone 4½s, Pacific Gas & Electric 5s gained ½ point or more. International Telephone debenture 4½s rebounded 1½ and other bonds of the company showed small advances. Utilities Power & Light 5½s soared more than 2.

An 8-point advance by Warner Brothers convertible 6s was the feature of stock privilege issues. The bond closed at 82 compared with the year's low recently established of 68. American International 5½s were up more than a point.

Goodyear 5s slumped to a new year's low at 88 on a 2-point loss. Manati Sugar 7½s rose 7 points to 35 coincident with the better tone of the commodity market.

NEW ISSUE ANNOUNCED

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Indiana Southwestern Gas & Utilities Corporation, of which Isaac T. Mann, local capitalist and president of Pocahontas Fuel Co., Inc., is president, has entered into a management contract with Central Public Service Corporation of Chicago to develop the former Indiana gas properties, according to announcement from the local office of Southern Investment Dealers, Inc.

The statement was accompanied by announcement of the offering of an issue of $2,500,000 convertible 6 per cent ten-year secured notes at 98½ and accrued interest, to yield over 6.20 per cent, for the future activities of the corporation. The corporation, a Delaware firm, was organized in 1928.

Mr. Mann, who recently was elected its president, and is a director in many large corporations, will personally supervise and direct the activities of the corpoartion in Indiana and Texas. The directorate of the corporation also includes Theodore G. Smith, vice president of Central Hanover Bank & Trust Co., of New York City, and Dr. F. L. Thomson, San Antonio, formerly president of Grayburg Oil Co.

Because of labor's increasing share of the total national income, unemployment is by far the dominant factor in intensifying and prolonging the current depression. Wage earners' underconsumption, or inability to consume increasing outputs, has been evaluated by the Standard Statistics Co., of New York, at $8,853,000,000 (exclusive of Government and agricultural workers) as compared with a year ago. The average yearly income of labor has declined from $1,700 to $1,580 during the past twelve months.

Liberty Mutual Insurance Co., of Boston, one of the largest newspaper advertisers in the financial advertising field, was awarded second prize for the most effective insurance advertising of the year by a committee composed of nationally known advertising experts at the annual Insurance Advertising Conference of America at Milwaukee recently.

More than 100 of the leading insurance companies of the country entered exhibits and the company's 1930 publicity program was adjudged second only to that of one other—Standard Accident Insurance Co., Detroit.

William C. Johnson, assistant to the president of the Federal-American National Bank, has returned from his annual vacation.

Norman E. Towson and Austin B. Rohrbaugh, of the Washington Loan & Trust Co., took a business trip to Philadelphia this week by airplane.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, Oct. 16 (A.P.).—Big shipments of wheat from Russia, the largest yet announced this season, led to sudden downturns in wheat values today, despite an earlier upward trend. Russian wheat exports for the week were 4,616,000 bushels and there were advices today that 6,500,000 bushels of Russian wheat were now afloat unsold, with 37,000,000 bushels more wheat ready to clear from Russia in the next seven weeks. Sharp breaks in corn prices today resulted largely from undoing of spread trades between corn and wheat, with consequent heavy selling of corn future deliveries.

Closing quotations on wheat were weak, 1⅛ to 1¼c a bushel lower than yesterday's finish. Corn closed 1⅞ to 2⅜c down, oats ¼ to ⅝c off, and provisions varying from 30c decline to a rise of 37c.

Downturns of prices today for wheat came abruptly after a strong advance with which the market here and at other leading centers had started. The early advance was associated with reports of continued wintry weather in Canada, diminishing the rural movements of wheat there, and damaging the quality of millions of bushels that were likely to remain exposed in the fields throughout the winter, with a large percentage promising to be made worthless. Tending also to lift wheat prices early were official reports that the wheat crop of France was 88,000,000 bushels short this season, compared with a year ago.

Confronted by Russian reports, however, pointing to apparent likelihood of renewed demoralizing of European grain markets, the market for wheat future delivery contracts were broadened out quickly to a material extent, with selling orders predominating. Prices thereafter went downgrade the remainder of the day, and the finish was at the bottommost level reached. Much of the late selling pressure was ascribed to sources Northwest. So far this season, shipments of wheat from ports on the Black Sea, mainly wheat grown in Russia, have totaled 33,440,000 bushels, against but 6,050,000 bushels during the corresponding time last year.

Corn showed independent weakness, influenced a good deal by enlarged arrivals of corn in Chicago and at other leading markets. Primary receipts of corn today amounted to 1,102,000 bushels, compared with 331,000 bushels on week back and 541,000 bushels a year ago. Oats sympathized with the downward course of other grains.

For the most part, provisions were lower with grain and hogs, notwithstanding decreased stocks of lard.

Curb Review

New York, Oct 16 (A.P.).—The more active curb shares reacted moderately in today's stock market, but stock was not pressed for sale on declines.

The action of the list suggested that much of the liquidation represented profit taking by traders who bought at the recent low levels. Trading continued to slacken, and few losses exceeded 2 points. The day's sales aggregated 515,100 shares.

Electric Bond & Share and American Gas lost more than 2 points each, and United Light & Power 1 point. Brazilian Traction, however, closed fractionally higher, as traders appeared to feel that the disturbances in Brazil had been fully discounted by the protracted decline of the stock. American Cities A rallied 2 points.

In the oils, Standard of Ohio dropped 3½ points to a new low at 61, following its announcement of a cut in gasoline prices. Humble and Vacuum sagged about a point to new lows, and Gulf dropped nearly 3. Cities Service eased fractionally. Mining issues were mostly quiet, although Newmont sagged a point to another new low.

In the investment trusts, report of reorganization brought rallies of a point in Prince & Whitely trading, common, and 2 in the preferred. Ungerleider Financial rose 3 points. The Goldman Sachs, Blue Right and Shenandoah group was steady to firm. Selected Industries touched 3½, a new minimum.

Industrials and specialties were quiet and irregular. Aluminum Co. dropped 7½ to a new bottom at 172. Deere sagged a point. Crocker Wheeler, National Aviation and Insurance Co. of North America gained about a point. Ford, Ltd., closed up ¼.

Bank Acceptances Are $1,366,734,157

Increase of $27,350,392 in September Shown by American Council.

New York, Oct. 16 (A.P.).—Bankers acceptances increased $27,356,392 in September to a total of $1,366,734,157 as of September 30, the American Acceptance Council announced today. The amount for September 30 showed an increase of $94,463,612 over the corresponding date last year.

"Under normal conditions," the report said, "the increase during September is rather large and is evenly distributed, indicating the extent of the seasonal demand for acceptance credits for all purposes. In 1928 the gain for September over August was $52,000,000 and in 1929 for the same period the gain was $71,000,000, so that this season's September increase is not only smaller than for the past two years, but is principally identified with the warehouse credit division alone. The influence of the grain stibilization corporation wheat credits of approximately $30,000,000 is clearly evident in the current report. Furthermore, as these credits were against stored grains, the increase of $26,700,000 in warehouse acceptances as of September 30 needs no further explanation."

Important credit acceptances declined $14,000,000 and for the first time in months the bills drawn against goods stored in or shipped between foreign countries declined in value by $3,100,000. Export credit bills increased $6,100,000 and dollar exchange bills were up $9,000,000, while domestic shipment acceptances remained unchanged.

Pollard Inquires Road Fund Policy

Wants to Know if Money for 1932 Will Be Available Before July, 1931.

Richmond, Va., Oct. 16 (A.P.).—Gov. Pollard today wired Secretary of Agriculture Hyde concerning a reported ruling of the Comptroller General that 1932 road funds would not be available to the State until after July 1, 1931. Gov. Pollard's telegram read:

"Baltimore Sun news article today says Comptroller General has ruled against payment 1932 road funds until after July 1, 1931. Kindly wire if this is correct."

Previously Secretary Hyde had announced that the 1932 funds would be available as of September 1, this year, as a drought relief measure. C. S. Mullen, chief engineer of the State highway department, said the department had planned to begin putting the 1932 Federal aid funds, amounting to $2,379,788, under contract on December 1. No notification of a change in the plans to make the money immediately available had been received at the local office of the United States Bureau of Public Roads, officials there said.

CLAIRVOYANTS

608 12th St. N.W.

This strange man sees the way and tells it all. Just what your life has been, just what it will be. Tells you when and whom you will marry; whether husband, wife or sweetheart is true or false. Tells as to changes, travel, loss or absent friends, divorce, wills, deeds; whether it is best to buy or sell. He tells the good and the bad. A visit will convince you of his wonderful power.

Something tells you this is the man. You feel the impulse to call. Do not delay.

WARRANTLESS RAID CASE IS DISMISSED IN DISTRICT COURT

Justice Luhring Sustains Motion to Suppress Evidence So Gained.

DEFENDANT INSTANTLY GIVEN HIS DISCHARGE

Detective Cox, Who Arrested Man, Is Only Wintess Called to Stand.

Warrantless liquor raids received another body blow yesterday in District Supreme Court when Justice Oscar R. Luhring sustained a motion to suppress evidence in the case of Morris Cohn. The defendant was discharged immediately.

Justice Joseph W. Cox, also of the District Supreme Court, recently dismissed a liquor case on a motion to suppress when it was brought out that there was no warrant.

Cox Only Witness.

Cohn was arrested following a raid on his apartment on T street northwest near Fourteenth street by Detective Sergt. Richard Cox and William F. Burke, who at the time was a detective. The raid was conducted May 7, 1928.

Cox was the only witness to testify at the hearing on the motion. He was called to the stand and testified he had received information that liquor was being stored in one of the apartments of the apartment house on T street, near Fourteenth street. He stated that he and another policeman went to the apartment about which they had been informed, but were unable to find any evidence of law violation.

Didn't Wait For Warrant.

After that, Cox declared, he and his associate went into an alley by the apartment house and saw a man pouring a liquid from a container into bottles.

Immediately, Cox testified, he and his associate went to the door of Cohn's apartment without waiting for a warrant and arrested the defendant.

Asked if he knew that the contents of the container being emptied into bottles was liquor, Cox replied that he did not. Justice Luhring immediately sustained the motion to suppress, and the Government entered a nolle prosequi.

Probation sI Given Fish, Milk Robber

Father, 22, Unable to Get Work, Admits to Court Theft From Grocery.

The sympathy of the court was extended to Charles G. Barr, jr., 22 years old, who lives on H street near Sixth street northwest, when he was broguht before Judge John P. McMahon on charges of stealing milk and fish from an H street grocery store yesterday.

Barr told the judge that he was a former Marine and that since his discharge in January he had been unable to find work by which he could support his wife and 2-year-old baby. For two weeks he was a substitute elevator operator in a downtown hotel, he said, getting $15 a week for the work. He admitted taking the fish and milk, adding that he had tried to secure assistance from charity agencies.

Assistant District Attorney Wilbert McInerney told the judge the Government merely placed the facts before the court with no desire to prosecute in view of the circumstances, and the judge placed him on probation for one year, at the same time enlisting the aid of Robert E. L. Smith, assistant probation officer, in securing needed supplies or work.

Remains of Army Officer to Be Brought to Capital From Coast.

Remains of Brig. Gen. James M. Kennedy, formerly in command of the Army Medical Center here, who died in Letterman Hospital at San Francisco, Calif., Wednesday, will be brought to Arlington National Cemetery for burial. Fellow surgeons of the Army Medical School and Walter Reed Hospital will pay tribute to their former commander at the services.

Gen. Kennedy served in Washington from 1926 to December, 1929, when he was retired because of age. Shortly afterward his health began to fail and a short time ago he and Mrs. Kennedy went to California hoping that a change of climate would better his condition. Gen Kennedy died in a hospital which he had formerly commanded.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Mary B. Kennedy, the former Miss Mary E. Baldwin, of Washington; a daughter, Mrs. William B. Kean, and two sons, Lawrence B. and Archibald Boggs Kennedy, formerly of this city. Gen. Kennedy was awarded a Distinguished Service Medal for his work at the Hoboken port of embarkation during the World War and also was the holder of a Navy Cross for similar services.

Man Fractures Ankle In Fleeing Before Raid

Police who were raiding the premises cast such a terror into Edmond Smithwick, 25-year-old colored man living on O street near Tenth street northwest, that he jumped from the second floor of the house to the ground, fracturing his right ankle and foot.

He was taken by police to Freedmen's Hospital, where his foot was treated. Smithwick was later allowed to return to his home. The raid was being made by Second Precinct policemen.

Electric Store Facing $10,000 Damage Suit

Negligence in leaving an open cellar door unprotected by a guard rail is charged in a suit for $10,000 damages filed yesterday in District Supreme Court against Anthony Barbra, trading as Universal Electric Co., at 624 E street northwest.

Lawrence W. Burke, of 334 Indiana avenue northwest, the plaintiff, through Attorney I. Q. H. Alward, alleges that he was walking along E street when he stepped into a hole in front of the defendant's establishment and was precipitated against an iron door leading to the cellar which had been left open. Mr. Burke alleges that he received serious injuries.

Jury's Mistake Gives Man Temporary Glee

Robert L. Parker, on trial in District Supreme Court late yesterday on liquor charges, had a few minutes of glee, thinking he had been acquitted.

The glee arose when the jury filed in and in response to the question of Lee Ashford, the clerk, declared, "Not guilty."

Then Mr. Ashford began to read off the various counts, asking as to the verdict on each. In response to two of the inquiries the jury affirmed the "not guilty" verdict. Then suddenly one of the jurors arose and in a loud voice declared, "That wasn't the verdict we reached in the jury room."

It then developed that the verdict was "guilty."

Pickpocket Pair Sought by Police

Capital Man Complains of Theft of $48 During Trolley Ride.

Two pickpockets who worked among the homegoing office crowd on a Rosslyn-bound street car yesterday afternoon are being sought by police on complaint of George F. Hane, of the firm of Wilcox, Hane & Co., 1422 F street northwest, who was robbed of $48 when his wallet was stolen from a trousers pocket.

Mr. Hane told the police that he boarded the car at Fifteenth and F streets northwest. At it started he noticed a man in a brown suit, wearing a brown felt hat, who seemed to be obstructing the aisle. As the passengers milled about in an effort to comply with the conductor's "move forward, please," Mr. Hane was jostled, presumably by a confederate of the brown-clad individual.

He discovered his loss a few minutes later and reported the incident at No. 7 Police Station, where a lookout was sent for the suspect. Mr. Hane lives at Oak place and Georgetown road, Bethesda, Md.

CURLEY DEDICATES BROTHERS' COLLEGE

De La Salle House of Studies on Queens Chapel Road Scene of Ceremony.

FLAG-RAISING FOLLOWS

Archbishop Michael J. Curley, of Baltimore, yesterday officiated at the dedication of De La Salle College, new house of studies of the Christian Brothers on Queens Chapel road near the District Line.

The new institution, a part of the Catholic University of America, is the principal house of study for Brothers of the Christian School, being completed on the 250th anniversary of the founding of that order.

The structure accommodates over 100 students. A full college course, as well as normal school training, will be given, enabling graduates to carry on the work of Christian education.

Exercises were attended by many dignitaries of the Catholic Church, among whom were Bishop Thomas C. O'Reilly, of Scranton, Pa.; Mgr. James H. Ryan, rector of the Catholic University; Brother Luke, director of the new college, and Bishop Thomas J. Shahan, former rector of the Catholic University, who gave a welcoming address to students of the new school.

A flag raising followed the dedication ceremonies, with 100 cadets from St. John's College, in charge of Col. Hollis C. Clark, participating.

Wife Scalded Him, Says Mate in Suit

W. B. Burroughs Files Plea for Divorce, Naming Corespondent.

Naming a corespondent and alleging that his wife nagged him and had thrown hot water on him, William B. Burroughs, of Columbia road northwest, near Georgia avenue, yesterday asked the District Supreme Court to grant him an absolute divorce from Lillian Burroughs, whose address is given as Park place northeast, near Eleventh street.

Mr. Burroughs describes himself as a bus driver and asserts that his wife made so many accusations against him that he was compelled to leave her. In addition to the corespondent, the husband alleges illicit relations between his wife and a number of unnamed men.

They were married August 23, 1910, and have three children. The husband asks custody of two of the children, explaining that the other is 19 years old and is employed by a local motor company. The wife also is self-supporting, the husband alleges.

Knife Assault Claimed In Wife's Divorce Plea

Eunice V. King, of Tenth street northeast near D street, yesterday filed suit in District Supreme Court, seeking a limited divorce and maintenance from Thomas V. King, described as a garage and filling station operator making $400 a month.

The woman alleges that on August 31, last, her husband remained away all night. He appeared for breakfast the following morning, and suddenly arising from the table, knocked her down and wielded a butcher knife in such a manner as to inflict a cut on her hand, the wife asserts. The wife states that on October 12 her husband packed his clothes and deserted her. They were married April 20, 1922, at Roanoke, Va., and there are two children, according to the wife's bill.

Cooperation Is Urged On Capital Principals

Continuous self-improvement and maintenance of "espirit de corps" were urged by Dr. F. W. Hubbard of the National Education Society at a meeting of elementary principals of the District held in the Franklin School yesterday. Other essentials for improved service, Dr. Hubbard said, are constructive supervision, research, and the publication of research matter for mutual benefit.

Following a discussion on various phases of supervision, it was decided to publish a bulletin on the subject under direction of Miss. M. R. Pepper, Miss Elsie E. Green and E. D. Reed.

Driver Says He Fled Fatal Crash After Hearing Shots

One-Legged, One-Eyed Washington Autoist, on Trial in Baltimore, Also Denies Firing at Policeman Following Accident.

Edward R. Downey, one-legged and one-eyed chauffeur of Third street near D street northwest, told Judge Robert F. Stanton, of Baltimore, yesterday that he fled from the scene of a fatal accident in which his automobile figured August 24 because he heard several pistol shots and became frightened.

He denied that the accident which resulted in the death of Dr. Charles E. Chapman, of Bangor, Me., was due to reckless driving on his part, and contended that it was due to the excessive speed of a taxicab that also figured in the crash. He also denied having fired several shots at a patrolman who gave chase when Downey fled.

Testimony at the trial of the Washingtonian on charges of manslaughter and assault with intent to kill was taken today in the Criminal Court. Judge Stanton withheld his verdict until Monday, explaining that he wanted time to consider the testimony.

The accident occurred at Barre and Hanover streets in Baltimore. Downey, who was accompanied by M. J. Comer and another man identified only as Bill, both of Washington, was driving west.

His car struck the left rear wheel of the taxicab, which was bound south and being driven by Walter Landgraff. The latter vehicle was hurled against a white way light post and overturned.

Dr. Chapman, passenger in the cab, was killed almost instantly. Landgraff was injured slightly. The man identified as Bill jumped from Downey's car, the Washingtonian testified, and ran toward the overturned taxi. At the same moment, Downey said, he heard shots and becoming frightened, fled. He was pursued by Patrolman James McCurran, who commandeered another taxicab.

During a chase of almost a mile the patrolman fired several times and Downey is alleged to have fired twice in return. The accused, however, denied the shooting. The patrolman likewise denied that there had been any shooting until Downey attempted to escape.

Neither Downey nor Comer, who was called to the stand by the defense, was able to tell the court where Bill lives or where he could be located. Downey, who said he had served as an ambulance driver overseas during the World War, declared he had met Bill while working in Washington.

Judge Stanton asked Downey how, if he had served overseas, a couple of shots could have frightened him. The accused replied that he "guessed it was, because I served overseas that I was frightened."

HITZ BALKS SMITH LAWYERS' PLEA TO QUIZ GRAND JURORS

Introduction of Transcript of Testimony Also Barred by Judge.

CONSPIRACY CHARGES FACE FORMER OFFICIALS

Man, Saying He Was U. S. Aid, Admits Making Record of Witneses' Words.

Efforts of attorneys for the four officials of the F. H. Smith Co., under indictment on charges of conspiracy to embezzle $5,000,000 of the company funds and to destroy records, to obtain an "inside" view of what transpired in the grand jury room before the true bill was found, failed yesterday in District of Columbia Supreme Court.

Justice William Hitz, who is presiding at the hearing on pleas in abatement to the indictment, refused the efforts of defense attorneys to question the members of the grand jury and to compel the Government to introduce a transcript of the stenographic record of the testimony of witnesses who appeared before the inquisitorial body.

The defense, however, won one point when H. W. Syfrig, who described himself as a special assistant to the Attorney General during the time the case was before the grand jury, admitted that he had made stenographic records of the testimony of witnesses and in the absence of Nugent Dodds, also a special assistant to the Attorney General, questioned witnesses in preliminary matters.

Defense Scores Again.

The defense also scored when Attorney Frank G. Raichle, who, with Attorneys Wilton J. Lambert, R. H. Yeatman and Harry S. Barger, represent the quartet of defendants, gained from the witness the admission that the transcript of testimony before the grand jury had been written each night for Mr. Dodds' information and then gained an admission that the transcript of testimony often was not put into printed form for several days.

Mr. Syfrig declared he was employed by the Government for about seventeen days as a special assistant to the Attorney General. He stated in answer to Mr. Raichle's questioning that he was a qualified member of the District Bar and also a stenographer.

He declared that he first talked to Louis Loeble, of the Bureau of Investigation of the Department of Justice, and later to Mr. Dodds, but refused to admit that Mr. Loeble had employed him. He stated that during the period he worked he was paid $20 a day, but declined to state what the average pay of a court stenographer was.

Pitt's Secretary Testifies.

In addition to the testimony of Mr. Syfrig the only other high light of the day's hearing was the testimony of Miss Helen Schneider, formerly private secretary of G. Bryan Pitts, former chairman of the board of the company. She testified that Pitts left New York for Palm Beach about January 15 last. It was later brought out by Mr. Dodds and Assistant United States Attorney Neil Burkinshaw that Mr. Pitts, in one of his pleas in abatement, had made a declaration that he knew to his "personal knowledge" of things that occurred in New York four days later.

Pitts, Samuel J. Henry, former president, and C. Elbert Anadale and John H. Edwards, jr., former vice presidents of the company, are named in the indictment.

While the jury was excluded Wednesday, the testimony of John Farquhar, one-time secretary to Mr. Pitts, was taken. It was not introduced into the record of the proceedings yesterday, and interest was aroused in court circles as to whether it would be, since the witness was called by the defense and testified for the Government.

Instructed to Burn Record.

Mr. Farquhar testified that he had been instructed by Pitts, Mr. Henry and Mr. Anadale to burn the records of the Hamilton Hotel Corporation and certain other records which are believed to relate to allegations in the conspiracy indictment.

Justice Hitz told attorneys for the defense and Government yesterday that he had never heard of a case where depositions were taken publicly, and asked the jurors who had read the accounts of Mr. Farquhar's testimony to disregard it until it was placed in the record.

Attorney Raichle indicated that the defense would rest at noon today and Assistant United States Attorney Burkinshaw intimated that the Government was prepared to let the case go to the jury without testimony on the part of the Government.

The defense is attacking the indictment on many questions of alleged fact, chief of which is that evidence presented to the jury was by unlawful entry of two Department of Justice investigators into the Smith company's New York offices and that the Government had a stenographer in the grand jury room.

Smith Officer Alleges Paper Illegally Served

Assertions that the F. H. Smith Co. is a Delaware corporation, has no local representatives and therefore is not subject to suit in the District of Columbia, featured two motions to quash service of two suits for receivership and injunction filed recently in District of Columbia Supreme Court.

William R. Baum, an official of the organization now in charge of the company, in an attached affidavit declares he was illegally served with the notice of the suits. Mr. Baum states that he was in Washington at the courthouse in connection with another matter when a deputy marshal handed him the papers. He asserts that he should have been given an opportunity to leave the District since he had come here in answer to another matter before the court auditor.

Attorneys Wilton J. Lambert, R. H. Yeatman and George D. Horning, jr., appear for the company.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

THE WORLD SERIES PLAYER COMES HOME.

(The scene is the little home of a baseball player just back from his first appearance in a world series.)

WIFE (who expected him sooner)—Hello, dear. Where've you been?

Player—Where've I been? Me in a world series and you ask a question like that, Ella!

Wife—I mean, what detained you?

Player—It was hard to get a train on account of the crowds.

Wife—You look terrible. Didn't you have no party with the boys after the last game?

Player—Naw! The boys threw a party but I was too tired. It was a tough series, honey.

* * * *

WIFE—Don't lie to me. I can tell when you been drinking.

Player—Lissen, I didn't take a drink. I tell you I was too tired. I came right home.

Wife—Tired from what?

Wife (sarcastically)—Yeah, but I didn't see your name mentioned.

Player—I was mentioned plenty in the big town rags. The editors in this burg didn't know there was a world series.

* * * *

WIFE—How'd you go?

Player (cautiously)—Didn't you listen in to the games on the radio?

Wife (also sparring)—I listened to a couple.

Player—Which ones?

Wife—To the second and third.

Player (boldly)—I was a wow in the first, fourth, fifth and sixth!

* * * *

WIFE—Didja get any home runs?

Player (wondering what she has read)—I was hitting pretty good.

Wife—I say, did you get any home runs?

Player—I got three or four, but the umps called 'em foul balls. They was fair by a mile. You shoulda heard the crowd boo 'em.

Player—Them sporting editors is jokes.

* * * *

WIFE—I didn't see no pictures of you in the papers?

Player—Not in these local rags. You shoulda see the big town papers! They had me two column wide.

Wife—What for?

Player—There was a big line under the picture sayin' I was an outstanding menace.

Wife—Was it a knock or a boost?

Player—Lissen, baby, they can't call a baseball player anything sweeter than an outstanding menace. That's what they tag on Babe Ruth.

Wife—If anybody called me that I would want to know what they meant. I read sumpin about you dropping a ball in the sun and striking out with the bases full.

Player—I didn't drop no ball in no sun. That time I struck out it was on called strikes. The umpire was sore at me.

Wife—Graham McNamee said you were caught asleep off first in the second game. He said you must been drugged.

Player—That McNamee is crazy. I wasn't anywhere near first.

Wife—I thought not!

Player—I wasn't anywhere near first in that particular inning, I mean.

* * * *

WIFE—Well, hand it over.

Player—Hand what over?

Wife—The series money. How much did you get?

Player—We each got $3,875.50.

Wife—The newspapers said each player's share was $4,576.25.

Player—Can't newspapers make a mistake?

Wife—Lissen, they can't all make mistakes. I got seven clippings and they all give your share as $4,576.25.

Player (seeing he is beaten)—Well, I tell ya, honey, after the last game I got in a little poker game with a coupla the boys and . . .

Collateral Lost By Radio Singer

Mrs. Ernst Forfeits $5 on Charge of Parking Double.

Mrs. Shirley Ernst, radio singer, who resisted when Private L. D. Johnson, of the Traffic Bureau, tried to arrest her Wednesday night on a charge of violating a traffic regulation, yesterday forfeited $5 which she posted as collateral on a charge of parking double. The woman lives on Devonshire place, near Connecticut avenue.

The incident took place at Thirteenth and F streets, and a huge crowd congregated as Johnson, who called other policemen to his aid, was trying to persuade the woman to accompany him to the First Precinct. During the quarrel which ensued, Mrs. Ernst rolled the windows in her sedan to the top and resisted efforts of the police to get her out until her husband came to the scene.

Policeman C. Langdon, who attempted to lower the car window, had his fingers bitten, and Johnson was pummeled with the lady's shoe and fists when he attempted to pull her from the car. Both policemen refused to place charges of assault against the woman.

MOSQUITO CONTROL WORK RAN INSECTS OUT OF CITY, CLAIM

DRAINING SOGGY SPOTS PROVED HELP IN "WAR"

2,827 Catch-Basins Were Treated Each Week, Report Shows.

By spraying about 3,050 gallons of gas oil wherever breeding places were found, the Office of Public Buildings and Parks practically eliminated mosquitoes from the District this summer, it was reported by Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d, director.

In addition to the oil sprays, mosquito control work was carried on by draining soggy spots and cutting weeds along stream banks in unimproved areas, Col. Grant reported. He stated that the number of breeding places and the amount of larvae found were amazing.

The larvae were "drowned," Col. Grant explains, by applying oil to streams and catch basins or any stagnant water where mosquitoes might breed. Their syphons not being able to penetrate the oil film and reach the air, the larvae were drowned within fifteen minutes after spraying.

Col. Grant declared that conditions this year were aggravated by the long dry spell, which caused the formation of stagnant pools where mosquitoes could breed, which normally would not exist because running water would pass through the low spots.

Drought Increased Work.

About 10 miles of streams in Rock Creek Park were sprayed once each week, and in addition eight five-gallon drip cans were installed along the creek and tributaries which were regulated to drip at about the rate of 30 drops per minute. It was found that the oil stream penetrated under tree stumps and weed growths along the sides of streams where the sprayers could not reach. During the summer 725 catch basins were added in various public building areas, making a total of 2,827 catch basins which were sprayed once each week.

These added basins were found on the Capitol Grounds, Treasury Annex, Library Grounds, Senate and House Office Buildings, Union Station Postoffice, Government Printing Office, Freedmen's Hospital, National Institute of Health, Customs House in Georgetown, Bureau of Printing and Engraving, Auditor's Building, Veterans' Bureau and the Department of Agriculture grounds.

Other catch basins where mosquito control was carried on were located at the Smithsonian Institution, Monument Grounds, East and West Potomac Parks, the Ellipse, Treasury Building, new Department of Commerce Building, White House Grounds, Navy and Munitions Building, Washington Tourist Camp, Anacostia Park, Lincoln Park, Stanton Park, Garfield Park, Willow Tree Park, the Capitol group of buildings and grounds, Peace Monument, Botanic Garden, East and West Seaton Parks, Henry Park, Judiciary Park, Mount Vernon Park and Franklin Park.

Other Catch Basins Sprayed.

The work was conducted also at Iowa, Washington and Sheridan Circles, McPherson, Farragut, Lafayette and Rawlins Parks, the old Wisconsin avenue reservoir, Georgetown Playground, Montrose Park, the Zoo, practically all of the permanent and temporary governmental buildings and about a dozen public office buildings.

"The results obtained in our mosquito control work this season," said Col. Grant, "have certainly justified the expenditure made for the purpose. During the hot months of the past summer the public used the parks very extensively, even to the extent of sleeping in them, and their enjoyment was increased by the mosquito control work. The results of this work were reflected throughout the entire District of Columbia and the general public derived the benefit thereof by having less trouble from mosquitoes than ever before."

The work is to be extended even more widely next season, it was stated.
